

'You'll Swing for This'

The Farmer ... The Fox And the Duke

By EDDY GILMORE
BADMINTON, England — Gad sir, it's unthinkable—the Queen's prime horsemen ordered off the land with his fox hounds in full cry.

Unthinkable, but it happened.

The Duke of Beaufort, official master of the horse to the Queen, set off on horse, with 90 baying hounds about him.

At his right was the joint master of the famous Beaufort hunt, Maj. Gerald Grundy.

As they galloped across the duke's 17,000-acre estate they saw the canny fox head onto 60 acres owned by farmer Colin Robertson.

Maj. Grundy galloped after the fox. The duke charged after the major.

"Bang," went a shotgun.

Relating Wednesday's incident to reporters, farmer Robertson said:

"I shot the fox. I had to put him out of misery. The dogs would have torn him to pieces in a moment."

SENDS DUKE HOME

"I told them to get off my land," said the farmer. "The duke told me not to be silly, but I got hold of the bridle of his horse and led him off. He wasn't very pleased."

Robertson said the major shouted "you'll swing for this."

Said a spokesman for the British Field Sports Society:

"It was terribly unbecoming for the major."

The major's wife said: "It was all too awful. Too awful for him to talk about."

The incident over — but hardly closed—his grace rode back to his stately home, Badminton House, to greet the Queen, who will be his guest for the next three days.

The occasion is the annual Badminton horse trial, the great annual gathering of the horsey set.

Test Proposal Turned Down

GENEVA—Russia today proposed an unofficial moratorium on nuclear weapons tests. Britain and the United States immediately turned down the proposal.

The two Western powers told the 17-nation general disarmament conference they could not trust the Soviet Union to observe such a moratorium.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin charged the United States plan to resume atmospheric nuclear tests in mid-Pacific later this month is "increasing international tension."

The U.S. decision to test again came under heavy fire. Canada and Mexico were among those expressing regret.

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, the Canadian delegate who presided at today's conference session, said "the hour is getting late" to prevent a new testing race. He urged a last-ditch effort to break the deadlock.

The smaller countries asked the nuclear powers to seek a compromise on the nuclear testing issue. They said any new explosions now would damage the chances of this conference ever attaining any fruitful results—a claim Zorin also picked up.

The United States has said Western security requires the Pacific tests unless the Soviet Union promptly accepts a test ban treaty containing adequate international enforcement arrangements. This the Russians have refused to do.

For more than three years the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union observed a moratorium on testing. That arrangement collapsed last fall when the Russians set off a massive series of explosions.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean and British Minister of State Joseph Gopher took the position that having been fooled once by Soviet promises their governments were not prepared to be fooled a second time.

Dean said that, with regret, "we do not have any confidence in a Soviet pledge." Gopher answered with an unqualified "no" when Zorin asked him if the British would accept a moratorium.

All the smaller nations at the conference showed varying degrees of displeasure with the big nuclear powers for failing to agree on a test ban treaty. This attitude was particularly marked among the eight middle group nations—Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic.

'Didn't Want to Tread on B.C.'s Toes'—Fulton

Price Rollback Aim of U.S. Steel Probes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration today whipped up two congressional investigations and a price-fixing probe in swift counterblows at the steel industry's price increase.

Court action against steel-makers also was a possibility.

Spurred by President Kennedy's scathing assault on what he called the "holy unjustifiable and irresponsible" act of "a tiny handful of steel executives," the administration and Democratic legislators set out to:

1. Force a rollback, if possible, of the $6-a-ton boost posted Tuesday by U.S. steel corporation and adopted with alacrity by its biggest competitors.
2. Discourage a similar price increase in aluminum, steel's chief competitor, now that steel has opened the breach in Kennedy's program of voluntary stabilization.
3. Pave the way for possible legislation giving the government a stronger hand in its wage-setting and price-fixing processes.
4. Retain, if possible, the co-operation of labor in the anti-inflation drive by showing that the administration meant business in demanding the same restraint of management as it asked of unions.
5. Expose the price increase—termed by U.S. Steel a modest "catch-up adjustment"—but denounced by Kennedy as a ruthless profit grab—to such pitiless scrutiny and publicity as might deter other firms and industries.

ATTACKS INCREASE

With no voluntary price rollback expected from big steel, attention shifted to:

Congress, which rang Wednesday with bi-partisan attacks on the price rise, and where two steel investigations were quickly scheduled.

The government's watchdog agencies of monopoly, the justice department and the Federal Trade Commission.

Attorney General Kennedy said court action is one of several approaches on which the justice department is already at work. Presumably he referred to price-fixing charges.

The FTC said it is investigating, among other things, whether any companies have violated a 1951 consent order prohibiting steel price-fixing conspiracies.

More than 70 major steel corporations agreed in that case to refrain from price-fixing, although none admitted FTC's charge that they had done so.

Should the commission find evidence of collusion now, it would ask a federal court to invoke any of several penalties. The toughest would be a $5,000 a day fine for each offence. FTC views each sale at a conspiracy-fixed price as a separate offence.

In Congress today the Republican leadership charged that spending by the Kennedy administration—rather than a rise in steel prices—poses the biggest danger of inflation. Democrats rallied quickly to the president, denouncing steel's action.

Welsh Mine Explosion Kills Nine

ABERDARE, Wales (Reuters)—Nine men were killed and nine injured today when an explosion hit a coal mine near here.

Two of the dead were the chairman and secretary of the local mine union on a routine inspection of working conditions.

The explosion 1,200 feet underground hit 20 men who were having a mid-morning tea break about a half-mile from the other 400 miners in the pit.

Gas in a nine-foot seam ignited, shooting flames along the underground tunnels.

It was Britain's second mining disaster within a month. Nineteen men were killed and 36 injured in an explosion March 22 in the Hapton Valley colliery, in northwest England.

Socialite's Death In New York Probed

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry Ogden Phipps, 31, son of socially prominent Ogden Phipps and Mrs. Marshall Field III, was found dead Wednesday in a Manhattan hotel suite under what police called mysterious circumstances.

An autopsy was ordered.

Phipps' body—which bore no marks of violence—was found in an eighth-floor suite of the Hamilton Hotel on West 73rd Street. He registered there last Feb. 13. Phipps had an apartment only several blocks away on Central Park West.

CANADIAN CAR PRICES LIKELY TO INCREASE

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian automobile manufacturers said today it is too early to predict the effects of steel price increases by United States suppliers.

They said, however, that any material cost increase is eventually reflected in the car-market price.

Indications from Canada's Big Three car manufacturers are that the cost of automobiles will go up next year if U.S. President Kennedy is unable to force a rollback of the $6-a-ton increase announced Tuesday.

... major speech likely

PM Due Here On April 28

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected in Victoria April 28.

The visit will come in the midst of a flurry of local election activity with nomination of a Victoria Conservative candidate on April 26.

Local Tory officials said today they expect the prime minister to make a public speech here, but no definite arrangements have yet been made.

Mr. Diefenbaker will make a major public speech on April 27 at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver.

If his federal election campaign is not already underway by then, he is expected to launch it on the west coast as he did in 1957, when the Tories first swept back to power.

The prime minister originally planned to visit Victoria for the quarterly meeting of the B.C. Conservative party executive.

This meeting has now been shifted to Vancouver, but he is still expected here afterwards.

The Victoria nominating convention is planned at 8 p.m. April 26 in the Britannia Branch Legion auditorium.

Victoria's present M.P., A. DeB. McPhillips, will run again. Also seeking the nomination is W. C. Gelling, former chairman of the Greater Victoria school board.

WIRE BRIEFS

Grain Quotas Ended

OTTAWA (CP)—All quotas on deliveries of western grain have been removed. E. M. Esdale, chief of the grain division of the trade department, told a Senate committee today.

Routine Business

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan legislature continued with routine business today, without mention of the breakdown in talks between the province's doctors and the government on the province's proposed medical care plan.

Youth Kills Father

RAPID CITY, S.D. (UPI)—An 18-year-old youth shot and killed his father, while his mother and two younger brothers watched in horror, "because he was picking on Mom" Sheriff Glenn Best said today. Harlan Mehrer called police about 5:45 p.m. Wednesday and said "I've just shot my father. I'll wait until an officer gets here."

Friction Stays On Columbia

HANNA, Alta. (CP)—Canada would have been better off with a Columbia River treaty drawn according to Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton's wishes, Justice Minister Fulton said Wednesday.

Mr. Fulton said in an interview that it was not possible to draw the treaty in the manner Gen. McNaughton desired without treading on British Columbia's toes.

The general, who retires at age 75 Sunday as head of the International Joint Commission that hammered out a

MONTEITH

Federal Justice Minister Fulton will make a public speech Friday at Sidney.

Mr. Fulton will open a new Federal Customs Building at the Sidney ferry terminal at 3 p.m.

Lieutenant-Governor George Peck will be among guests at the ceremony.

Columbia treaty, wanted a diversion of the Kootenay River included in the Canada-United States power development project, Mr. Fulton said.

He said B.C. opposed the move because it conflicted with provincial interests in the development scheme.

Gen. McNaughton last week protested his retirement, saying he was being "forced out," and charged that Canadian interests had been sold down the river in the treaty negotiations. He said part of the blame should be placed on the dispute over the Columbia between B.C. and the federal government.

GENERAL UNHAPPY

Mr. Fulton, who led the Canadian-delegation that settled terms of the treaty, said the general's charges probably were a result of his unhappiness about his retirement.

The political storm caused by Gen. McNaughton's remarks probably would not have any effect on the federal government's relationship with B.C. on the Columbia project, he said.

The B.C. government's stand on the Columbia had moderated recently, Mr. Fulton said, but it still was too early to predict an end to the friction.

Mr. Fulton declined to predict whether the federal government would make concessions to British Columbia because the new position of the province had not yet been fully analyzed.

Mr. Fulton was in Hanna, 100 miles northeast of Calgary, during a nomination meeting that gave Jack Horner, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Acadia, a chance to defend his seat in the next election.

Welfare research grants would be made available on a non-matching basis while the general welfare and professional training grants will mainly be on a matching basis with the provinces.

NEW MEASURE

"Nothing like this has ever been done in Canada before and I hope that there will be discussions with provincial authorities in the near future with a view to obtaining their full co-operation in an endeavor which I believe will strengthen tremendously Canada's welfare efforts," Mr. Monteith said.

Mr. Monteith said the grant for general welfare and professional training will start at a level of $450,000 for the 1962-63 fiscal year and increase at a rate of $450,000 annually for five years, reaching $2,250,000 by 1966-67. The welfare research grant will begin at a level of $50,000 in 1962-63 and increase at a rate of $50,000 annually for five years, reaching $250,000 in 1966-67.

Carpenters' Union Cited In Violation

VANCOUVER (CP)—A special vice-presidential committee of the Canadian Labor Congress today cited the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners for violation of CLC policy.

Under the congress constitution, the penalty could be suspension from the CLC and possibly expulsion of a vote of the CLC convention under way here.

So far the charge of policy violation has not been acted on by the executive council of the congress.

The issue was expected to come before the convention later today.

APRIL 12

Preliminary hearing was held in police court into the case of Aime Marchand, assayer (see April 7, 10, 11) and Magistrate Pemberton deemed the evidence strong enough to send Marchand for trial to the Assizes.

M. Munro was charged in city police court with riding at a rate faster than a walk across one of the new bridges, but was let off with a warning. William Jackson, a colored teamster, was fined 20 shillings for trotting a team of horses across the long bridge.

Mr. Rudell, who arrived recently from Canada, said 500 Canadians may be expected a steamer or two hence, all bound for the Cariboo, and all adequately equipped with money.

The International Hotel, Yates Street, owned by T. Chadwick, announced that its weekly rates henceforth would be $5 for board, $3 for board and lodging. (AP Wirephoto).

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

(Times News Services)

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy quipped at a state dinner Wednesday night that he and his guest of honor, the Shah of Iran, have a common "burden"—beautiful wives who steal the spotlight.

Toasting the Shah and his 23-year-old queen, who glittered from head to toe with diamonds and emeralds, the President said:

"His Highness and I have a burden that we carry in common; we both paid state visits to Paris last year, and from all accounts we might as well both have stayed home."

MOSCOW — A Carolina duck native to North America and Cuba has been shot in the Caucasus region of the Soviet Union, the news agency Tass reported today.

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—A Negro girl, who lay injured in a street about 15 minutes while a white ambulance driver watched and waited for a Negro ambulance to show up, was improved today but still remained in serious condition.

Mary Louise Butler, eight, was struck by a truck Wednesday and 15 minutes elapsed before the white ambulance company rushed her to the hospital.

Investigating officer Roy Farnell said whoever called for the ambulance called a white ambulance company, "probably thinking the child was white." He said he heard the call on his police radio on the way to the scene.

Upon arriving and finding the victim to be a Negro, Farnell said he suggested a Negro ambulance be dispatched.

LONDON — A son of the third Earl of Cowley said Wednesday he and his wife are taking jobs as butler and housekeeper.

Gerald Wellesley told newsmen he enjoys the idea of being a butler "and I think I'll make a darn good one."

He is a direct descendant of the Duke of Wellington and was a race horse trainer in Ireland until his barns burned down last year.

His wife is becoming housekeeper for Sir Harry Pilkington for whom Wellesley will work. "I like cooking. One has to do something in life and this is as good as any," she said.

MONTICELLO — A mile-long stretch of road here is clean today because of two litterbugs.

Sheriff Charles Miller gave two men he caught dumping waste paper on the road a choice of prosecution or a three-hour cleanup job. They swept.

LONDON — Love and a trans-Atlantic telephone call cut a pretty young Pittsburgh woman's European trip to 30 minutes Wednesday night.

Pan-American World Airways officials said Joy Stock of Pittsburgh had just arrived aboard a trans-Atlantic jet flight when she received a telephone call from Pennsylvania.

On the line was her boy friend. He proposed marriage. Miss Stock gasped a quick "Yes," hung up and dashed from the phone booth.

She took off by plane for New York after having spent 30 minutes in Europe.

LONDON — Mrs. Elizabeth Foyle was granted a divorce from George Foyle Wednesday on cruelty charges because — among other things — he kept a ferocious lion in a cage in their garden.

Said 38-year-old Mrs. Foyle: "The lion never seemed to stop roaring. I was scared out of my wits every night."

LONDON — A big baboon being flown to the United States broke out of its cage at London airport today but was shot and killed by police.

The airport resembled an armed camp during the search for the hulking male monkey, powerful enough to "tear a man to bits," according to one police officer.

The baboon was tracked down in a nearby grass field. Airport officials said it had to be shot because "it was too dangerous — it could not be recaptured safely."

Kennedy 'Fighting To Defend Dollar'

LONDON, (UPI) — British and European newspapers today gave prominent display to the steel price increase in the United States and President Kennedy's subsequent attack on the steel industry.

The Manchester Guardian carried the story on page 1 under the headline, "Kennedy attacks U.S. steel firms."

In Rome, Il Popolo, the organ of Premier Amintore Fanfani's governing Christian Democratic Party, described the increase as a "criminal action — no other objective is possible."

The financial editor of the Guardian said that in making his "anguished protest," Kennedy is "fighting to defend the dollar."

The Guardian said Kennedy appears to be trying to isolate the steel manufacturers and halt the spread of price increases.

"The president is bodily rejecting the right of private enterprise to put profits and even modernization before the nation's need for stable prices,"

The newspaper said. "Here is a homeric clash that may loom large in future American history books."

The increase brought the

slightly over $156 a U.S. ton

(2,000 pounds). The average price in Britain for heavy and medium steel plate was quoted

today at $117.60 per long ton

(2,240 pounds). The average

Italian price for fine carbon steel was given as $112 a metric ton, in ingots; $147.20 a metric ton, in blooms; and $166.40 to $168 a metric ton, in bars. (One metric ton is equivalent to 0.98421 English or long ton).

French steel was quoted to-

of $89.12 per metric ton.

In Sweden, common construction steel sells at an average price of $121 per metric

THREE BUSY WEEKS

Regional Festival Opening Tonight

By AUDREY JOHNSON

By Saturday night Victoria will have experienced three solid weeks of festivals of drama and music.

A one-act play festival for this South Vancouver Island region opens at Oak Bay Junior High School tonight and will continue Friday and Saturday. It overlaps the wind-up of the music festival and follows within two weeks the Dominion Drama Festival B.C. Regional.

Miss Anne Mossman, well known on Vancouver Island for fine work in speech training and dramatic production, will adjudicate the one-act festival.

Tonight's program will consist of two plays, Terence Rattigan's "Harlequinade" by St. Luke's Players, and "Shadow of the Past," by the Old Vic Players.

Friday, Windsor Players present "White Butterfly," and St. Matthias Little Theatre Society another long play by Rattigan, "The Browning Version." St. Andrew's Cathedral Drama Club will appear with "Stolen Identity."

Two plays, one a classic, comprise Saturday's program. "Sisters McIntosh" is the second entry of Windsor Players, and the Old Vic group, will present John Millington Synge's "Riders to the Sea."

Following these two plays, Miss Mossman will name winners of several group and individual awards.

All performances begin at 8 p.m.

'WHATCHA GOT, MAC?' WINS CARTOON AWARD

TORONTO—Montreal Star cartoonist, Ed McNally, whose work appears frequently on the editorial page of the Victoria Times, was named today as winner of a National Newspaper Award of the Toronto Men's Press Club.

Mr. McNally's winning cartoon shows Finance Minister Fleming kibitzing on a poker game where Prime Minister Macmillan has most of the chips against Europe's Inner Six.

Fleming is peering at Macmillan's hand and asking: "Whatcha got there, Mac?"

Bank Asked Why Unionist Fired

VANCOUVER—Trial of the Bank of Montreal on charges of intimidation and dismissing an employee because of his union activities has been adjourned while the court decides whether the bank should produce documents concerning the employee.

The bank, represented by lawyer Walter S. Owen, pleaded not guilty Wednesday to the charges laid by Marsh W. Black of the Bank Employees' Association, Local 387 of the Office Employees' International Union.

Mr. Black claims he was fired from his $3,700-a-year job as a clerk last October after 27 years' service in the bank. At the time of his dismissal he was launching a campaign to organize bank employees.

Mr. Owen objected to two subpoenas asking the bank to produce all documents relating to Black and his union activities.

NO SYNDICATE HERE

VANCOUVER—An increase in illegal bookmaking in Canada's prairie provinces indicates syndicated crime is creeping west, West Vancouver police chief Moir MacBrayne said Wednesday.

But he said there was no indication syndicated crime has hit British Columbia.

DOG FOUND BOMB

CRESTON—An RCMP tracking dog carried a bomb in its mouth the night the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's Riondel power pylon was destroyed, a preliminary hearing was told Wednesday.

Seven Sons of Freedom Doukhobors were committed for trial after the two-day hearing. They are charged with conspiring to place bombs and actually placing the bombs which felled the 366-foot tower.

Const. George Hawkins, dog-master, told Magistrate Harold Langston that the dog Story, after going through the debris, came towards him with the time device of a live bomb in its mouth.

PLEASE DON'T DIE

KAMLOOPS — Dabbling his eyes with a handkerchief,

15-year-old Bobby Haywood testified Wednesday at the non-capital murder trial of his father, 38-year-old John Haywood, charged with the gunshot death of his wife.

Mrs. Margaret Haywood, 36, died in hospital Dec. 1 from a gunshot wound.

Young Bobby told the court he was awakened by the gun shot. Moments later he saw "my mom lying on the floor and my dad bent over her."

He said he heard his father say: "Who loaded the gun?" and "Please don't die."

His father had called an ambulance and accompanied his mother to hospital.

Mr. Justice A. E. Lord is presiding over the assize court trial.

NO VICTORIA TRIP

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Electric, now that it has disappeared into the new B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, has withdrawn financial support for the annual visit of Lower Mainland secondary school students to the legislature in Victoria. The BCE used to contribute $2,000 for the trip. More than 2,000 students have visited Victoria since the plan started in 1950.

Nina Decides to Remain Through Pageant Shuffle

Victoria Nina Holden has decided to stay on as Miss Canada following the replacement of the Miss Canada pageant promoters.

The 18-year-old beauty had previously said she was considering abdicating from her position because of alleged non-fulfilment of promises by the promoters in Toronto.

Wednesday, a number of directors of the organization resigned on "a matter of policy", and one said the pageant was broke.

A new company, Markey-Brooks Productions, has taken over, and Miss Holden will spend two months here while it organizes a program.

COMING TO CITY

Nina's mother, Mrs. E. T. Holden, 465 Selkirk, will fly to Vancouver Saturday to meet her daughter and the two will return, arriving at Pat Bay at 1.20 p.m.

Although Mrs. Holden said Nina "sounded quite happy" over the telephone Wednesday, actions of the old promotional group still rankled.

"It got to the point where I was taking orders from everybody. One would tell me to do something then one of the others would be on my back about it."

"I just said the heck with it and told them I was going to quit."

The new group will pay Miss Holden $50 a week while she relaxes here and will then submit a program of public appearances for her approval.

Al Buchan, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce which sponsors the Miss Victoria contest, said affiliate clubs in the east would look over the new company.

"We had no idea that things had come to such a pass with the old organization," he said, but admitted that his club had helped persuade the group to pay Miss Holden some back salary last Christmas.

CHARGED IN N.Y. SWINDLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The district attorney's office has accused a Canadian tenor of swindling his singing teacher of $2,500 and trying to swindle opera star Nell Rankin of $3,200.

The Canadian, Charles King, 24, was booked on charges of grand larceny and attempted grand larceny.

Police Hunt Laundromat Knife Wielder

Saanich police today are still looking for a man after an incident involving a knife threat at a laundromat at Burnside and Wascana Wednesday night.

Jack Gulliford, 409 Dunedin, told police he had just left the laundromat when a man came up to him with a drawn knife. After threatening him, the man went inside and threatened one of two women customers.

"He said he'd shoot us," Mr. Gulliford said.

Mrs. Florence Peverett, 3161 Wascana, the threatened woman, gave a dime to Mrs. Joy Lowe, 835 Violet, and asked her to call the police.

When Mrs. Lowe moved towards the telephone, the man with the knife walked out, got into a car, and was driven away.

Mr. Gulliford described the knife as eight or more inches long.

Police said they know the identity of the man with the knife—they were already looking for him on a different matter.

Destroyers Near End Of Trip

The destroyers of the RCN Pacific Command's Second Canadian Escort Squadron will return to Esquimalt one week from today, after a three-and-one-half-month training cruise in Asiatic waters.

HMC Ships Assiniboine, Margaree and Ottawa have only a fueling stop at Adak, Alaska, before the last leg of a voyage covering 20,000 miles.

Highlight of the cruise took place in the Indian Ocean, when the Canadian ships joined with units of other Commonwealth navies in Jet-62, an intensive maritime warfare training exercise which involved more than 50 ships.

In addition, goodwill calls were made at several Asiatic ports, including Colombo, Ceylon; Bangkok, Thailand; Kuala Lumpur, Malaya; Rangoon, Burma; Hong Kong and Singapore.

The destroyers will berth at HMC Dockyard at 10 a.m.

Greater Victoria's four civic leaders split today in their initial reaction to a Community Welfare Council report urging establishment of a joint parks and recreation commission for the whole area.

The 66-page report, which took 18 months to compile, was endorsed at the CWC annual meeting Wednesday night.

It cited better recreational facilities in many other Canadian cities and criticized Greater Victoria's "singular lack of public recreation services, program and leadership provided by municipal authorities."

The report's chief recommendation was that the four councils establish a joint commission to co-ordinate and expand recreational and park facilities here.

But the first response of civic leaders showed it may have to settle for one of its lower-priority suggestions—that Victoria and Saanich set up a joint scheme at least.

Oak Bay Happy 'As Is'

Reeve Murdoch pointed out his municipality has had a recreation commission for several years "and it is working out well so we're quite happy with our own set-up."

"I can't see any more big boards—they all want money for this and that because they don't have to find it. There are enough big boards now," he said.

Reeve Wurtele said his initial reaction to the idea was negative.

"I like what we do at present because it tries to encourage community groups to help themselves and I'm sure that's what the other municipalities do," he said.

He said he was averse to municipal councils delegating their authority and responsibility to other groups unless essential.

"This report, like most of them, has value because a lot of thought goes into it and it's worth considering these things but my first reaction is against it," Reeve Wurtele said.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said "any move in the direction of co-ordinating community activities is worth considering."

"It sounds like a step in the right direction, particularly if the report indicates that the area needs more facilities."

"As it is, the city is contributing about 80 per cent of the park area in Greater Victoria."

Saanich Reeve Murphy gave his immediate support for a joint commission.

Many Recommendations Made

"I endorse the idea completely. The problem is too great for the individual municipalities to handle," he said.

"A combined effort will meet our needs."

The report also urged: Construction as soon as possible of a downtown recreational centre for senior citizens;

Acquisition of more land, with government help, for park and recreation purposes;

Development of a plan to improve present recreation services, particularly construction of swimming pools;

Co-operation between the municipalities and school boards to obtain more use of school buildings and grounds for recreation purposes after school hours;

Application for provincial government grants now available to help pay the salaries of trained recreational supervisors and administrators for a co-ordinated program.

Ford Strike Ends

DETROIT (AP)—Some 1,800 employees are scheduled to return to work today at Ford Motor Company's assembly plant in suburban Wayne following settlement of a six-week strike there.

Dief Denies Planning 'Closure'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday the government would like to have Parliament pass its major legislation before the coming election but is faced with opposition obstruction in the Commons.

He said the government would not use closure and is trying to have the closure rule abolished.

Mr. Diefenbaker, speaking in the CBC's free-time political television series The Nation's Business, said the principle measures the government wants to get through Parliament are the supplementary estimates for 1961-62—which must be passed—Senate reform, establishment of a redistribution commission and legislation arising out of the royal commission investigation into publications.

He accused the Liberals of holding up the estimates—monies to be voted for the fiscal year which has already ended—for 23 days this session, compared with the Conservatives' use of nine days in the last five years they were in opposition.

June 11 Out, Let's Try '18'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday he expects the Commons to work until April 19 before starting its traditional Easter recess.

His statement to the House wiped out speculation of a June 11 election. Dissolution of Parliament would have to come this Saturday to allow sufficient time to set up a June 11 vote.

The next nearest possible election date now being talked about is June 18.

The prime minister said two regulations will be introduced shortly containing the government's decisions on the recommendations of the royal commission which investigated the effect of foreign competition on Canadian magazines.

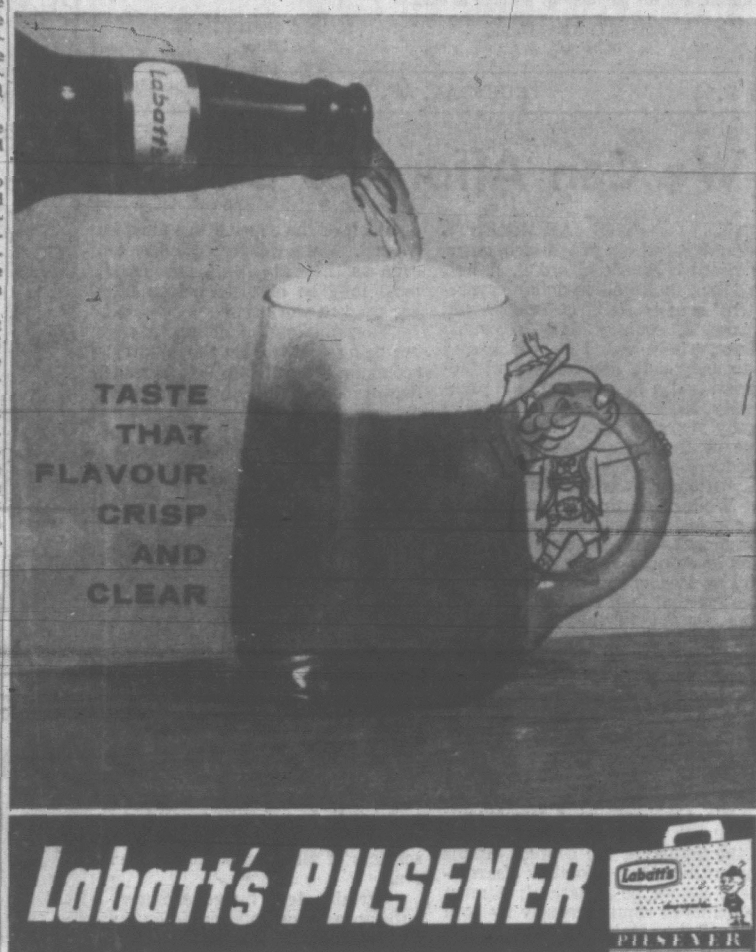

He gave no indication of what the legislation would be nor did he indicate whether it would be pushed through before an election.

The prime minister announced Jan. 22 the government would implement two major recommendations of the commission. One is a ban on the entry of foreign magazines containing advertising directed primarily at the Canadian market.

The other would eliminate the present 100-per-cent income tax deduction allowed Canadian advertisers on their cost of advertising in foreign-owned periodicals printed in Canada.

A modification would permit a 50-per-cent deductibility in the case of Time and Reader's Digest, established in Canada, Mr. Diefenbaker said priority would also be given his bills re-tiring senators at the age of 75 and establishing a new independent commission to redraw the electoral boundaries map.

We Can Afford to Disarm

ONE OF THE ARGUMENTS advanced against disarmament is that we cannot afford it. A halt in the multi-billion-dollar armament industries, it is said, would throw a country into economic chaos. There would be widespread unemployment, idle mines and factories, and a blow to national prosperity from which it would take many years to recover. Canada, as one of the world's seven heaviest spenders on armaments, would suffer seriously, it is claimed.

While even this prospect is not a conclusive argument against disarmament—since economic depression, even over a period of years, is still preferable to the possible annihilation that may be the final result of a continued armaments race—it nevertheless has provided a talking point and a possible support for delay.

It is an argument that calls for an answer, and the answer has now been provided by the report on a United Nations study of the economic consequences of disarmament.

We CAN afford disarmament; it will not wreck our economy. This is the finding of the United Nations committee. But effective disarmament cannot be unilateral; it must be achieved simultaneously by both sides of the ideological war through negotiation.

It is true that there would be temporary readjustments, but the saving in national expense—$1.6 billion, 27 per cent of our tax payments, in the case of Canada—would make up for such economic losses. The government could well afford necessary expenditures for retraining workers and rehabilitating industries or communities.

The truth is that modern armaments are becoming so fantastically expensive that they lay an increasingly serious burden on the economy of any country. The burden is all the more to be criticized inasmuch as much of the expenditure must be wasted. Many weapons are obsolete even as they are being purchased; most may be obsolete before they are used in warfare.

Thus millions of dollars a year are being drawn from the country's economy and put into cold storage, before eventually being thrown away.

The millions that go into Bomarcas could finance parks or hospitals; the huge investment tied up in bomber fleets or nuclear submarines could finance needed university expansion—usable assets.

The United Nations study estimates that about $120 billion is spent on armaments throughout the world each year. More than 50 million of the world's inhabitants are in uniform or working for military authorities.

Redirecting this vast sum into peaceful channels and placing these people in non-military pursuits would entail considerable organization and government aid. But it could be done and, as the UN experts point out, the world has enough unfulfilled needs to employ the services of all these potential workers.

Certain steps by government—cutting taxes on consumers, encouraging investors, subsidizing depressed industries or areas—could smooth the transition over a decade or more, and create a new world of safety and more abundant living.

The fact that disarmament can be shown to be economically feasible will not necessarily bring it about. But the UN report removes one argument against it, and comes opportunely as the 17-nation disarmament committee is apparently stalled in Geneva. Perhaps the assurance that we wouldn't lose money by it will encourage us to achieve the added boon of not losing our lives and our future.

Big Challenge, Big Man

MR. ARNOLD HEENEY, whose retirement as Canadian ambassador to the United States was recently announced, is widely respected as one of the greatest Canadian public servants of our times. As Canada's representative in Washington he handled the difficult job of liaison in excellent fashion and established a most favorable reputation with Washington authorities.

This country is therefore fortunate to obtain Mr. Heenev's services to fill the vacancy caused by General A. G. L. McNaughton's departure from the International Joint Commission. The Commission is charged with many duties involving relations between the two neighboring countries and faces particularly difficult problems in connection with the current Columbia River controversy.

As Canada's representative on the Commission, Mr. Heenev has a big job ahead of him. But he is used to coping with big jobs and the success of this excellent appointment is assured.

A Job Done—More to Do

THE REPORT OF SERVICES provided by the Salvation Army here last year has coincided with the appointment of Mr. Courtney Haddock as director of the 1962 local campaign to collect $50,000.

It is proper that the work and progress of the Army should be drawn to public attention at this time. The public appeal will not open until the beginning of next month. By that time the reports on the activities of Harbor Lights, of the department concerned with the rehabilitation of former prisoners, of the home where attention and confidence are given to unmarried mothers and, above all, the provision made to house the elderly in the new Matson Lodge, should be widely known.

The general spirit of Salvation Army work is understood throughout this community as in other parts of the world. Workers within the group extend to the unfortunate a helping hand when it is needed most. Their purpose is to put the vital principles of Christianity into practical forms of expression.

In Victoria and on Vancouver Island they are accomplishing that purpose admirably. They can continue to do the job well only with the generous support of private citizens here. When the appeal opens, Victorians are asked to remember what the Salvation Army has done and to let their contributions reflect their admiration for that work.

Woodward's—'This Is It'

VICTORIANS, IMPRESSED BY spectacular announcements of commercial developments to come, should be particularly happy with the statement from Mr. C. N. Woodward, president of Woodward's Stores.

Establishment by his company of a big store in the proposed new Mayfair shopping area will add materially to the economic bloodstream of this community. The decision apparently marks the end of long and careful consideration by the Woodward interests of the most suitable location in which to proceed with its next major development. Earlier discussions had included the possibility that the store would go east of the Rockies.

By fixing the Douglas Street site, the company has shown its confidence in Greater Victoria's growth.

In addition to gaining another major enterprise, a big "Woodward's" here gives the city a stronger connection with interests of high repute in the merchandising field and closer ties with a British Columbia family name well known here through the services of the late Hon. W. C. Woodward, former lieutenant-governor, and a model farm, "Woodwynn," on the Saanich peninsula.

'For You But Not for Me'

MR. LEONARD HYNES, President of Canadian Industries Limited, had logic on his side when he said in Toronto on the other day: "If this country is to become competitive, we have a right to demand the elimination of subsidies designed to keep alive inefficient and dying sections of industry."

But subsidies come in different forms—tariffs, for instance. Some of the products from Mr. Hynes' plants are protected by as much as 30 per cent in tariffs, all paid, of course, by the Canadian consumer.

Small wonder that Mr. Hynes has been invited by some who heard him to come out of the storm cellar and see how the wind is blowing.

"...and then he hugged us and kissed us and called us his little money-makers..."

Beautiful Theory in Collision With Fact

By WALTER LIPPMANN

FOUR years ago, when interviewing Mr. K. for the first time, I tried at one point to draw him out about China.

It was already evident that there was trouble between Peking and Moscow, and in conversations with Soviet journalists there was much talk about the conflict. Talking to some students, it was plain that as between the Russians and the Chinese in the university there was a great deal of prejudice and racial antagonism. Even then, four years ago, it was plain that there was deep ideological and emotional conflict between the two big Communist powers.

But Mr. K., naturally enough, was determined not to tell me about it and instead, when I pressed him with questions, he delivered a lecture on the inability of one who is not a Marxist to understand the international solidarity of the Soviet camp.

The cause of international conflict, he asserted, is capitalism, and when capitalism has been abolished there can be no conflict.

Since then, this beautiful theory has had a collision with the ugly facts, and there can no longer be any doubt at all that a great conflict of interests exists.

What kind of conflict is it? It is at bottom, I am convinced, the same conflict which existed when the Emperor of All the Russias and the Emperor of China were still on their thrones. It is a conflict of national interests between the Russians and the Chinese which has gone on for generations, and it is due to a collision between the Russians, expanding across Siberia to the Pacific Ocean, and the Chinese, expanding northward into Manchuria and Mongolia, across the path of the Russians.

Though this conflict is now carried on by two Communist states, though it is enmeshed with Marxist and Leninist slogans, it is the same historic conflict which has been going on for generations between the empires which are ruled from Peking and from Moscow.

There is now a frontier between these two empires which runs some 4,000 miles into the heart of Asia, and it is a highly unstable and insecure frontier. Along it the vital interests of both countries are engaged.

The existence of this conflict has begun to affect importantly the whole international situation. While we cannot as yet see clearly all the effects, it is already reasonably clear that Moscow is reacting according to the classic Russian formula, which is never to become vitally engaged in a conflict on two fronts.

This promises to lead to accommodation over West Berlin, on the one hand, and also to some sort of disengagement from a conflict with the United States in Southeast Asia.

There are signs, so I venture to believe, that the Soviet Union is helping Communist North Vietnam just enough to keep it out of the hands of the Chinese and not so much as to precipitate a conflict with the United States in Laos and South Vietnam.

As this is an optimistic estimate, it must, of course, be treated with great skepticism and reserve. But just as we must not let our wishes and our hopes deceive us, so also must we not let ourselves be misled by a lack of self-confidence. What is happening between China and Russia is not what Marxism predicts. But it is what a student of history would expect.

The fact that the Russians and Chinese both profess the secular religion of Communism is no reason why they should not fall into a vital conflict. We should not forget how ferocious have been the wars of religion within Christendom. We who have, we hope, outlived those wars, need not be surprised to see them break out among the Communists.

We are in the process of readjusting our thinking and our policy to another great change in the outer world.

Since the middle '30s we have been readjusting our minds and our policy to the fact that we no longer have a nuclear monopoly, that we have to live in a system of nuclear parity. Now we are adjusting ourselves to a new and more agreeable development, which is that Communism, which has spread so far in Asia, is disunited, and that it does not face us with a solid front.

Obstructions in Theory and Practice

By MAURICE WESTERN

THE prime minister, opening his campaign at Strathroy, Ontario, advanced an interesting justification for the dissolution of the House of Commons.

According to Mr. Diefenbaker, "the machinery of government has been held up. A small group holds up Parliament while the leader of the Opposition goes about the country talking."

It was perhaps no mere coincidence that the prime minister dealt in the same speech with his project of Senate reform. For a similar charge was brought by Mr. Diefenbaker against the upper house last year.

The Liberal majority in the Senate on that occasion amended the government's "class or kind" customs legislation in order to preserve the right of appeal from ministerial decisions. It is to be assumed, therefore, that the prime minister has his guns trained on "obstructionists" in both chambers.

Mr. Pearson evidently has not been guilty of much personal obstruction. The charge against him is that he has been away addressing meetings. The curious point is that the prime minister seems to have borrowed this theme from Mr. Pickersgill who brought the same accusation earlier—against Mr. Diefenbaker. There is one difference; the prime minister is, of course, responsible for the conduct of government.

On the other hand the charge of obstruction is the prime minister's own. A good deal has been heard of it recently because the government has shown much impatience with the time taken over supplementary estimates.

More Convincing

It would be more convincing if the government had not repeatedly broken off this debate to give priority to various items of legislation such as the financial disclosure bill.

If the Liberals have been intent upon obstructing the government, they have gone about the business in a strange way. While Mr. Diefenbaker was off on his Strathroy trip, the minister of finance sought interim supply in the amount of $674,658,525. There were no Liberal speeches on the resolution. The bill required about 10 minutes to pass three readings and the committee stage. The entire proceedings took up less than a page of Hansard.

What happened last year? When Mr. Fleming on March 22 sought a rather smaller sum, Mr. Pearson observed: "The request of the government for interim supply gives hon. members... an opportunity to exercise their historic, constitutional right of introducing questions for consideration and, if necessary, for redress and raising grievances if they so desire before the supply is granted."

Members availed themselves of this right. The debate on the resolution fills about 46 pages of Hansard. Another sitting was required for the bill.

Similar debates occurred on two other occasions when Mr. Fleming asked for interim supply. But on the day of the prime minister's Strathroy speech Mr. Fleming could not have asked for greater co-operation from the allegedly obstructive Opposition.

Mr. Diefenbaker presumably intends to deal with House of Commons obstruction by dissolution, which may be regarded as the ultimate form of closure. There is not much logic to this course. For the prime minister, at Strathroy, said that it was obstruction which had prevented him from carrying out the remainder of his promises.

Parliament might well make better progress if Mr. Diefenbaker was a bit less secretive about his current program. Even at Strathroy he failed to disclose the details of the measure on Senate reform. What he did say was that he proposes to retire senators at 75.

Senator Brunt, who was with him, supplied the information that this would remove 35 senators (32 of them Liberals) and create a solid Conservative majority in the upper House.

The Conservatives in other years reproached Mr. King for "reforming" the Senate by creating a Liberal in place of a Conservative majority. Now Mr. Diefenbaker, apparently, intends to effect a similar reform by a more drastic method; that of the purge.

The Liberals, naturally enough, are withholding comment on this Conservative "reform" until it is formally unveiled by Mr. Diefenbaker. Valid criticism can, however, be brought against the retirement principle already enunciated at Strathroy. It has, in fact, already been dealt with effectively by Mr. Diefenbaker's most faithful ally, the Ottawa Journal.

According to the Journal, there is no valid analogy as Mr. Diefenbaker suggests—between the position of senators and that of judges for the reason that senators are under no comparable pressure of business.

The main objection, however, is the fact that: "The Senate is people."

"If a bad appointment is made to the Senate," says the Journal, "appointment of a person who is incompetent, who lacks integrity, judgment, political background and maturity, then surely it is small consolation to know that such a person can be got rid of when he reached 75."

"On the other hand, if a good appointment is made, of a person of character, judgment and political maturity, then the longer such a person remains in the Senate, the better—his best service as a senator could well be long after he is 75."

Mr. Diefenbaker has apparently left the Journal behind him in boarding the Senate reform bus.

Tide of Refugees

By JOSEPH ALSOP, from Macao

A FINE harbor, a lively waterfront, a cluster of little hills, charmingly covered with pink and green and yellow and white neo-baroque architecture—that is the outward Macao.

Beneath this pretty surface, this little Portuguese colony on the China coast has always had its darker depths. Gambling and gold-smuggling are the principal local industries. But now—days you find here such a confrontation of good and evil as is difficult to imagine, because of Chinese communism's unending, cruel pressure on the humble Chinese masses. Macao, you see, offers immediate harbor to any refugee who can manage to cross its borders. So any day here, you may see the spectacle I saw—two rickety, overloaded little junks wildly beating before the wind, desperately trying to reach the protection of the Macao water police before the pursuing Communist patrol boats could come within range.

One junk made it, one capsized, so 13 refugees were added to Macao's total for the day; and another 20 or so were added to the thousands who have already found their last resting place in Macao's neighboring waters.

In two short, recent days, there were three such incidents. Of five small junks carrying over 30 people, only one got through—with seven refugees, and two persons on the second were rescued.

Of two trail sampans carrying a large peasant family, one got through and one went down, taking the father and mother to the bottom before the eyes of the adolescent boys and girls.

Happier Ending

Not all the stories are so tragic. A couple of months ago, a fairly large Communist river steamer was successfully stolen by a wonderfully ingenious plot. Twelve truck drivers stole gasoline, drop by drop, for over a year to provide the fuel. Eight mechanics in a Canton dockyard found the right vessel and painted it the same grey as the Communist patrol boats. Three cooks in a naval mess stole half-a-dozen uniforms of the river patrol force.

So 70 people sailed down the Pearl River in perfect safety, seemingly on river patrol.

But there are few such stories to provide grace notes in the dark tale of fear and flight.

You see the new-come refugees everywhere here, in huge huddles at the big police station, where the Portuguese police are surprisingly gentle with them; in still bigger crowds at the Casa Ricci, where the fathers give them food and aid; even lying on the waterfront like beached fish, unable to move for a while after reaching the longed-for shore.

As conditions have grown worse, the inflow has doubled and tripled. At the Casa Ricci, 248 refugees were received in March, 1959; 330 in March of 1960; no less than 841 in March of 1961; and today the flood is greater still.

Prolonged semi-starvation; increasing desperation; much greater risks taken and many more lost along the road; increasing wretchedness among the quiet, fatalistic, rag-clad people who get through—that is the refugee story.

But there is another story here, too. Father Ruiz, dashing about town on his beloved Vespa, now bringing sudden hope to an exhausted group on the beach; now carrying huge sacks of bread to feed the hungry line at the police station, now making his jokes to cheer the crowds at Casa Ricci, is very much part of that story. So are the other Casa Ricci fathers.

Still another part of the story are those, like the Reverend Mother Maral Tolmira and her Franciscan sisters of the School of the Morning Star, who try to help the refugees in their second stage, after they have settled in Macao.

Best Bargain

This reporter once wrote a piece suggesting that the best bargain in this bargain-famous part of the world was an investment in Mother Tolmira's work for the poor children here. This helped to start a chain of events in which a retired New York jeweler, Nathan Newman, and Mary Lasker, and President Kennedy all played their generous parts.

But the chain was still $5,000 short of producing a solid result when Mrs. Elizabeth Godfrey Bird walked in out of the blue, so to say.

"What are you going to do for the rest that you need?" Mrs. Bird asked the Reverend Mother, after subjecting the School of the Morning Star to a severely practical inspection.

"The Lord will provide," replied Mother Tolmira, quite sincerely one may be sure, since the Lord has helped the Reverend Mother as often as a bull market helps a wise investor.

"Well, I'll give the other $15,000," said Mrs. Bird.

So that was that; and an orphanage for 145 wonderfully clean, gay, bright little girls has now been added to the school for 750 day pupils.

Besides frail-seeming, beautiful, iron-strong Mother Tolmira, 11 other nuns, a few lay teachers, and three cooks do all the work the children cannot do, including providing a daily total of 2,400 meals—filling breakfasts, lunches, and suppers.

As all this is done on a cash income of $1,200 a month, plus flour and the like from the Catholic Welfare, the Morning Star is still the best bargain in the Far East.

But in Macao, bargain-hunting is less important than goodness-hunting. Among so many reminders of man's inhumanity to man, one needs people like the slender Polish Reverend Mother and her bustling Spanish friend, Father Ruiz, to restore one's faith in the human race.

REPORTING

OTTAWA — For the first time since 1937 there is price competition in transcontinental air travel, thanks to Trans-Canada Airlines, the government company that didn't want any competition.

TCA President Gordon McGregor had not intended to get into price competition. Having reduced economy class air fares by as much as 30 per cent late in 1960, and having the move sour on him by a whole-sale shift of traffic from first class to economy class where the fare was one-third lower, McGregor decided TCA had to increase its economy fares and decrease its first class fares. The economy increase is roughly 10 per cent on a Toronto-Vancouver fare, but the overall increase is less because of the coincidental cut in first class fares.

TCA's only transcontinental competitor, Canadian Pacific Air Lines, had cut its fares along with TCA in 1960, and like TCA had a deficit in 1961. Thus McGregor expected CPA President Grant McConachie would jump at the chance to increase fares. But in fact McConachie has not increased CPA fares. Nor have other minor TCA competitors like Quebecair and Nordair.

One reason for this situation is that McConachie smelled a rat in McGregor's apparently benign invitation in February for CPA to cut itself a piece of fare increase cake. He sent a couple of his technical experts to Montreal to check TCA's statistical and deductive basis for increasing fares. They found that along with increased revenues following the proposed fare increase, the TCA figures also projected increased costs.

What, said shrewd Grant McConachie to his old friend and foe, Gordon McGregor, will TCA's transcontinental flight frequencies be in the summer?

Not that it's any of your business, replied McGregor amiably, but we're going to go from four to five jet flights in each direction per day, and later in the summer we'll put on a turnabout jet from Toronto to Winnipeg.

CPA is limited by an Air Transport Board ruling of January, 1959, to one flight per day in each direction, with a mandatory stop at Winnipeg. This limitation was to have been reviewed in two years, but 15 months have passed without the ATB making any move to do so. CPA has maintained that it is entitled to share equally with TCA in traffic growth, basing its claim on the Wheatcroft report to the government on civil air needs and policy. According to this point of view, half of the traffic for which TCA will put on those one-and-one-half extra flights this summer should be made available to CPA.

CPA officials admit cautiously that by holding their fares at the lower 1961 level they will improve their load factor, and thus their revenues by about $800,000 a year. This probably is a conservative estimate — they may attract enough passengers from TCA to improve CPA revenues by upwards of a million dollars.

However, TCA will be picking up some $5.5 millions additional revenue from higher fares, so both lines will benefit. And so will the travelling public. Passengers who want to save $10 from Toronto to Vancouver can fly CPA — but one flight per day permits no choice of flight time, and with the stop at Winnipeg the trip is a little longer. Those who want the convenience of a choice of five flight times a day can pay the extra $10 and go via TCA.

TCA created this situation. It is difficult to see how TCA can logically object.

LONDON LETTER

Men Put On a Leg Show

LONDON — Englishmen have gone fashion-conscious with a bang.

You've never seen such a parade of new-style hats, ties, raincoats, slacks, shoes. And the male fashions seem to change every few months, in so much of a hurry are they to show that they are now interested in clothes.

Were this confined to the kids, you could write it off as just that old thing of having to have "what all the other boys are wearing."

But this fashion-consciousness goes through all ages and levels of the English male today.

The peer of the realm who lives down the road, for instance, strolling in the latest skinny trousers and elastic-sided shoes... the Cockney building contractor in the pub in one of the new "ducky" hats and washable three-quarter-length raincoat.

John Taylor, editor of Tailor and Cutter, says that after a blind-spot, when men were less concerned with their looks than women, men's fashions have now as much new value as women's.

My remembrance of the British male between the wars was conservative suit, gray flannel slacks and tweed jacket and that pretty well was that. Oxford bags and green porkpie hats and a few other things came and went, but they were for the gay blades and had no great effect on the general conservatism.

The Englishman, up until this helter-skelter rush into new styles from head to toe, used to like his clothes to look "lived in." He regarded them as old friends, to stay with him patched with leather at elbows and cuffs through the years.

The present change of attitude, it appears, has a sociological explanation.

As male fashion expert Taylor says: "The population swing, which has currently produced more men of marriageable age than women, forces men into a peacock display in order to guarantee themselves a date or a mate."

These form-fitting trousers are apparently based on the sexual-excitement principle, a man's leg being spotlighted now as strongly as was the female leg in the '20s.

Turn-ups are finished, because the horizontal line detracts from the long-legged look. Elastic-sided shoes are back because the bottoms of the new thin pants catch on the top of the laces and the line is spoiled.

Everything must contribute to the male leg display, which, Taylor explains, is the jackets, straight-buttoned waistcoats and jackets, straight-buttoned waistcoats and abbreviated raincoats and overcoats.

HOME GARDEN

Red Onions Resist Fly Attacks

In some districts the home gardeners have practically given up trying to succeed with onions because of the depredations of the onion fly.

There are several stories around about having some other plant, such as parsley, nearby, or in the onion bed, to keep the fly away.

It seems to work for some and not for all, or it may be some other factor at work, and just a coincidence that parsley was in the vicinity.

Some of these stories may not be so silly as they sound. It is easy to misinterpret one's findings yet still have a result of significance.

For instance, corn-cockle and sugar-beet will not grow together. Even the seed of corn-cockle fails to germinate when sown side by side, with the seed of sugar-beet. Before this was proven it seemed stupid to sow sugar-beet to clear a field of corn-cockle.

Getting back to onions, it has been noted that the red varieties are less susceptible to onion fly attack than the whites and yellows.

Since there are some excellent red varieties to be had, it would seem an easy way out of the fly problem for the home gardener.

A good keeper with a strong flavor is the Southport Red Globe, and other old-timers are Red Tripoli and Red Wethersfield.

One old gardening book declares that transplanted onion seedlings from sowings made indoors during January or February are not attacked by the fly.

I wonder if this is still known to be true?

Police Dog Record

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Pony, a 10-year-old Alsatian police dog, is claiming a world record for arrests. He got his 1,000th capture Tuesday night when he chased and pinned down an escaping thief in one of Nairobi's back streets.

WHAT'S IN THOSE BARRELS?

The barrels that line the walls of the Hotel Georgia's rustically decorous Coffee Garden... do they contain the key to this downtown restaurant's growing popularity? No, they're full of atmosphere. Nothing else. You'll find the real answer right at your elbow: fast, friendly service. And on your table: consistently fine foods. And in your check: for all this excellence comes at moderate prices. TODAY'S BEST FROM EUROPE

Sask. to Act Today On Health Deadlock

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan legislature today may go into an emergency debate of the province's proposed medical care plan, a scheme over which the government and doctors have been in consistent disagreement.

The latest round of discussions between the 'College of Physicians and Surgeons' and the cabinet took place Wednesday, with both sides announcing they still had not settled their differences.

Premier Lloyd later told the legislature the compulsory scheme will go into effect July 1, with or without the doctors' consent.

A spokesman for the 900-member medical college said as long as the government insists on complete control of insurance and medical services the proposal will not be accepted.

The doctors want "freedom to give the best medical care available to our patient," said Dr. H. D. Dalgleish of Saskatoon, college president.

'CAN'T BE DONE'

"This can't be accomplished with the control and direction imposed directly and indirectly by any monopolistic government plan."

He said unless the government wishes to discuss the college's "final" compromise proposal, no further meetings will be held. It suggested that medical care insurance be provided on a province-wide basis on payment of a premium and that it be universally available.

The doctors have also contended that care for the mentally and chronically ill was more urgent than the insurance plan.

Mr. Lloyd said Wednesday's meeting, and others held March 28 and April 1, were "free and friendly but the desired reconciliation has not been achieved."

He said the doctors' proposal for a premium plan would allow citizens to buy insurance schemes without having any right to determine the level of benefits or costs.

Canada Rocket Target?

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan state legislature may put the fuse to a move to build a major rocket launching site on the Keweenaw Peninsula in northernmost Michigan.

Six House members teamed up on a resolution Tuesday to create a committee to study the possibilities for construction of the installation by the defence department.

Rep. Gilbert E. Bursley, the chief sponsor, said rocket experts regard the peninsula as the only acceptable location in the United States for orbital shots aimed in a northerly direction.

"It is the only area with a large body of water to the north and with vast stretches of uninhabited territory beyond," he said.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Sol Laskin said Wednesday Michigan legislatures had better look at the map before they start lobbing rockets over the Lakehead and "the vast, uninhabited area to the north."

Board Ousted By Cariboo Gold

VANCOUVER (CP)—The battle for control of the Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Company ended Wednesday with shareholders ousting the board headed by long-time chairman, 62-year-old Dr. W. B. Burnett.

Control went to a new board headed by Vancouver investment dealer Royden Morris and included H. H. Heustis, president of Bethlehem Copper Corporation and a leading B.C. mining-industrial figure.

The ouster, which came at a meeting attended by 100 shareholders, revolved around a disagreement between Dr. Burnett and Morris over policy governing development of the gold property at Wells, 59 miles east of Quesnel in the Cariboo country.

Morris argued shareholders have waited too long for dividends—the last was four cents paid in 1944. Before that the 29-year-old property paid a total of $1.22 a share between 1936 and 1943.

Dr. Burnett said he wanted to be certain there was sufficient development before a higher operating rate was begun. He promised to turn management over "more capable hands the day I can yield up a revenue-producing company."

At the meeting the shareholders were vocal. So was Dr. Burnett and his chief supporter, vice-president Victor Dolmage.

On the new board besides Mr. Morris and Mr. Heustis is J. A. Addison, chairman of Bethlehem; Gordon Sharpe, former Crown Zellerbach Paper Company executive; J. A. McLallen, Arthur O. Hall and Vancouver alderman Aeneas Bell-Irving.

The ousted board consisted of Dr. Burnett, Dr. Dolmage, J. Ward Allen, D. R. Blair, W. C. McDougall, O. H. Solibakke and Mr. Morris.

Top Trophy Presented At Send-Off

Retiring after 39 years with the Dominion Life Assurance Co., RNE (Reg) Harris, manager of the Vancouver Island branch of the firm in Victoria, received a special send-off at a banquet Wednesday evening in the Empress Hotel.

In Victoria just for the occasion, was Dominion Life president A. S. Upton along with vice-president and director of agencies S. C. Mackenzie from Waterloo, Ont.

Mr. Upton noted that Mr. Harris' long service with the company "had been capped by the fact that in his final year he was head of the branch which won out over 42 other branches for general efficiency in all aspects of the business."

Mr. Harris, well-known for his Victoria community work, including the Kiwanis Village project, received on behalf of the branch the company's silver trophy for efficiency.

"PRETTY STABLE"

In an interview earlier, Mr. Upton talked about general business conditions in Canada and remarked that he believed things were "pretty stable" at the present.

"Business is spotty in some areas," he commented, "and there is certainly no boom. But there is generally a better feeling among businessmen than a year ago."

Mr. Upton said that his firm, which has about 46 per cent of its more than $212,000,000 in assets in mortgages, had found the mortgage demand "surprisingly" firm although interest rates were a little softer.

Ford Drops Plans For Small Car

DETROIT (AP)—After five years of development and research, the Ford Motor Co. has abandoned plans to build a smaller-than-compact car in the United States.

In a surprise announcement, Henry Ford II, chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co., said:

"After long and serious consideration and as a result of market conditions and other factors, it has been decided not to produce such a car in the United States this year."

PRINCE PHILIP

Blunt Advice To U.K. Industry

LONDON (CP)—A sun-tanned Prince Philip, just back from a 60-day tour of South America, handed some blunt advice to Britain's industrialists today.

Speaking to the Grand Council of the Federation of British Industries, which represents most of the nation's manufacturers, he declared:

"I'm sorry to say this, but there is no getting away from it. At the moment we have a reputation for being rather slow and old-fashioned."

His speech, followed by a question-and-answer session, was heard by some 300 council members, representatives of trade and export organizations and journalists.

"They do think we have rather abandoned them," he said, when asked if South Americans thought the British were lagging behind continental countries.

He followed this quickly with a quip: "I spent all my time excusing this by saying we had spent all our money on the Commonwealth."

Asked about the approach British businessmen should use, the prince replied straight-faced:

"It would be much better to go out there in a bowler hat speaking Spanish than in someone speaking English only."

South America is rapidly becoming an industrialized continent, "and what it needs is not manufactured goods but the machines and know-how for its own manufacturing industries, power stations, refineries, transport, communications and so on."

British businessmen could expect the best chance of long-term success if they joined local firms in setting up manufacturing firms.

Intrigue, Surprise, Labor Meet Features

By AR KENT
Times Staff Reporter
VANCOUVER — The third day of Canadian Labor Congress convention was one of intrigue, of heated political debate and of surprise.

Instead of congress attempting agreement on one of the CLC's thorniest problems—a jurisdictional battle in Newfoundland (See story Page 11)—the issue was even more confused with the sudden walk-out just before adjournment of the 60-member carpenters' delegation.

United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and International Woodworkers of America both want jurisdiction of Newfoundland's loggers, and the CLC was to mediate.

But the walk-out came even before the executive council's recommendation on the matter was presented.

'Immaturity'
All in all, the day was an expression of what one political commentator—himself a unionist—called the "political immaturity of the Canadian Labor Congress."

Perhaps it explains why the CLC has no political aspirations of its own, merely standing for the principle of political affiliation and activity by its member unions, which are urged to work for and support the New Democratic Party.

"More statesmanship must be shown," the observer said. "Congress can't solve its jurisdictional problems, so I don't know if it's going to solve the problems of the country."

Part of the blame for the carpenters' walk-out must be shared by the executive, which apparently is postponing its report until so late in the convention that it will be too late to debate.

Corridor Sessions

Coupled with this intrigue is the amount of group discussion that goes on in the corridors during the sessions. A certain amount of this is necessary, but one delegate remarked that more business was being conducted in the halls than on the convention floor.

Even this pales compared to a trick alleged to the Communists by United Steel Workers' district leader Larry Sefton, who said Red cell leaders are trying to run the convention—through their Communist dupes in certain unions affiliated to the CLC—from the visitors' gallery.

In an impassioned rebuttal to several speakers in opposition to an organization committee report, Sefton aroused a foot-stomping, clapping and cheering response to his charge of "slimy Commie tactics."

'Open Door' Policy

The report contained a resolution calling for an open-door policy toward all unions desiring to join the CLC, as long as its constitution, principles and policies were accepted.

It would also require Congress to do all it can to help workers presently represented by unions that are unprepared to meet these requirements, to join the free trade union movement.

This represented a vote of confidence in United Steel Workers—Congress' largest affiliate—in their attempts to organize members of the Communist-dominated Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union at Sudbury, which would add 18,000 members to the 83,000 it now claims.

Sefton called the policy of Mine-Mill one of harassment and blocking.

Big New Union

Incidentally, when the proposed merger of NUPE and National Union of Public Service Employees takes place the result will be one of the country's strongest labor organizations. Between them they have nearly as many delegates to the convention as Steel Workers.

But when it came to politics, the convention speakers could only urge support of the dream party—the NDP. Congress maintains a strict partisan but strictly non-participating policy.

Executive vice-president Stanley Knowles reiterated an oft-voiced plea by a number of speakers to work under Tommy Douglas, NDP national leader, in the forthcoming federal election campaign.

Louis Laberge, puckish bilingual delegate of Montreal Labor Council, said: "Now is the time to knock on doors and sign membership cards. We've got to go back home and that's where we've got to do a job."

'Outsiders' Needed
Victoria's Rhoda Erickson, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, remarked: "All the delegates here were smart enough and discriminating enough to join a trade union. They would logically join the NDP, she said. "It's not these people you have to exhort, it's those outside."

Exhortation is not enough, however, an NDP member said. "The labor movement must 'go down to the grass roots.'"

He said he did not feel that labor leaders were mature enough in their thinking. "Some think they can still get what they want by playing up to the Liberals or Conservatives," he said.

He hoped there would be no dissatisfaction if there were no great, immediate change in representation in the House of Commons.

"It will take place... it will occur on a broader and broader scale, given impetus by successive Labor Congress conventions."

"The battle of labor is switching from the picket lines to the houses of parliament." He pointed out that many of the things won by a fight—perhaps a strike—can be lost today by the stroke of a pen.

Head of CLC Pays Tribute To Victorian

VANCOUVER — Tribute to the late Victorian union leader Victor Midgley was paid Wednesday by the president of "labor's parliament," Claude Jodoin.

Head of the Canadian Congress of Labor holding its fourth constitutional convention in Vancouver, Mr. Jodoin informed delegates of Mr. Midgley's sudden death after suffering a heart attack during the convention on Tuesday.

"Our sincere condolences go to the family and I ask the convention to stand and observe a moment's silence for a member who has done a stalwart job for our free trade union movement."

Mr. Midgley, an international representative of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, was vice-president of Victoria Labor Council and a former executive of B.C. Federation of Labor.

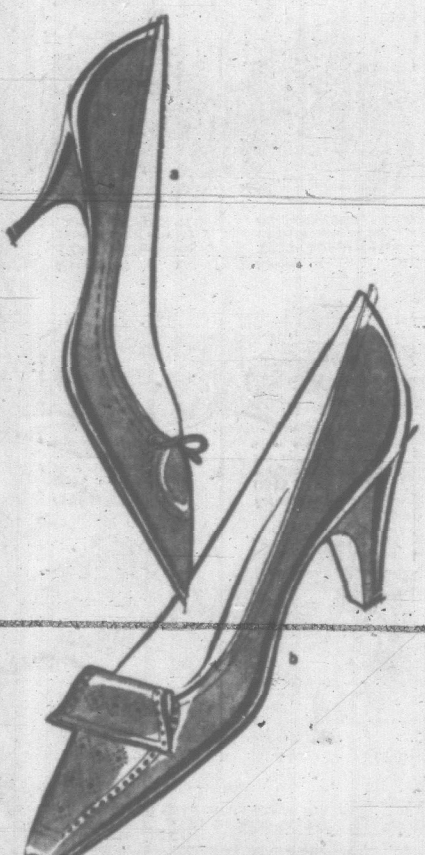

Good Shepherd Shelter Extends Saanich Quarters
Animal welfare work by the Good Shepherd Shelter in Saanich will be extended through the purchase of a house near the present shelter at 4151 Borden, the Sisters of the Love of Jesus announced Wednesday.

The house will serve as B.C. headquarters for two animal welfare societies, the Canadian Council for Animal Welfare and the National Catholic Society for Animal Welfare.

The Sisters also announced an anonymous donation of $4,000, which is being used to build a "cat cottage."

RUSS TEST FALLOUT SHOWING UP SLOWLY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first evidence of the expected spring fallout from last year's Russian nuclear tests was reported today—with all signs indicating it arrived slowly.

A spokesman for the U.S. public health service's radiological health division who disclosed this indicated the service still feels it's highly unlikely there will be need for special protective measures to reduce human intake of radioactive strontium 90.

Jouhaud for his life for taking part in abortive generals' putsch in Algiers a year ago, today heard a letter from secret army leader Salan in which he assumed all responsibility for Jouhaud's activities. The letter said in part: "Since April, 1961, Gen. Jouhaud has obeyed all my instructions."

Police Fear Girl Drowned in Fraser

LADNER, B.C. (CP) — Police assume the Fraser River holds the body of Dorothy Bentley, 15, who disappeared after setting out from her Surrey home Friday night for a girls' pajama party.

They are questioning a 21-year-old man in connection with her disappearance.

"We are working on the assumption the girl's body is in the river and we are in the last stages of investigation to determine if this is correct," Deputy Police Chief Terry Brennan of Delta municipality said Wednesday.

The river has been dragged for three days without success.

BODY SEEN

Police said a Ladner man brought here Tuesday from Nelson, where he was interviewed by RCMP, told them of seeing a girl's body in the river.

"It will be a miracle if she is still alive," said Mrs. Mabel Bentley, Dorothy's mother.

"Something must have happened to her. If she was safe and well she would have phoned me. That's the way she was brought up."

Dorothy left home with two 16-year-old girls Friday night. Parents of the girls said they all understood the youngsters were going to a pyjama party.

ARGENTINE CRISIS

General Strike Latest Threat

By ALFONSO MAURI

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—The Argentine Congress prepared to meet in emergency session today as the threat of a military dictatorship loomed in the midst of another gathering crisis.

Rumors raced around Buenos Aires that the government of President Jose Maria Guido might be disposed in the wake of stringent austerity measures announced Tuesday night.

The president Wednesday night called off a scheduled cabinet meeting to confer with representatives of the armed forces. He summoned Economics Minister Federico Pinedo, Defence Minister Ernesto Lausse and Interior Minister Rodolfo Martinez to join the meeting.

Sources said the armed forces objected to Pinedo's austerity program on the grounds that it will make the situation in the country untenable.

The measures included an increase in the sales tax and moves to limit imports.

CEMENTS UNIONISTS

Within hours, the austerity moves succeeded in cementing the country's unionists—previously split into Communists, Democrats and backers of deposed dictator Juan Peron.

The unions Wednesday night put workers on a "state of alert," threatening to add a general strike to Argentina's other troubles.

But economists described the Pinedo measures as "sound and courageous" in the face of a drastic drop in the country's foreign reserves during the last year of the administration of ousted president Arturo Frondizi.

Crash Kills Four

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—An expectant mother and her three children were killed Wednesday when their car was hit by a train at a private lane crossing. The husband, Lester Wynk, was working in a nearby field and saw the accident.

The Canadian Cancer Society last year distributed in Canadian schools 335,719 pamphlets which described the relation between lung cancer and smoking. It also provided 765 films and 934 film strips for the schools.

Nanaimo . . . and . . . Now

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate Wednesday approved name changes for two federal ridings, one in British Columbia and the other in Nova Scotia.

It gave second reading—approval in principle—to measures changing the name of the constituency of Halifax to Halifax, Dartmouth and County and the constituency of Nanaimo on Vancouver Island to Nanaimo, Cowichan and The Islands.

Striking Pacific Seamen Obey 'Cool-Off' Order

SAN FRANCISCO (CP-AP)—Crews from striking Seafaring Unions went back to work today under a federal court order asked by President Kennedy, bringing an end temporarily to the month-old West Coast and Hawaii shipping walkout.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said the strike threatened to affect the military situation in the Pacific. But Harry Bridges, president of the Longshoremen's Union, asserted that government intervention in the strike was unwise and would solve nothing. The only shortage existing in Hawaii is "in cocktail napkins," Bridges said.

Some of the approximately 60 vessels tied up were loaded and ready to sail as soon as crews report.

U.S. District Judge George B. Harris issued a temporary restraining order late Wednesday under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act after President Kennedy requested that the justice department file a petition in the national interest—and particularly for relief of Hawaii.

CALLS HEARING

Judge Harris directed lawyers for the three unions and the Pacific Maritime Association, the employer group, to appear Monday for a hearing on an injunction calling for an 80-day cooling-off period. The strike had made idle some 5,000 members of the Sailors Union of the Pacific, marine cooks and stewards and the marine firemen. The picketing also made idle longshoremen and other related union members.

Pickets were released Wednesday night in compliance with the federal court order. After the 80-day cooling-off period expires, the men are free to strike again.

SEATTLE (CP)—The World's Fair housing bureau promises accommodation for visitors at anytime throughout the six-month-long exposition.

Expo-Lodging Service, set up by Century 21 Exposition authorities as central agency to handle accommodation, already has booked more than 500,000 reservations. But officials said room will be available throughout the April 21-to-Oct. 21 run of the fair.

Room rates start at $4 a night. A one-day advance with no refunds is required.

Twenty-seven Expo booths, with direct phone lines to booking headquarters in the fair grounds, will be operated from the start of the fair in Washington, Oregon, Vancouver, Victoria and Penticton, B.C.

Carpenters Defy CLC In Inter-Union Fight

By ROBERT RICE
VANCOUVER (CP)—A showdown has been forced before the Canadian Labor Congress in the fight between the Carpenters Brotherhood and the Woodworkers Union over the right to represent Newfoundland loggers.

It was brought about by a dramatic walkout of the 60-member delegation of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners from the CLC convention here.

The walkout was reinforced by the Carpenters' announcement it is withholding its per capita payments to the CLC.

In essence, the Carpenters Union, second largest in Canada, appears to have dented the CLC to suspend it from the national trade union organization.

The rupture in relations stems from charges of raiding and violation of CLC policy levelled against the Carpenters by the International Woodworkers of America, seventh-ranking union in Canada with 34,600 members.

DEAL COLLAPSES

Congress officials believed early Wednesday that a compromise settlement had been reached in the dispute—a deal based on a "vote" of the loggers on which union they wanted as their bargaining agent.

The deal, collapsed, however, on how the rival unions viewed the vote. The Carpenters regarded it as a certification vote under Newfoundland labor law. The IWA considered it a vote under CLC supervision.

The scrap goes back to the 1959 strike of the Newfoundland loggers, then members of the IWA. The bitter, violent strike ended with the Newfoundland government decertifying the IWA.

An independent union—repudiated by the CLC—was established, but it later dissolved itself. The Carpenters then stepped into the void.

For more than a year, the wrangle between the rival unions has been before the CLC—a ticking timebomb threatening the solidarity of organized labor in Canada.

The fuse was pulled by George Bengough, son of the honorary president of the Canadian Labor Congress who helped merge the old Trades and Labor Congress into the Canadian Congress of Labor to create the CLC in 1956.

"We are convinced the Carpenters are not getting fair treatment," said Mr. Bengough, a top officer of the Carpenters Union.

"We are leaving the floor of the convention. We are prepared to come back when we know we will get fair consideration on this dispute."

With that, some 60 Carpenters Union delegates stalked silently from the convention hall—with one unionist shouting "don't let them walkout."

CLC President Claude Jodoin stood at the platform microphone as the procession filed past him.

"You are an autonomous organization and it is regrettable that this action is being taken," he said.

Later, Mr. Jodoin issued a statement in which he expressed hope the Carpenters union would reconsider its position.

The Canadian Cancer Society last year distributed 4,103,248 pamphlets as part of its education program. Its units in all parts of the country also sponsored 5,198 film showings which were attended by 302,890 people.

PORTABLE RADAR demonstrated by U.S. soldier is experimental, hand-held combat set weighing 10 pounds which will detect movements more than one mile distant.

Dollars-for-Freedom Deal for Prisoners

By JOHN BLAND
HAVANA (Reuters)—The Cuban regime reached a big dollars-for-freedom deal Wednesday with a Cuban exile missioners captured in the abortive Cuban invasion a year ago.

No details of the agreement have been issued but reliable sources said 54 sick and wounded prisoners would be flown to Miami Saturday morning.

They will be followed later, at a time as yet undisclosed, by the rest of the prisoners for whom Premier Fidel Castro has demanded indemnities totalling $62,000,000.

A Cuban government statement today said the indemnity for the 54 sick and wounded prisoners will be deposited in the Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal in the name of the National Bank of Cuba.

The release was announced following several hours of negotiations between the four-member commission and Cuban leaders at Castro's residence in Vedado, Havana's central residential suburb.

The commission comprised of three fathers of prisoners and a wife of a prisoner.

Terms for the release of the prisoners were set last Sunday at the close of a four-day treason trial in which the prisoners received jail sentences ranging up to 30 years or individual fines totalling the $62,000,000.

An official statement said each prisoner would be freed "as soon as his respective indemnification is made effective."

Fines for the prisoners ranged from $25,000 to $500,000.

The military leaders of the invasion, Jose San Roman and Ernesto Andres Oliva, and the civil chief, Dr. Manuel Artime, 30, were each assessed at $500,000 and 221 others at $100,000 each.

Behind-Scene Campaigning For John Birch Admitted

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—Mayor E. A. Toshach says he did some behind-the-scenes campaigning for the John Birch Society at last week's Young Progressive Conservative convention in Ottawa to "dispel some of the bad publicity" the society has been getting.

He said Wednesday in an interview that he received no names from the convention but seven members of the Ottawa press gallery asked that they be put down on the mailing list for John Birch literature.

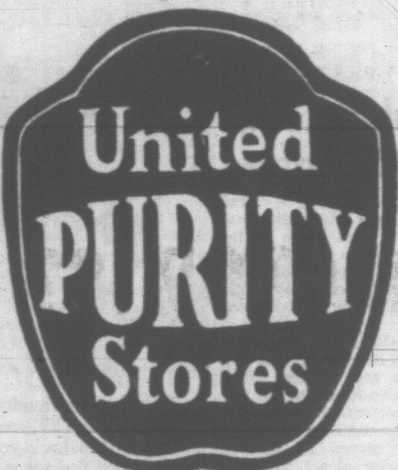

Mr. Toshach, 33-year-old mayor of Drumheller for five years, said he has been a member of the anti-Communist John Birch Society for 1½ years.

The society "is not a Fascist group as some people say," Mayor Toshach said. "It is trying to wake up the West to the dangers of Communism."

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

You know how it is some days . . . Your wife doesn't burn the eggs at breakfast. The income tax department sends your fat rebate cheque. And a fellow you haven't seen for months drops into the office to return the $10 he owes . . .

"I was standing outside a stall at Santa Anita one day last winter," Johnny Goglin was saying, "when this trainer walks up and asks can he borrow my horse? He wants to look at some stock 10 miles away. So I say sure. 'How much you want for it?' he asks. 'Nothing,' I told him. It's only 10 miles. 'Here's $10 anyway,' he says. That's what I would have charged if I had made the trip for him. 'I tell him my trailer is the green and white one, parked the other side of the barn. He says 'thanks,' and takes off."

"About noon I go around the barn . . . and there's my trailer. It's sitting there along side two-three others. They're all the same make, all painted green and white."

"I thought maybe he had changed his mind. Later, I'm working in the stall and this fellow sticks his head in. 'Put the trailer back where I found it,' he said. 'Did the job fine. Maybe I'll borrow it again.'"

"Any time," said Goglin. Then . . . I wanted to laugh so hard I couldn't tell him he'd taken the wrong trailer."

He nearly doubled with laughter. So did Roy Jewell, the exercise boy and Gus Munro, the owner.

They had left their chores at Sandown early Wednesday to pat his back and shake his hand. The young owner-trainer who had made it from the minors to the majors, from Sandown to Santa Anita in seven months, was home. And the clan was glad to see him.

Legs Like Duncan Phyffe Furniture

He had jetted in from Tanforan Tuesday with his best girl, Kay, who happens to be his wife and the other half of J. Goglin Enterprises. The "firm" has three thoroughbred employees—Midmarajah, Breeze Abo and Misty Lady.

The trailer "rental" incident illustrates perfectly how everything has been going for Goglin as he made it from exercise boy to "boy millionaire" in one year.

Last spring John Goglin had Kay, not much money, a good set of hands and a positive feeling about one horse. The horse was Midmarajah. Modestly-bred, Midmarajah had a nondescript record. He also had four legs which did not look exactly like Duncan Phyffe furniture but almost.

Nobody had to twist Len Sherman's arm to force him to sell the gelding.

"I got him for a package of cigarettes," Goglin smiled. "Well, almost. I paid $300 for him."

Goglin went to work on Midmarajah's tender tendons. Then the pair's Horatio Alger story began. Stepping on the toes of all but the best, Midmarajah reeled off seven wins at Vancouver and Sandown. Six furlongs or a mile, wet or dry, it made little difference. Where the money was he was.

Dame Luck Frowned on John's Roll

Goglin continued to mint the stuff with Midmarajah at Tanforan. Two wins, a second and a third. When he chartered his accounting, the tally read: Only three times out of the money in 22 starts . . . nine wins, six seconds, three thirds and a fourth. Profit: "Approximately $10,000." A fair return for an investment of a "package of cigarettes."

Goglin lost "Middy," as he calls him, at Santa Anita for $5,000. He promptly claimed a four-year-old, Colday, for the same sum. Two races later Colday went—for $6,500. "I put in claims for three other horses," Goglin said, "but I lost the roll every time." (When more than one claim is entered, the claimants roll dice to determine who will get the horse.)

"One I really wanted was Mineral Board. He had run for $10,000 at Aqueduct. They put him in for $4,000 at Anita. It was like stealing money. He parked. I tried to get him when they ran him for $5,000. He won that day. Then he won for $8,000, and finally for $10,000. Yet there was only the one set of claims for him all the way along." He shook his head.

There was some amazement among the local turf set, I said, when he took Midmarajah back for $5,000. Had the practical businessman succumbed to the emotional horseman?

"Not quite," he said. "I knew he never had the best wheels (legs) in the world. But he had made money for me and I thought he still could."

These Roses He Didn't Appreciate

Will he bring Midmarajah back here this summer? "I don't think so. He's run two good seasons for me at Tanforan and somebody will probably take him for $5,000. He really isn't good enough to take horses like Black Ballad and Mistad by the throat. If I brought him back and won an allowance they would put 125 pounds on him and where would I be?"

He excused himself, went to change into travel toggery for a fast flight back to Tanforan. Earlier that morning he had almost gone for an unscheduled flight. He had been walking Misty Lady, a flighty filly, to the track for her constitutional.

She stopped to admire the scenery en route. Suddenly she bolted and ran, with all engines going, straight through a huge, thorny rose bush. When Misty and John emerged they both wore roses but not the kind they hand out in the winner's circle.

"That's the way it is around the racetrack," Goglin laughed. "Just when everything is going fine, the world can turn over on you. Back there with Misty, I thought for a moment it had."

Island Drivers Fail To Move Up in Rally

TORONTO—The leaders in the 4,000-mile cross-Canada auto rally played musical chairs Wednesday, but there was no appreciable change in the status of two Vancouver Island teams.

Leo Katila of Port Alberni, and A. E. Brown of Victoria, driving a Corvair, were in 17th place with 307 penalty points and 163.8 test points as the field finished the Winnipeg-Régina run.

In 22nd place with 444 penalty points and 109.2 test points are Dave Cooper and Robert Low of Victoria, driving a Corvair.

'Be Prepared' Smythe Warns Maple Leafs

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs lead the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final by virtue of a first-game victory over Chicago Black Hawks but there is a querulous voice piping up from the Maple Leafs' camp.

Stafford Smythe, president of the Leafs, said Wednesday: "Hawks just give you that 'rope' for the first two games, then you hang yourself with it."

On the basis of Chicago's performance in the semi-final against Montreal Canadiens, when they lost the first two games and bounced back for four straight victories, Smythe has reason to wonder.

But he may be underestimating the strength of his own club.

HAWKS 'TIRED'

As the Chicago club arrived in Toronto for the series' first two games Tuesday night and tonight, many observers were wondering whether the Hawks would play a 'hitting' game—wear the Leafs down with rough-tough bodychecking.

Tuesday night, when Toronto won 4-1, the Hawks showed little inclination to such a method of attack. Chicago coach Rudy Pilous excused his club's loss after the game with a simple "we were tired."

But the Leafs, especially after the first period when they were down 1-0, were not averse to taking a body-swipe at a passing Hawk.

PILOUS HAS 'EGG'

An example was a feud between Toronto's Dick Duff and Chicago defenceman Pierre Pilous. The two several times exchanged slight bumps and hot verbal blasts until Duff slammed Pilous heavily into the boards. The small but tough Leaf left winger got a boarding penalty, but Pilous was not scathed. He took a big goose-egg on the forehead.

Toronto is still favored to take the series, but most observers figure a lot depends on the outcome of tonight's second game. The series moves to Chicago-ice for the next third and fourth games and the Hawks are a lot tougher on home ice where they have the rousing, sometimes fanatic, support of fans.

Toronto coach Punch Imlach is not unaware of the problems a visiting team can run into in Chicago, where the fans are reputed to throw everything that's movable on the ice in support of the Hawks.

MAKE REFEREE'S CALLS

"In Chicago the crowd calls the penalties for the referee," he said after he ran the Leafs through a light workout.

The Chicago camp was quiet Wednesday. Pilous visited his home in St. Catharines and the club did not work out.

The Hawks planned a light skating session today. Imlach plans no lineup changes. Utility forward Johnny MacMillan, pushed out of the lineup Tuesday night when right winger Eddie Shack returned after being benched for two games, spare defenceman Larry Hillman and left winger Bert Olmstead will be on the sidelines.

Olmstead, said Imlach, will dress for Sunday night's game and even if he doesn't play, he's expected to be useful as a morale-booster. He's been out with a cracked shoulder bone. The veteran winger "will get gradual work," Imlach said.

Muzz Stays As Manager Of Rangers

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League have announced a new front office setup. Irving Mitchell Felt, president of Madison Square Garden Corporation, will become chairman of the board of directors of the Rangers.

He steps into the job of Admiral John J. Bergen, who retired last week.

William M. Jennings will be president and managing director of the Rangers. Murray (Muzz) Patrick continues as vice-president and general manager.

HUNSAKER MAKING PROGRESS

BLUEFIELD, W. Va.—Eating fairly well and talking a little, heavyweight fighter Tunny Hunsaker, 32, was reported on the mend here Wednesday night.

Knocked out in the 10th round of a fight last Friday, Hunsaker has undergone two brain operations.

Dr. E. L. Gage, who performed both operations, said Hunsaker is making some progress.

BEWARE! (YOUNG) MEN AT WORK

Traffic was heavy at Victoria High Wednesday as coach Don Smyth put his squad through concentrated drill for city English Rugby high school championships game Friday at Royal Athletic Park.

Musial, Cards Mess Up Casey Stengel's Mets

UP! Casey Stengel is 0-1 and the Houston Colt 45s are 2-0 but baseball purists viewing the National League couldn't despair because Stan Musial is 3-for-3.

The Colt 45s, surprise team of the opening hours of the NL's first 162-game schedule, made it two victories in a row Wednesday night with a 2-0 decision over Chicago Cubs. Houston thus shares first place for a second straight day—a tall tale even for Texas folk.

It was a disappointing night for 71-year-old Stengel and his infant New York Mets, however, as St. Louis Cardinals pounded out an 11-4 triumph featured by Musial's perfect night and achievement of another league mark. Stan the Man had two singles and a double in three tries and the run he scored enabled him to tie Mel Ott's record of 1,859 runs scored in the NL.

Stengel, managing his first game in the NL since 1943, when he piloted Boston, saw his Mets commit three errors and waste homers by Gil Hodges and Charlie Neal. Hodges' homer lifted his lifetime total to 362, edging him past Joe DiMaggio to No. 11 on the all-time list.

San Francisco Giants defeated Milwaukee Braves, 3-1, and Los Angeles Dodgers beat Cincinnati Reds, 6-2, in other NL games while Minnesota Twins shut out Kansas City A's, 8-0, and Boston Red Sox scored a 4-0 12-inning triumph over Cleveland Indians in American League games.

Hal Smith's two-run single in the first inning produced all the Colt 45s' runs and Woodeshick limited the Cubs to eight hits until he tired in the ninth. Then Dick Farrell came in to pitch out of a two-on, none-out jam and clinch the win.

MAYS GOING STRONG

Willie Mays hit his second homer in as many games and Billy O'Dell pitched a four-hitter for the Giants, who won their second straight game.

Brilliant pitching of Bill Monbouquette and Camilo Pascual featured the two games in the AL. Monbouquette allowed only four hits and three walks while striking out five Indians in a 12-inning pitching duel with Cleveland rookie Ron Taylor. Carroll Hardy broke it up with a grand slam homer.

Pascual, who pitched eight shutouts in 1961, hurled a four-hitter and struck out seven.

Flyers Gain Finals In Big 9-2 Win

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Flyers won a berth in the Western Hockey League championship series with a 9-2 victory Wednesday night over Calgary Stampeders.

The win gave Edmonton a 4-1 edge in games in a best-of-seven Northern Division final. Flyers, WHL champions in 1952-53 and 1954-55, will meet either Spokane Comets or Portland Buckaroos for the title. Comets and Buckaroos are tied 3-3 in a best-of-seven Southern Division final with the last game set for Spokane Friday night.

Eight players shared in the 23 scoring points Flyers ran up before a crowd of 5,560 Wednesday night. Defencemen Howie Young and John Mismak headed the list with three points each. Young had one goal and two assists and Mismak three assists.

"Doug Messier scored two of the Edmonton goals while Billy McNeill, Don Poile, Ed Joyal, Keith Walsh, Len Lundie and Chuck Holmes notched singles. Flyer goaltender Gilles Boisvert stopped 26 shots, including 17 after returning from treatment for a cut lip and two loose teeth he acquired when Calgary defenceman Fred Hucal struck him in the face with a puck in the first period.

Arnie's Day Brighter; Ed Returns to Rocks

Arnie Ferguson, the man who coaches Victoria Shamrocks, still isn't predicting anything but a lot of hard work for the Rocks in the coming Inter-City Lacrosse League season, but he was wearing a trace of a smile this morning.

Helping to give Fergy a brighter outlook on the boxla world was news that Ed Kowalyk is planning to return to the Irish this year.

Currently studying at University of British Columbia and due to start training about the time the Rocks open their season against Nanaimo at Memorial Arena on April 25, Kowalyk declined to play for Victoria last year because of "personal reasons."

GOOD BALLHAWK

In a telephone conversation with Ferguson, Kowalyk said he was determined to win a regular berth with the club this year.

"I know Ed meant what he said," Ferguson commented, "and if he plays like he used to, he could be a big help to us."

A good ballhawk and a determined checker, Kowalyk

Baldwin Quartet Gets Big Scare

VANCOUVER (CP)—Matti Baldwin of Edmonton Wednesday night qualified for the playoff series at the Vancouver spring car bonspiel, but not before a scare from an unheralded Mission, B.C. rink.

The three-time Canadian champion was forced to skip rocks on the 12th end before winning 9-8 over the Verne Bigham rink, skipped almost faultlessly by Johnny Gagnon.

A crowd of about 500—that dwindled to a handful as the match lingered to 1 a.m.—cheered the unexpected performance.

Baldwin thus qualified for the opening round today of the 16-rink double knockout run after the four compact cars.

Quakers Trip Smoke Eaters

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Trail Smoke Eaters, who went ahead 6-0 in the first game of the Western Allan Cup hockey final, were knocked off their perch here Wednesday night with a 6-4 licking by Saskatoon Quakers.

The result set the stage for a hot best-of-seven contest that continues here Friday night and in Saskatoon next week. Quakers, with little support among the 2,800 at Memorial Arena, played a heads-up game, going ahead 2-0, then 3-1 after the second. Each team scored three goals in the final.

Laurie Kerr?
Naturally, he's still around!
Not much has been said about Royal Colwood's big hope in the Times Vancouver Island Open golf championships, and that, probably, is only because fairly well sort of expect the sweet-swinging Kerr to show up for the start of the semifinals.
Nobody ever intended to leave Kerr "sitting in the weeds." The golfing clan knows he's capable of winning it all.

Firemen Tie United

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver firefighters moved into a tie for first place in Pacific Coast Soccer League standings with Victoria United by defeating St. Andrews 6-1 in a league game here Wednesday night.

However, Victoria has a chance to move back into sole possession of the lead when it meets North Shore here Saturday.

The one-sided victory gave the firefighters 12 points from seven games, exactly the same as the Victoria team. The defeat left St. Andrews deep in the league basement with six defeats from as many games.

Tony's Two Tallies All Kickers Needed

Hourigan's Kickers have a three-point bulge atop the Victoria and District Soccer League today, thanks to Tony Bourbijn.

His two goals were all Kickers needed Wednesday to set down Gorge 2-0 at Royal Athletic Park.

Bourbijn packed both goals into the second half. The first came at six minutes, the second two minutes before time.

Victory left Kickers three points ahead of second-place Evcoes and four in front of Gorge. Kickers have one game left to play, Gorge has three.

Ed Plans Faster Trip At Indianapolis Track

Ed Kostenuk hopes his second trip around the famed Indianapolis raceway will be the money one.
The husky Victoria trucker has toured Indianapolis only once for kicks—a slow crawl in his station wagon.

On May 12 he will hit the bricks in a sizzling, souped-up buggy. If he qualifies he will be one of 33 starting drivers May 30 in the Indianapolis 500, the World Series of car racing.

If he goes on to win it will mean $120,000. Even a last-place finish brings a reward of $5,500. Either way he would make history.

He would be the first Canadian to crack the glossy field. He is reported to be the first Canadian to try Indianapolis.

Seventeen years a race driver (he started at Langford Speedway), Kostenuk has been chosen to drive one of three cars owned by Leader Card, one of the best known names in car racing.

PASSED ROOKIE TEST

Kostenuk will drive the car piloted to third place in the 500 by Roger Ward last year. His mates are Ward and Len Sutton, a skilled driver and long-time friend of Kostenuk's, from Portland.

Kostenuk says it was Sutton who opened the door for him to go to Indianapolis.

"I passed my rookie test to qualify as a champion,"

MEDALIST OUSTED

Ex-Champs Stay In Empress Race

The medalist in the men's division of the annual Empress Golf tournament went to the sidelines Thursday but two former champions advanced to the quarterfinals.

Medalist John O'Connor of Calgary lost, 2 and 1, to Jerry Gleeson of Seattle. Former champions Pross Clark of Portland and Mike Pyke of Calgary won their matches handily at Victoria Golf Club.

Defending champion Clark trimmed Ernie Martin of Seattle, 3 and 2. Pyke disposed of fellow Californian Jack Robertson, 6 and 4.

Others in the quarterfinals: A. L. Powers, Portland; Gordon Greenwood, Victoria; Gordon Wagner, Tacoma; R. W. Macdonald and Bob Laughlin, Calgary.

Mrs. G. H. Lovitt of Victoria, defending women's champion, reached the semifinals of the ladies' division by defeating Mrs. H. E. Johnson of Calgary, 2 and 1. Also sidelined (5 and 3 by Mrs. R. C. Schrader of Calgary) was Mrs. G. E. Bronaugh of Portland, a tournament competitor for more than 20 years.

MEN'S RESULTS:

J. Gleeson, Seattle, def. John O'Connor, Calgary, 2 and 1; A. L. Powers, Portland, def. E. A. Tretloway, Vancouver, 2 and 1; R. W. Macdonald, Calgary, def. Hamilton Juniors Best in Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Hamilton CYO took the Canadian Junior Men's Basketball championship back to the East for the fourth straight year: here Wednesday night, when they defeated Vancouver YMCA 65-61.

The victory gave CYO the best-of-five series in straight games.

Broders Keep Hopes Alive In Hoop Final

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Star guard Lloyd Harris collected 24 points Wednesday to lead Lethbridge Broders to an 87-77 victory over London Fredericks in a foul-filled third game of the Canadian senior basketball finals.

The win kept the championship just beyond Fredericks' grasp and put Lethbridge back in the running. Fredericks, who won 102-90 Monday and 94-82 Tuesday, now lead the best-of-five series 2-1.

The fourth game will be played here Friday night and the fifth, if necessary, Saturday.

Al West was second highest scorer for Lethbridge with 22 points. John McKibbin and Barry Howson scored 17 to lead London.

Hockey Loop Will Expand

DETROIT (AP) — The International Hockey League will expand to eight teams by granting a franchise next season to Port Huron, Mich. It was reported Wednesday night.

The new franchise would have a working agreement with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Currently in the IHL are Marquette, Mich.; Omaha, Neb.; St. Paul, Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Toledo, Ohio.

Fiorentina In Final

BUDAPEST (AP) — Fiorentina of Florence edged Hungary's Ujpest Dosza 1-0 Wednesday night to qualify for the finals of the European Soccer Cup winners' tournament.

URUGUAY BLANKED

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — West Germany's national soccer team Wednesday beat the touring Uruguay national team 3-0 before 77,000 fans.

Mounties Are Strangers In Their Own Home Town

VANCOUVER (AP)—Vancouver's 1961 Mounties will be strangers this year in their own home town. Lonesome George Bamberger, pitcher and coach, is the only player back from the baseball team that finished second last year in the Pacific Coast League race.

The club owned just three players when Milwaukee withdrew its working agreement last fall. Two-catcher Charlie White and pitcher Phil Pain were sold to Hawaii.

Minnesota Twins, sophomore team in the American League, is Vancouver's new foster parent. The Twins do not have a far-flung, heavily staffed farm system and Vancouver prospects were extremely dim when the first group of candidates reported to spring training camp at Fernandino Beach, Fla.

HOPES BRIGHTENED

Then farm director Sherry Robertson of the Twins dispatched a five-player package that brightened Mountie hopes.

Two were pitchers. South paw Gerry Arrigo, 20, had a brief trial last year with the Twins. Al Schroll, 30, a right-hander, was 4-4 with the Twins in 1961 and has played with the Boston Red Sox, Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers.

Also in the quintet were veteran infielder Joe Valdivieso, 27; 20-year-old Orlando Martinez, a fast shortstop; and outfielder Hillario Valdespino, 23, who hit .302 for Indianapolis last year and stole a cluster of bases.

The Mounties also hope to obtain pitcher Bruce Swango. Yankee property released recently by the Twins. If the Yanks don't take him, Vancouver will.

NEW MANAGER

New manager Jack McKeon, who moved up from Wilson of the class B Carolina League after winning the pennant, can dress an all-Cuban infield. It would have Julio Becquer at first, Valdivieso at second, Martinez at short and Nestor Velasquez at third.

McClarty Boys Face Villains

The McClarty boys undertake the task of trying to tame two of professional wrestling's biggest villains Saturday.

Don McClarty takes on Hard-Bolled Haggerty, and brother Roy swaps clinches with Gene Kiniski in a double main event that headlines promoter Rod Fenton's four-bout card at Memorial Arena.

Al Garfield meets Tommy O'Toole and Oliver Winrush meets John Demchuk in other bouts. Action starts 8:30.

'WOULDN'T STOP GAMBLING' Michigan Proposal Would Ban Betting

DETROIT (AP)—A proposal to abolish pari-mutuel betting in Michigan wouldn't stop residents from gambling on horses and would cost the state a tax bonanza, says racing commissioner Edgar Hayes.

He voiced concern over a proposal Wednesday by delegates drafting a possible new state constitution.

"This proposal could get to the voters and then it could easily get across," he said.

The proposal, approved 80 to 42 by a constitutional convention committee, could close all race tracks in Michigan within a couple of years. Michigan has two thoroughbred tracks and four harness tracks.

Hayes said if Michigan closed its tracks, racing would flourish just on the other side of the state's borders.

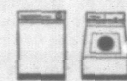

"It wouldn't stop Michigan people from gambling on horses. There'd immediately be a new track in Windsor and the track at Toledo would extend."

Windsor, Ont., is just across the Detroit River from Detroit. Toledo, Ohio, is about 60 miles from Detroit and is near heavily populated southeastern Michigan.

Hayes said horse racing paid Michigan $7,800,000 in taxes last year and more than $8,000,000 the year before.

The proposal to outlaw racing will come up at least twice more in the constitutional convention under way in Lansing, Mich.

Important notice to housewives who plan to buy an automatic washer within the next 6 months!

There are only two basic types of automatic washers. Those that load from the top and have a centre post gyrator (like the wringer washers). And those that load from the front and have no centre post. Front-loaders use a modern and completely different washing action to get your clothes thoroughly and uniformly clean. Read the check list below to see how the front-loading type saves you time... work... detergent... and water.

We've started a 16-hour day

Now we're working 2 shifts to meet the demand for new Ramblers

Optimistic as we were, we were wrong! We expected a 50% increase in Rambler sales for 1962. Instead, we are faced with a whopping 75% increase at last report. This has meant that in some cases our customers have had to wait an extra week or so for their new Rambler. We apologize for the delay, but are proud of our success. We are also happy to announce that effective immediately, a second shift will be speeding delivery of '62 Ramblers.

What is the reason for our success? We believe it's because we are building a car Canadians want. Because we are offering the best car value in Canada. That value is a combination of Rambler pioneered features and new exclusives, all for less than any of the low-price three!

Single Unit construction, pioneered by Rambler, eliminates squeaks and rattles, adds years of life to the car. Deep-Dip rustproofing, developed specially for Canadian conditions, makes Rambler the world's most completely rustproofed car. This year we have added self-adjusting Double-Safety brakes and a coolant and battery, so good they are guaranteed for two years.

These are only a few of the reasons we have been selling so many Ramblers. Drop in on your Dealer soon. See for yourself why Rambler is Canada's best all round car value.

Deficit Draws Editorial Fire

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Following are excerpts from editorials in representative Canadian newspapers on the federal budget. Except as noted, all newspapers quoted describe themselves as politically independent.

Toronto Star (Ind. Lib.)—The Canadian public is paying the price of the economic mismanagement inflicted on this country by the Diefenbaker government in the past five years. . . . Apart from three creditable but minor tax concessions, Mr. Fleming's budget contained virtually nothing to spur economic expansion and restore full employment. . . . It offers scant hope for the unemployed, it offers nothing to the municipalities. . . . It offers almost nothing to the depressed areas like the Maritimes which desperately need new industry. . . . In short, the budget is a failure.

Toronto Telegram—The new Fleming budget . . . is based on sound principles and a continuation of the direct tax incentives, with new features of the same kind, that the minister of finance introduced last year. In the face of pressure to distribute concessions right and left in advance of an election, the 1962 budget represents an act of courage. . . . Canada will benefit, if present policies are continued for some years to come, from the easing of credit, the continued damper on inflation, the elimination of a high exchange rate which is bringing a sharp upsurge of exports, and the direct tax incentives to business expansion. . . . It is a sound budget.

Vancouver Province—If Canadians are politically and economically mature they will applaud Mr. Fleming's realism and give him the full marks for withstanding the pressures which must have been brought to bear on him by a government on the verge of a general election. . . . It is plain that resolute little Mr. Fleming is a man walking the razor's edge between the political necessities of his party and the sobering position of the national treasury.

Calgary Herald—Whatever may be said later in approbation of the budget one must start consideration of it in full awareness that it entails a $745,000,000 deficit, the sixth in a row.

That deficit hangs ominously above this budget. It is a $745,000,000 black cloud warning that spending continues to far outrun our earning power and foretells storms ahead. The Conservatives cannot escape a good deal of the blame for that deficit. At least in this budget an effort is being made to put politics in the background and face up to the job of expanding our earning power.

Winnipeg Free Press (Ind. Lib.)—Mr. Donald Fleming has been running the nation's finances on credit for so long and with such profligacy that he had nothing left to give away on Tuesday night. After five years and more than three billion dollars of deficit financing, the best he could do was to show how bare the cupboard is. . . . But the fact that tax reductions were made at all in the face of still another huge deficit is a tacit admission of the Diefenbaker government's complete moral bankruptcy. Whatever traces of a sense of financial responsibility which Mr. Fleming may have shown in past speeches (though never in his actions) have disappeared in the winds of the election campaign.

Regina Leader-Post (Ind. Lib.)—Mr. Fleming again endeavored to defend the deficit as a "sound economic stimulus" when there is surplus productive capacity and unemployment. But a deficit incurred simply by increased indiscriminate government spending is much less effective as an economic stimulus than one which is tailored to do this specific job.

Ottawa Citizen (Ind. Lib.)—The fact is that Mr. Fleming has nowhere else to go at this stage. He started his course long ago, and that course is plunging the country deeper and deeper into debt.

Ottawa Journal (Ind. Con.)—Mr. Fleming resisted the temptation to bring down a budget of responsibility. . . . What he brought instead was a budget of responsibility . . . admittedly the deficit for the year is heavy. But the reason for it is clear.

Winnipeg Tribune—In answer to the challenge of the times, the government has presented a sound budget. While the opposition have dubbed it "another IOU budget"—and it is—it encourages an expanding economy in an era of changing trade patterns. It thus counts on increasing prosperity to produce revenue tomorrow for the investment we are making today.

Edmonton Journal—Mr. Fleming was in a hustings mood as he devoted much of his budget speech to praising the record of the Diefenbaker government. It was a clever effort, but he will still have to convince critics that, in the words of one of them, Canada has not become "the worst-managed nation in the North Atlantic world."

Toronto Globe and Mail—Finance Minister Donald Fleming is to be commended for having, on the eve of a general election, resisted the temptation to present a vote-catching budget of indiscriminately distributed sopas. The minister did speak in glowing terms about the current recovery.

200 DEFENCE WORKERS HOPE FOR PAY BOOST

About 200 Island employees of the federal defence department are hoping for a wage increase soon.

Dino Florin, president of Victoria and District National Defence Association, said today the federal treasury board is considering the matter.

He said the information came in a telegram from Ken Green, national secretary in Ottawa.

Mr. Green's telegram said Defence Minister Douglas Harkness has lifted a wage-freeze policy which has been in effect since last July.

The local association represents maintenance and construction employees here and in Nanaimo.

Churches Plan Arena Rally

A central religious observance to mark Victoria's centennial year was announced today by a committee representing the city's Protestant churches.

The Greater Victoria Christian Churches Centennial Rally will be held in Memorial Arena, Sunday, June 17, at 8 p.m., with Archbishop H. E. Sexton, metropolitan of the Anglican Church of Canada for B.C. and the Yukon as chairman.

The rally is expected to tax the capacity of the Arena.

Speaker at the rally will be Dr. E. M. Howse, minister of Bloor Street United Church, Toronto, who has gained an outstanding reputation as a speaker, and as a writer on church and world affairs. Dr. Howse was press representative at the recent meeting of the World Council of Churches in New Delhi.

Chairman of the rally committee is the Rev. G. R. Easter, of First Baptist Church. Mr. Easter is leaving the city soon, and will be succeeded as chairman by Dr. H. K. Johnston of Fairfield United Church.

Other members of the committee are the Ven. Archdeacon J. W. Forth, rector of St. David's Anglican Church, and the Rev. Bruce Malloy, assistant minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Music for the mass rally will be provided by massed choirs arranged by the Victoria chapter of the College of Organists under C. C. Warren, organist at St. Andrew's.

Ushering, and physical details of arrangements for the rally will be the responsibility of the Victoria Christian Business Men's Committee.

Proceeds of the offering to be taken at the rally will be used to provide a centennial scholarship at Victoria University. Dr. Johnston said today.

SPECIAL BULLETIN: Canada's first international length King Size

filter cigarette, invented by the Rothmans Group in 1951. Since then, smokers in over 140 countries have made it the world's largest-selling King Size Virginia cigarette.

Rothmans King Size is 85 millimetres long.

Most Canadian cigarettes are 72 or 74 m.m.

See the difference? Rothmans King Size is a good 18% longer than short cigarettes. But it sells at the same price!

The extra length means an extra half-inch of top quality Virginia tobacco in every Rothmans King Size. That's why it's so fully packed and rich in flavour. The extra length of Rothmans King Size also adds a great deal of smoothness to the cigarette. Extra smoothness and extra mildness, too.

PRICE CUT 'BREACH OF DUTY'

Author Wins Realty Appeal

Canadian author Raymond
M. Patterson and his wife,
Margold Patterson, formerly of 10814 Cox, Shoal Bay, Sidney, won a decision in their favor from the B.C. Appeal Court Wednesday.

The court ruled that the Pattersons do not have to pay $2,900 in real estate commission to the V. and S. Realty, 556 Johnson, on the sale of their Shoal Bay property to Mr. and Mrs. George M. Ross for $58,000.

They were ordered to pay this commission by Mr. Justice J. O. Sullivan in Supreme Court last November, but the Appeal Court reversed his decision.

Mr. Justice H. W. Davey said evidence submitted during the Supreme Court hearing showed that real estate agent J. C. Isherwood was working to get the Pattersons to reduce their asking price.

At one point in the trial, he said, Mr. Isherwood was asked: "You were trying to secure as attractive a price as possible for Mr. Ross, weren't you?"

To which Mr. Isherwood had replied: "And for Mr. Patterson."

Mr. Justice Davey said Mr.
Isherwood's evidence showed "such a breach of fundamental duty to the appellant as to disentitle him to his commission."
"I do not think Mr. Isher-wood acted out of dishonesty but through ignorance, the result of inexperience."

Mr. Patterson, whose book
"The Buffalo Head" was published in New York last year, is now living in London, England. He is expected to return to Victoria later this year.

Victoria lawyer Louis Lindholm represented Mr. and Mrs.
Patterson.

Economic Squeeze
Threatens Laos Gov't

VIENTIANE (AP) — Neutralist and pro-Communist advocates of coalition rule for Laos profess to believe Premier Prince Boun Oum's pro-Western government will collapse in two or three months.

They look for existing and future pressures from the United States to force the government into final negotiations to put Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist premier-designate, in the driver's seat.

The U.S. has cut off $3,000, 000 monthly in economic aid to Laos in an effort to force Boun Oum and his strongman deputy, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, to abide by decisions of the 14-nation Geneva conference providing for conservatives, leftists and neutralists to share ministries in a coalition cabinet. This suspension is now in its third month.

The neutralists and Communist-led Pathet Lao want still more pressure applied.
Though they themselves are still receiving Russian military supplies through a Soviet airlift from Communist North Viet Nam, they are calling for the U.S. to drop all military aid to the royal government as evidence of American sincerity. Khang Khay officials said this would be the death blow.

Potato Shortage in U.K.

LONDON (CP) — Britain is facing an acute potato shortage.
The Potato Marketing Board has announced that only 300,000 tons of potatoes are left. By next month home-grown supplies will have almost disappeared.

Cause of the shortage has been the late, wet winter. The climate has also affected crops throughout Europe, so increased imports cannot be expected to relieve the crisis.

This year's crop of early potatoes won't be available until June.

The marketing board is warning housewives not to hoard potatoes. They will not keep at this time of year.

An association representing fish-and-chip shop owners in South Wales has accused the board of making a muddle of its quotas.

The board argues that it must be cautious rather than risk an unprofitable surplus. Despite the famine, it refused to cancel a £1,300 penalty on a South Wales grower for over-production of early potatoes.

Library Service Ballot Proposed

Outlying suburbs in School District 62 may join Vancouver Island Regional Library because Victoria lacks adequate facilities to service the large rural area, it was disclosed today.

John S. Williams, chairman of the school board, said a referendum will be held in December to determine whether residents want to join the Nanaimo-operated library.

The school district takes in the communities of Colwood, Langford, Glen Lake, Happy Valley, Sooke, Jordan River and Port Renfrew.

The village of Sidney is also reported to be interested in joining the regional library board.

FOLLOWS SURVEY

The school board's action follows on the heels of a Victoria Library Board decision Tuesday to conduct an overall survey of library needs in the Greater Victoria area.

Rose Valenstein, librarian at UBC, is expected to conduct the survey this summer.

The library needs survey was ordered by the board following complaints by citizens and PTA groups that the public library is being "starved" and can no longer carry out its work on an efficient basis. They want the board to purchase another bookmobile and to establish branch libraries in Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt.

School Board 62 decided to hold a referendum after being requested by the district PTA council to join the Island's regional library.

INVESTIGATION

J. K. Kinnar, president of the rural PTA council, said a special committee investigated the services of both the Victoria and Nanaimo libraries.

(The school district is presently served by the B.C. government "open shelf" library system.)

"We approached city librarian John Lort and found the facilities of the city library inadequate," he said.

Mr. Lort confirmed that he had been approached by Colwood and Langford groups for library services.

"It would have necessitated the purchase of an extra bookmobile," he said.

He felt it was unfortunate to see rural areas surrounding Victoria seeking to join the regional library, but this, he added, could not be helped until certain problems are solved.

TWO-WEEK SERVICE

The city library, he pointed out, maintained a reference library, while the regional library did not.

Mr. Kinnar said if the school rural district joins the regional library, it will be served by a bookmobile every two weeks.

Branch libraries, he added, would be established at Colwood and Sooke.

ROLLING QUAKE ROCKS WIDE AREA IN JAPAN

TOKYO (AP)—A mild rolling earthquake shook Tokyo and a wide area of Japan Wednesday.

The tremor was felt over a sector extending from Hokkaido to central Japan, the government meteorological agency reported.

Soprano Wins Against Strong Competition

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Taking a top place award against slim or mediocre competition is one thing. Taking it in a class of nine competitors described by Victoria Music Festival vocal adjudicator Sidney Bryans as having set "an extremely high standard" is quite another.

PATRICIA WICKS
... Rose Bowl chance

This was the feat of Patricia Wicks, who, Wednesday afternoon took top place in women's operatic solo, thereby gaining the J. Ingram Smith Award and tripling her chances of competing for the Rose Bowl Friday night.

Mrs. Wicks, a three-time winner, had taken the oratorio class Tuesday, and the dramatic soprano solo Monday.

Contralto Heather Tucker was second in the operatic class and soprano Rosalie Conarroe, third.

All marks crowded close to Mrs. Wicks' top of 87.

Another vocal session that drew enthusiastic comment from Mr. Bryans Wednesday was for girls 12 to 13 years. He was astonished at the excellent interpretations throughout the lovely legato singing.

CLOSE SCORING

Anita Loudon's performance won her 87 points. One mark behind was Laura Groos. In third place, also by one mark, was Bette Cosar.

Some delightful young choirs were a feature of the evening session Wednesday.

The tiny choisters from private schools, studios and church groups, sang with great charm and sweetness.

First place was won by Vera Barclay's Studio Choir, second by Gladys Peary's Studio Choir and tied for third place were St. Peter's Anglican Junior Choir and St. Paul's junior choir.

A particularly interesting program tonight will see four young pianists competing in the senior concert group class, and four contestants in the open lieder class.

Performer's concerto has attracted only one entry but a top one in Sydney Bulman-Fleming. A single entrant also will appear in the new class for previous winners of the Rose Bowl.

Last year's Rose Bowl holder—Sally Seymour—is the soloist.

Closing the festival for this year, will be the honor performance concert Friday night at Central Junior High. On the program will be outstanding competitors heard during the week and the Rose Bowl and Medallion championship classes.

'Sweepers' Thieves

LONDON (AP)—Two men sweeping the steps of the Dagenham Borough Hall Wednesday dropped their brooms when a payroll messenger arrived, produced lengths of lead pipe, knocked him cold and fled with £1,400 ($4,100).

Although more research work throughout the world is being done on cancer than on any other medical problem, scientists still have not yet discovered the cause. A donation to the Canadian Cancer Society will contribute to the ultimate defeat of this killer.

Balinese Dancers 'Exotic' Troupe

By HUMPHRY DAVY

When I went to see the Dancers of Bali at the Royal Theatre Wednesday, I was hoping to see something different.

I wasn't disappointed, and judging from the rousing ovation the troupe received, hundreds of Victorians shared my experience.

But the show wasn't a success only because it offered "something different."

It was also a big hit because the troupe, some 50 in number, achieved its objective of creating an exotic and magical atmosphere for a western audience with a totally different cultural background.

The orchestra or "gamelan" as it is known in Indonesia, was a big factor in creating this atmosphere.

The gamelan is a type of orchestra consisting of an assortment of gongs, drums, rattles, and certain bowed and wind instruments.

Some of the instruments defy description. But the music from them, though strange to western ears, can have an hypnotic effect on a listener, providing he allows himself to relax completely.

In my opinion one of the most fascinating background sounds produced by the orchestra came from two huge gongs which a musician struck at regular intervals.

But the show's atmosphere would not have been achieved without the dancers. From the very start they captured the hearts of the audience by their dignity and mobility.

ELDERLY STAR

The star of the show, of course, was I Mario, who at the age of 74 is still one of Bali's greatest dancers. One of his numbers, "The Keblat," this dance, performed in a sitting position, requires legs which can coil and bounce like steel springs, long arms and a face mobile enough for the most varied, wide and sudden expressions.

Equally as popular were two young girls, eight and 10 years, who performed an old classical dance.

New 'Yard' Unit Hinted To Check U.K. Security

LONDON (AP)—The formation of a new political branch inside Scotland Yard to weed out Communists and other security risks infiltrating the civil service is widely expected.

The branch, a special adjunct to the Yard's famed Criminal Records Office, is believed likely to begin operations May 1. It is thought it will employ a staff of between 25 and 30, whose main task will be drafting dossiers on would-be recruits to government departments and on suspected Communists already in employment.

FOLLOWS REPORT

Prime Minister Macmillan is said to have ordered the security shakeup following last week's publication of a lengthy official report which found that Communists had heavily infiltrated the civil service. The report by a five-man committee under Lord Radcliffe declared the situation was "most dangerous to security."

The report was heavily censored before publication and the idea of a political branch is thought to be one of the committee's recommendations that was not disclosed.

Word of Macmillan's move came in what appeared to be a deliberate leak to most London newspapers. Separate accounts corresponded closely in detail. But at the Yard, a spokesman said:

"It is true that the Criminal Records Office is being re-housed and the staff increased, but this was all arranged before the Radcliffe committee was set up and is quite independent of it."

Whaling Fleet Takes to Sea For 6 Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—The first whaling fleet to operate in British Columbia waters in two years left here Wednesday for six months of work and high adventure off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The five vessels, two powered by diesel and three by steam, will join another diesel vessel which left earlier this week towing a supply barge, at the Coal Harbour, Quatsino Sound operations base.

The fleet is operated by Western Canada Whaling Company Limited, formed by B.C. Packers Limited and a huge Japanese fishing firm.

Japanese staff at the Quatsino Sound processing plant include an assistant manager, two inspectors and eight whale butchers who will help train Canadians in the trade.

The company is concentrating mainly on production of whale meat for human consumption by a Far East market. The by-products will be turned into animal foods. Whale meal and oil will also be produced.

FLEET WAS IDLE

The B.C. Packers whale fleet has been idle since the company decided the world price for oil and reduction meat was too low.

Two of the diesel vessels, the Westwhale 5 and Westwhale 6, formerly under Japanese ownership, now are registered in Canada.

The former Japanese vessels are carrying Canadian complements, with the exception of Japanese captain, gunners, mates and chief engineers. The captain, gunners of the other vessels are Norwegians. All have had wide experience whaling in the Antarctic and Bering Sea.

The commander of the fleet is Captain Arne Borgen.

DEDICATION CEREMONY AT GANGES CHURCH

GANGES—A special Palm Sunday service will be held in St. Mark's Anglican Church, Salt Spring Island, Sunday at 11 a.m. when the new Sunday School room and doors to the transept will be dedicated by the Venerable G. H. Holmes.

A gift from O. Leigh Spencer in memory of his wife, it will be known as "Helen Spencer Room."

The doors to the transept have been placed in memory of Rev. E. F. Wilson, first resident vicar of the parish, who served from 1894 to 1909, and form part of the "Reverend E. F. Wilson Memorial Transept."

Children from four Anglican Sunday Schools on the island will be in attendance. St. Mark's choir will be assisted by choirs from St. George's at Ganges, and St. Mary's, Fulford Harbor.

AROUND VANCOUVER ISLAND

'Dozers Rumble at Road Ceremony

CAMPBELL RIVER—Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi and Commissioner of Highways for Alaska, R. Downing, drove two bulldozers full tilt at one another today during ceremonies to mark the start of the Campbell River-Kelsey Bay road.

The ceremony involving the big "cats" symbolized the drawing together of the Island and the state of Alaska, which the building of the highway will facilitate.

Site of the "sod-turning" ceremony was about 33 miles north of Campbell River.

Following a motorcade through town, an official welcome at the municipal hall and attendance at a special assembly at Campbell River Junior-Senior High School, Mr. Gagliardi was speaker at a luncheon attended by civic and business leaders at Painter's Lodge.

This evening he will be conducted by the Sea Cadet Band to the Community Hall where he will speak at a "Sourdough's Supper." His topic will be the "Future of Vancouver Island."

Both Mr. Gagliardi and Mr. Downing, who also will speak, will be introduced by Dan Campbell, MLA for Comox.

DUNCAN—March building permits amounted to $12,150 compared with $50,613 for the same month last year, according to city officials.

However, total for the first three months was greater than last year's at this time—$89,765 to $86,503.

In North Cowichan, permits for this March were $63,689 compared with last March's $36,450, while this year's first three-month total is $187,888 compared with $431,558 in 1961.

DUNCAN—Canada's only reptile zoo moved from its present Glenora location today to a new 5-acre site opposite the Duncan golf course.

Most exhibits stayed in their cages for the move but snakes were "sacked" for safety's sake.

Owner Jim Oyen, originally from Holland, built the 36-by-24-foot reptile house three years ago. He hopes to be ready to reopen in time for the Easter holidays.

Larger animals will be moved on the weekend.

MAPLE BAY—Members of Maple Bay Taxpayers' Association were split 20 to 20 at a recent meeting over proposed installation of a boat launching ramp in the bay.

Opponents to the ramp felt increased motorboating would mean increased hazards to swimming as well.

Final decision rests with the North Cowichan council. If the council favors the ramp, the taxpayers' association will suggest installation be to the south of the government wharf.

CAMPBELL RIVER—A coroner's jury was told that a huge steel plate probably caused the death of a 27-year-old Tahsis Logging Co. employee Friday.

The jury on Wednesday ruled the death of Herbert Van Duyn accidental with no one to blame. He died in Campbell River Hospital on Monday.

It is believed the steel plate fell on him edge first when he fell to the floor of the machine shop where he was working with companions. There were no witnesses to the accident.

Many Popular Songs 'Immoral Suggestive Trash,' Say Churchwomen

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Many popular songs heard on radio and TV are "immoral suggestive trash of the worst kind," a women's conference on teen-age problems was told here Wednesday afternoon.

"They are a bad influence on our teen-agers," said Mrs. C. Rientjes of Vancouver, addressing the eighth convention of the Southwestern B.C. Christian Reformed Women's League in First Baptist Church.

"Some popular songs are good—but many of them are immoral suggestive trash. I think we should teach our children to discriminate between the good and the bad."

Mrs. Rientjes—one of a panel of four speakers—said many TV programs present "violence and immorality" as a normal way of life. She referred to "The Untouchables" as an example of violence, but said "some of the immoral sex pictures we see are far worse."

She appealed to parents to restrain their youngsters

from watching undesirable programs, and Mrs. V. Vander-Beek, moderator of the panel, added:

"TV is not a baby sitter and should not be used as such."

More than 500 women from many parts of Vancouver Island and the mainland, and some from the United States, took part in the one-day conference—the first to be held in Victoria.

Many were critical of teen-age dating, especially "going steady."

"Going steady should definitely be discouraged," said Mrs. Rientjes. "Youngsters who do this are missing a lot of fun at a time when they should be cultivating friendships and learning what they are looking for in their life partner."

"It is our duty as parents to watch teen-age dating. We have to decide if our children are emotionally stable and, when there is dating, it should be kept within our own social and church groups."

Parents, she said, should also be concerned about how their children spend money.

"Because young people earn their own money they should not be allowed to spend it unwisely—and they should be required to save part of what they earn."

"Why do teen-agers want so much noise on radio and TV while they are doing their homework?" asked one of the delegates.

"Perhaps because they live in a noisy world," answered panelist Mrs. C. Tuininga of Ladner. "But I think they can be persuaded to turn on the right kind of music while they are working."

Mrs. Tuininga urged parents to support the authority of school teachers. They should explain to their children that all authority comes from God; but this authority is delegated to parents and teachers.

"Their duty, in turn, is to teach children to discipline themselves. Because of this lack of self-discipline, there is an increasing lack of respect for law and order all over the world."

Mrs. R. Popma, wife of the minister of the First Christian Reformed Church in Victoria, said obedience instilled in children in the early years probably stays with them as teen-agers.

"But we must be prepared to reason with teen-agers," she added. "They are in the process of growing up and they like to think for themselves. We should help them to see the wisdom of what we tell them to do."

Mrs. H. Van Andel from New Westminster said the churches have the responsibility of providing teen-agers with social activities that will keep them interested.

"We must be able to appeal to their interests."

Most of the 500 delegates to the conference travelled to Victoria in 11 motor buses via the B.C. government ferry service and returned Wednesday evening after a sight-seeing tour of Greater Victoria.

"It has been a wonderful experience," smiled Mrs. J. Van Laere of Burnaby, current president of the Southwestern B.C. Christian Reformed Women's League.

The delegates were welcomed here by Rev. R. Popma, minister of the First Christian Reformed Church, 661 Agnes Street, Victoria, and two local board members—Mrs. R. Zeistra and Mrs. J. Stadt.

Most members of the B.C. League are married women of Dutch descent, but Christian women of all nationalities are welcomed.

"We had the conference in First Baptist Church because our own church is not large enough," Mr. Popma said.

He added that the church originated in Holland in 1618 after the Reformation and was founded in North America at Grand Rapids, Mich., about 100 years ago.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1962 -PAGE 21

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Queen Elizabeth has given permission for Victoria to include a crown in its proposed coat of arms.

Lt.-Cmdr. Alan R. Beddoe, of Cyrville, Ont., sent a progress report to the city Wednesday. He drafted the original design and arranged for its submission to the College of Heralds in London.

The McKenzie Avenue PTA will meet on Monday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. A film demonstrating mouth-to-mouth resuscitation will be shown.

The Belmont High School PTA is having its annual bazaar at Belmont Secondary School on Friday. A variety concert will be given starting at 7:30 p.m., with an admission price of 35 cents. The bazaar will officially open at the end of the concert.

A report in Wednesday's Times stated the address of Sheelagh McBratney—sentenced Tuesday to three months in prison for shoplifting—was 315 Maitland.

McBratney moved from that address some time ago, the present occupant said today.

City council today was caught in a cold war between two ice cream retailers.

J. C. Beaven, manager of Taste-Freez (Shelbourne) Ltd., applied for a trades licence to operate a mobile soft ice cream unit on city streets.

The application was strongly opposed by Hillside and Douglas Street Dairy Queen operators who pointed out that a mobile unit, unlike their establishments, could escape paying property taxes.

The city does not permit the mobile units at present but Esquimalt does.

Most likely action by aldermen was to refer the issue to a committee for study.

School board and Kiwanis Club officials have agreed to postpone an "Elmer the Elephant" school safety campaign until fall when the new school year begins.

The campaign is in the form of inter-form competition with awards going to accident-free grades.

A former Victoria resident, Brian Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Johnson, 1766 Haultain, has been given a United States national architectural design award.

A pupil at the Art Centre in Los Angeles, the 30-year-old former RCAF navigator received a certificate, $125 and an expense-paid three-day trip to Miami.

He attended Oaklands and Victoria High schools before going to Victoria College.

Guest conductor of the Victoria Concert Orchestra on Tuesday evening at a concert Hospital was Basil J. McFarlane of Sarnia, Ontario.

The orchestra was organized in 1960 by Raymond Loffner.

Victoria Lions Club will hold a nominating meeting at a luncheon at noon on Friday in the Empress Hotel.

READY TO RECEIVE furniture and fittings is the brand new Salvation Army Matson Lodge for elderly people at 847 Dunsmuir Road. Cornerstone was laid Jan. 20 and official opening will be June 2 when Canadian Commissioner W. W. Booth will come from Toronto to officiate. Also expected to be present are Mayor R. B. Wilson and Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

EXPO-LODGING IN TROUBLE

Crisis Threatens Tourist Industry

British Columbia's tourist industry faces a major crisis over the threatened failure of its Expo-Lodging Tourist Accommodation service linking Victoria and Vancouver and Seattle, leading tourist officials said today.

They estimate at least $14,000 is needed to continue the Expo-Lodging Centre in Victoria—and the Vancouver centre is also short of funds. Directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce will discuss the crisis at their monthly meeting in the Empress Hotel Friday at noon, and will consider seeking grants from the B.C. government and the municipalities.

The B.C. Chamber of Commerce has also called an emergency meeting of its executive in Vancouver.

Two Youths Sentenced To Oakalla

Two youths convicted last week of attempting to break and enter the premises of a Government Street auto equipment dealer were today sent to the Young Offenders Unit at Oakalla.

Walter Graham, 851 Short, was sentenced to one year definite and six months indefinite, and Bruce Tennant, 7656 Wallace Drive, received nine months definite and six months indefinite.

The youths were found late at night behind the premises of Jeffree and Jeffree, 2507 Government.

"There is still time for you to reform and make yourselves into good citizens," Magistrate William Ostler told them.

Graham, he said, suffered a conflict between "good intentions and bad associations" and the latter had been winning.

He said Tennant had "been wandering around getting into trouble."

North Saanich Area Facing $306,000 Bylaw for Schools

Saanich peninsula ratepayers are expected to go to the polls sometime in May to vote on a $306,000 school building bylaw.

The building program was presented Wednesday night to a meeting of representatives of local councils and ratepayers' groups. It includes:

—Purchase of a four-acre site adjacent to Keating Elementary School for construction of a new four-room school. Three of the rooms are covered by allocations in previous referendums. It is intended to abandon the existing school.

—Two new classrooms at Royal Oak Elementary School where some pupils are occupying two rooms in the adjacent junior high school.

—New three-room schools for the Royal Oak Avenue-Lochside Road and West-Saanich-Dunsmuir Road areas.

Final decision for the form of the bylaw and voting date will be made on Monday.

"If the Victoria and Vancouver centres fail, the entire Expo-Lodging system will collapse and the whole province will suffer," said chamber director Sam Lane.

"Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle are the main distribution centres through which our summer tourist traffic will flow. Without them we shall have chaos, with tourists sleeping in their cars as they did during the ferry strike of 1958."

At an emergency meeting in Victoria Wednesday, it was agreed that the Victoria centre will fold up within a month unless it gets adequate financial backing.

WELL ATTENDED

The meeting was attended by executives of the centre and the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

They said present funds would not be sufficient even to continue the ambitious teletype system linking the Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle centres with Grant's Pass, Oregon, and reaching up-island to Nanaimo, Courtenay, Alberni and Campbell River.

This system is needed to find accommodation for the millions of U.S. tourists expected to travel up to B.C. via the Seattle Century 21 Exhibition.

Considerable funds will also be needed to increase the staff at the Victoria centre so that it can handle inquiries from 8 a.m. until midnight seven days a week during the peak months.

BIGGEST JOB

"We are faced with the biggest public relations job this city has ever known," Mr. Lane said. "It extends far beyond the tourist industry itself. Priorities must be put aside to make the best use of the opportunity to let rooms and all retailers will benefit."

"But if we don't accommodate the tourists who come here, we will get a bad name down south and our tourist trade will suffer for years to come."

Mr. Lane recalled that tourist accommodation groups in the Victoria area contributed $2 to the Expo-Lodging Centre for each of the 3,900 accommodation units in the area.

HALF TO CITY

Half was to go to the Victoria office and half to the Seattle office.

"We have about $2,000 on hand in Victoria at present," Mr. Lane said.

He added that the problem of accommodation would be aggravated by the fact that more than 750,000 leaflets urging tourists to visit B.C. this summer have been distributed in the United States.

"The province has also been advertised in newspapers across the continent," he said.

WILL THEY BAT IT FOUL?

A petition by 42 persons opposing a change in the name of Foul Bay Road was to be considered by city council today.

Aldermen previously approved in principle changing the road's name to University Way providing Oak Bay council agreed.

Since then, a storm of controversy has arisen against the change, with residents on the road in the forefront. Petitions also have been sent to Oak Bay council.

Most likely upshot is thought to be a compromise under which Foul Bay Road would be retained from Gonzales Beach to Fort Street with the remainder being changed to University Way along with portions of Henderson and Finerty.

MOTORIST FINED

Tinkering With Meter Costs $50

A car salesman who wanted to save himself the expense of putting a few coins in a parking meter wound up with a hefty fine in city police court today.

William Burrows, 4051 Shelbourne, was fined $50 for inserting an object other than a Canadian or U.S. coin into a city parking meter.

Court was told Burrows was seen putting a small nail file into the coin slot of a meter on the north side of Yates Street between Vancouver and Quadra Streets.

"The purpose of this action," prosecutor Angus Smith, explained, "was to run down the meter's spring. If this is done while there is time still showing on the meter it will stay like that all day—there isn't enough power left to raise the red expiration flag."

Mr. Smith said city officials had noticed recently that a number of meters along the same stretch of road had not been providing the normal amount of revenue.

"It's extremely dishonest of you—to do you make a practise of doing this?" Magistrate Ostler asked Burrows.

"It's the first time," the salesman replied.

PIGEONS RACING

Lots of Birds To Follow To Victoria

There must have been many a would-be tourist in summers past who has scanned the skies in vain for birds to follow to Victoria.

This summer, however, Victoria-bound visitors will be able to make use of any number of flights from various B.C. centres.

That gargantuan gull so often depicted on travel posters to the contrary notwithstanding, this year's birds will be pigeons.

Members of the Capital City Racing Pigeon Club have built a truck by themselves in which they propose to transport their birds to various towns in the province for release as part of the annual racing schedule.

Presumably the pigeons will be able to find their way back to the Island from centres as far afield as Kamloops. Some may be persuaded to make the flight from Edmonton.

HOME RUNS

Local tourist officials are hoping that prospective visitors will take advantage of the periodic "home runs" to spend a few days in Victoria.

In fact, so enthusiastic is the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau that it has given its blessing to the program and its approval of a four by five foot sign on the home-made truck bearing the traditional slogan "Follow the Birds to Victoria."

It is hoped that some pigeons will accompany the premier, the mayor, and other "civic and business" leaders if and when they go to the Seattle World Fair for "Victoria Day," Sept. 10.

It is not expected that either the premier or the mayor will make the trip to Seattle in the pigeon van.

The premier, in particular, has always been one to cry "Smear!" at the slightest provocation.

In any case, the birds would be "liberated" at the fair, and it is hoped they would bring many tourists home with them.

The racing club will leave for its summer program and other B.C. centres on Saturday, May 5. Some 200 birds will take part in the races.

Police Lose Bid For 9% Raise

Plaza Builders Plan Centre On Shelbourne

Town and Country Shopping Plaza developers plan to establish a smaller shopping centre at Hillside near Shelbourne.

An application by Dominion Construction Co. of Vancouver to rezone two large lots at Hillside and Shakespeare was to be considered by city council today.

It is understood the proposal involves construction of a 20,000-square-foot super market, six smaller stores and a parking lot for about 200 cars.

Proposed location is part of the site originally planned for the multi-million-dollar Hillside Shopping Plaza which never got beyond the preliminary planning stage.

Dominion Construction's proposal follows by a few days the announcement of a $6,000,000 shopping centre development including a Woodward's department store on the Baker Brick and Tile property on Douglas at Tolmie.

Planning Board Bucks Park Plan

More blows fell today on a proposal to develop a medieval amusement park at the city-owned Gorge Park.

The influential Capital Region Planning Board issued a four-page report strongly opposing use of park land for the commercial venture.

The Vancouver promoters of the scheme, Sherwood Forest Parklands Ltd., are having difficulty in making financial arrangements satisfactory to the city as well as meeting opposition to their choice of site.

The University Women's Club, Council of Women, Dogwood Social Credit Women's Auxiliary, Victoria Natural History Society and various individuals have opposed the proposal.

They contend that if a tourist attraction is to be erected in the park area, it should be a model Indian village operated by the nearby Songhees tribe.

WOULD BE LOST

The CRBP warned that the 11-acre city woodland at Tillamook and Gorge Road—would be lost to local citizens if allowed to develop into a commercial amusement park, closing primarily to tourists and closed seven months of the year.

It pointed out that 3,500 persons—including 500 senior citizens and 1,000 children—live within half a mile of the park and there is no other significant park available in the district.

The park, with 1,000 feet of waterfront opposite the well-known reversing falls in the Gorge, would be a keystone public area in any future development of the Gorge waterway, as suggested for a 1967 national centennial project.

LLOYD DETWILLER... consultant

B.C. Hospital Official Takes Post at UBC

Appointment of Lloyd F. Detwiler, assistant deputy minister of the B.C. Hospitals Insurance Service, to the staff of the University of British Columbia, was announced today by President N. A. M. MacKenzie.

Dr. MacKenzie said Mr. Detwiler will act as consultant to the university on planning of the UBC health sciences centre and hospital, and will become administrator of the hospital when it is constructed.

Mr. Detwiler, the president said, has had a distinguished career in economics and hospital administration.

"We feel we are fortunate in obtaining the services of one who knows the hospital field so well," he said. "His previous experience will be of great benefit in the planning and operation of our university hospital."

DEGREE IN 1939

Mr. Detwiler received his B.A. degree from UBC in 1939 with honors in economics and government. He was awarded his master's degree the following year with first-class honors in economics and statistics.

Following service from 1940 to 1945 with the Royal Canadian Air Force, Mr. Detwiler lectured at UBC before joining the provincial government as a research statistician in the treasury department.

From 1948 to 1950 he was commissioner of sales tax and from 1950 until 1954 he served as commissioner of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

In 1955 Mr. Detwiler left government service to take post-graduate work in the field of hospital administration at the universities of Minnesota and California.

BECAME ASSISTANT

During residency at the University of California medical centre he served as assistant administrator at the university hospital. He was awarded the degree of master of hospital administration by Minnesota in 1957. The same year he returned to B.C. to assume the post of assistant deputy minister of hospital insurance.

The UBC health science centre will embrace the university hospital, the faculties of medicine, dentistry and pharmacy, and the schools of nursing and rehabilitation medicine.

Given Same As Other Civic Unions

City policemen's union lost its bid for a 9 per cent wage increase, it was learned today.

An arbitration board gave the police only a 4 per cent wage hike—the same amount the union had rejected during negotiations with city police commission.

The award handed down by the three-man board will add about $24,000 to a $650,000 wage bill for the 100-member force—about $30,000 less than the policemen's demand would have cost.

$474 BASIC

It raised the basic pay scale—for first class constable—from the present $456 a month to $474. The police union had sought $497 for this group.

The binding decision keeps the police in line with the other three civic unions, representing some 500 persons in the fire-fighting force, "inside" and "outside" staffs.

All four unions this year opened negotiations asking for 9 per cent wage-increases.

The city's counter-offer to all was 3 per cent and this was raised finally to 4 per cent along with an improvement in annual holidays.

Only the police rejected the settlement and asked for an arbitration board.

BOARD MEMBERS

The board, which held a one-day hearing at the department of labor offices here, was headed by Vancouver lawyer R. G. Herbert, commission-nominee was Col. A. D. Murdoch of Victoria and union-nominee was Paul Payne of Vancouver.

Arguing the commission's case was E. E. Pearlman of Victoria. Representing the union was Owen Mason of Vancouver.

17-Year-Old Admits Guilt

A 17-year-old youth pleaded guilty in Oak Bay and city police courts today to six charges of theft and one of attempted breaking and entering.

Lewis Patrick Steven, 1922 Leighton, was remanded to April 19 for probation report and sentence by Magistrate William Ostler.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. In a court of law in Russia what would they do instead of swearing on the Bible before giving testimony?—M.T.

A. The Russian Court of Russia there preside three judges, one of whom is professional, being elected for a period of three years by the voters of the district. On either side of him sit two lay judges chosen for their character and common sense. They are changed after sitting 12 days on the bench.

Once the accused is brought before him, the professional judge says: "Do you challenge any member of this Court?" His second question is: "Do you have confidence in the judges to give you a fair trial?" Then the formal act of accusation is read to the defendant by the prosecutor and from there they proceed to develop the case.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

SHOPPING GUIDE

He Won't Miss a Breeze If He Has One of These

By PENNY SAVER

Something dashing, daring and debonair to add to the clothes conscious man's wardrobe for sporting occasions, especially sailing, is an international signal flag jacket.

Made of cotton this smart jacket features a novelty signal flag lining, cotton ribbed collar and cuffs and a zipper front. Jackets come in a choice of four internationally recognized signals, with double meanings, which I assure you will not prove embarrassing.

One bright red jacket would win admiring glances as well as being a conversation piece.

Front features a snow-white background with a large red diamond centred on it. This "flag" indicates the letter "F" in signalling as well as giving a message. The message? "I am disabled, communicate with me."

Signal letter "Z" is depicted on a black jacket. The "flag" in this case is something like four triangles fitted together in a square and each triangle is a different color, yellow, red, black and navy.

This signal is also to be used "to address or call shore stations."

Four squares within a square alternating in yellow and black depict the flag letter "L". The message, "You should stop. I have something important to communicate with you."

Navy and white checks on a navy colored jacket indicate the letter "N" and say "no or negative signal."

These are only four of the signals available in jackets from sizes 36 to 44 that sell at $13.95. If you care to order any other international signal it can be done.

Curious, at least to the point of wanting to look at these new jackets? If so, give me a call.

THE BETTER HALF

By Bob Barnes

"Your mother doesn't tie very good bows."

DEAR ABBY...

Play It Dumb, Sweetie!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a college sophomore and have recently started dating (steady) a college senior. He is a little on the shy side, and when he kissed me for the first time I thought he was kidding. Abby, he doesn't know the first thing about how to kiss a girl. Do you think I should try to teach him, or should I just wait and let him learn by himself?

EXPERIENCED.

DEAR EXPERIENCED: Let him learn by himself, unless you are willing to tell him where you became an expert.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to hire an "unattached" father to watch TV with, and to be a father to my three active children under 15. We have everything money can buy. My husband is his own boss and doesn't work more than two hours a day. He leaves the house at 9 a.m. and never gets home before midnight. He says he loves us, but the makeup on his shirts is not mine.

I've tried everything to bring us closer together. I've seen our minister, a marriage counselor, and even a psychiatrist. They have helped me to bear it, but the situation hasn't improved. My husband just keeps telling me how "wonderful" I am to put up with him. I suppose I should be ashamed to complain because there are worse problems than mine, but I'm feeling blue tonight.

LAST HOPE.

DEAR LAST HOPE: Maybe you're too "wonderful." Just "bearing" a situation does not improve it. Something vital is missing at home or your husband wouldn't behave as he does. You can get the facts from your husband. Go after them and try to rebuild your

The engagement is announced of Miss Dorothy Hazel Sutcliffe, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sutcliffe of Yorkshire, Eng., to Mr. John Franklin Turnbull, son of Mrs. Viola Turnbull and the late Mr. D. Turnbull of Victoria. The wedding will take place in St. Saviour's Anglican Church at 8.30 p.m., on May 12, with Rev. Douglas Kendall officiating.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

For Library—Members of HMS Ganges Chapter, IODE, voted to present the book, "The St. Lawrence" to Salt Spring Island's centennial library at recent meeting. Mrs. B. E. Hardie, presided. Miss Zella Manning, Empire and world affairs, spoke on "The Spread of Communism." Easter candy will be sent to chapter's adopted school at Tatlayoka Lake, B.C. Mrs. H. Carlin, educational secretary, reported. Mrs. G. St. Denis, services convener, asked for women's clothing and jewelry for the fashion room in Esson-dale Hospital. Mrs. Graham Shove and Mrs. G. S. Humphreys will convene dinner meeting to be held in Harbor House, May 4 at 6.30 p.m., when Mrs. R. R. Shortreed, provincial president, will be guest speaker. Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Gavin Moul and Mrs. Shove.

New Officers—Mrs. Norman Dobbyn was elected president of Our Lady of the Rosary Council, Catholic Women's League, at annual meeting in the Langford parish hall. Other officers are Mrs. Christopher Rees, first vice-president; Mrs. Joseph Gulle-maud, second, and Mrs. Maurice Valcourt, third. Mrs. J. B. Chisholm, past president, reported past year's projects as a membership tea, assistance at parish bazaar, and weekly care of the church. A Brownie pack had been organized under conversership of Mrs. Russell MacMillan and it was hoped to form a Guide company this year. Reports were also given by Mrs. A. McTavish, Scout and Cub convener; Mrs. L. Crossley, radio, television, films and literature, and Mrs. H. James, diocesan convener. A membership tea is planned for late May in the church grounds.

Quebec Women Ask Full Equality With Men

MONTREAL (CP)—La Ligue des Femmes Canadiennes, in a brief prepared for presentation to Premier Lesage Tuesday calls for a complete revision of Quebec's Civil Code to give women full equality with men.

The brief said "inequality which is imbedded in the old Napoleonic Civil Code still persists in political, economic, social and cultural life."

Examples it cited include the legal barriers against a married woman with no marriage contract dealing in real estate or taking court action without the consent of her husband.

TO HELP MOTHERS

The brief also says that, at present, no mother may authorize even an emergency operation on a child of minor age. It requests that a policy of equal pay for equal work be adopted throughout industry, brief says, "that a great many Quebecers favor their contribution to economic and social progress in the province and in the country as a whole."

National Group Takes Safety Belt Campaign

National Council of Women will campaign this year for Canada-wide use of seat belts, says the president, Mrs. Saul Hayes of Montreal.

In Victoria on a brief visit this morning, Mrs. Hayes explained that the 37 local councils and seven provincial councils across Canada, representing 21 national organizations and federations with more than 700,000 women will conduct the project, in conjunction with the National Highway Safety Council.

Work of the National Council of Women covers a wide range of interests aimed to bring about a sympathetic understanding of the needs of the Canadian people and, through the opinions and suggestions of its member groups, to work toward improvement of these conditions.

"Problems are studied first at local level; briefs are prepared and sent with resolutions to our provincial groups and from there to the national executive for consideration," Mrs. Hayes explains.

"When we have studied

them, and added our suggestions they go back to local councils for further study before we are ready to prepare final briefs and to go to government with them."

"When we do go to government it is the considered opinion of all our members and as such, is taken very seriously," Mrs. Hayes said. Then she added with a proud smile: "After all, you cannot ignore the voice of more than 700,000 women."

The national president is on a two-week visit to councils in Alberta and British Columbia. This morning she was welcomed to the city by Mayor R. B. Wilson and signed the visitors' book at City Hall.

From here she went on to Nanaimo and then to Vancouver, the Fraser Valley and the Okanagan.

Rummage Sale

Heirloom Bracelet Worn by Bride

An heirloom gold bracelet, highlighted with ruby and diamonds, was "something old" for Miss Ivy-Ann Marie Melnyk when she exchanged vows with David William Stewart in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. She wore a three-piece beige suit, complemented with a white lace straw hat by Andre of Paris. Gardenias and streamers topped the white prayer book she carried. White gardenias on corsage were pinned on the lapel of her suit.

Rev. R. MacMillan officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. MacMillan sang, "I Love You Truly," accompanied by organist, Mrs. Ruth Jones.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Nestor P. Melnyk, 1233 Topaz Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Stewart, 2046 Chaucer Street. Mr. Melnyk gave his daughter in marriage.

Maid of honor was Miss Lynne Stewart, the groom's sister. She was gowned in forest green and had a pink rosebud corsage.

Herbert Dawson was best man and ushering guests were David Melnyk and Charles Weir.

David Weir proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in Holyrood House.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip up-Island the bride topped her wedding ensemble with a matching coat.

Newlyweds will make their home at 1010 Foul Bay Road.

Purple and Gold, Wedding Decor

Purple and gold theme was used at recent wedding of Miss Marlene Craig and Norman Gerald Jackson in St. Alban's Anglican Church. Yellow chrysanthemums and purple heather were seen in floral decor and same colors were repeated in attendants' gowns.

ORGANZA GOWNS

Miss Jo Humber was maid of honor, bridesmaids were the Misses Lynn Jackson and Arlene Craig. They wore full-skirted gowns in ballerina length of mauve nylon organza. In contrast, Miss Vicki Jackson was flower girl in embroidered yellow nylon organza.

All carried yellow carnation fans highlighted with mauve streamers.

Entering the church on her father's arm, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza with a bouffant skirt that had layers of sheer nylon over taffeta sweeping back to a train. Skirt was trimmed with appliques of lace rosettes and paillettes. Lace enhanced the yoke and sleeves ended in lily points. Headpiece of seed pearls and tear drop crystals held the tiered illusion net veil. Yellow roses and mimosa were in the cascade bouquet.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. George Craig, 1444 Westall Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jackson, 2587 Cook Street.

Rev. F. W. Hayes officiated at the evening ceremony. Pat Fenske was best man and ushers were Brian Craig and Lyle Ebert.

W. H. Aldred proposed the toast at a reception in the Golden Slipper Supper Club. Three-tier wedding cake was flanked with arrangements of daffodils.

As her going-away ensemble the bride chose a green Italian knit suit, trimmed with beige and complemented with beige accessories. Corsage was of yellow rosebuds.

After a honeymoon trip to California the newlyweds will make their home at 2927 Glasgow Avenue.

WHY GROW OLD?

Read Your Newspaper
For Fun as Well as News

Sometimes one sees the funniest thing in newspapers. Don't get me wrong! I love newspapers and I have found newspaper people to be tops. No doubt you have read things in my column which sounded as strange as the following.

"Dress up your pan-cakes." I have enough trouble enough with pancakes as it is. I don't want to dress them up. I would rather dress myself up and the two do not go together, so the pancakes will have to look out for themselves. (I am thinking of that five pounds I must lose to look well in a certain new dress.)

Once when I was writing about swimming, a line from the society page got mixed up with my copy by mistake and it said, "The bride's parents gave a lovely reception following the wedding ceremony. Three hundred guests were present. Take a deep breath and submerge."

That one hit me where I live. That's just what we all feel like doing at a party of that size.

Then I remember reading about the 84-year-old woman who was arrested because she disturbed the neighbors by playing a banjo too loudly and too late at night. Hope I will feel like that when I am 84, even if they do arrest me!

There are funny things happening all around us if we are aware of them. I am making a scrapbook of the funny things I read in newspapers. If you see any, I wish you would send them to me. Thanks ahead of time!

Yes, you can cut blouse out of dress pattern.

"Dear Eunice: Is it possible to make a blouse from a dress pattern? I think it is very hard to find nice blouse patterns and I do have a favorite neckline on a dress."—Mrs. A. R.

Dear Mrs. A. R.: Yes, this is possible, and not too difficult. Since all blouses need a little "ease" in other words, they are not fitted as close as a dress, allow a little extra length. You could lay a skirt pattern over the bodice pattern, and in this way you would get the correct curve for the hip-line. However, once again, I want to warn you that you must allow for more length in the bodice, and a little extra in the width. Your blouse should be about 6 inches below the waist so it doesn't slip out of your skirt easily.

Many women forget that a skirt can be made from any skirt of a dress pattern. You do not need to buy an extra pattern for the skirt if you have a favorite one. Just cut it as usual, making any pattern changes necessary for fitting, and then apply the waistband.

Jaycees Condemn Action on Power

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night condemned the B.C. government's latest power legislation. The Jaycees resolution criticizes the government for the arbitrary manner in which compensation to shareholders was set. The new legislation, it says, is a deliberate attempt to put the government's action above the "usual democratic process of the courts."

It refers to Bill 83, which prohibits court action on terms of the government's B.C. Electric takeover.

Their resolution will be submitted to a district Jaycee meeting in Powell River at the weekend.

JUSTICE PROMISED ON TIMBER RIGHTS DEAL

Indians Need Jobs Diefenbaker Told

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a United Church minister Wednesday that he couldn't use his office to decide in the favor of one company or another in the awarding of timber rights on the Tsimpsan Indian reservation in British Columbia.

Rev. Peter Kelly of Nanaimo, sent here by the 1,000-member Prince Rupert band, met the prime minister for about 10 minutes before Mr. Diefenbaker went into the Commons.

The 75-year-old minister sought Mr. Diefenbaker's support in awarding the timber rights of the reservation to Beaufort Industries of Victoria, as soon as possible to provide employment for the band.

The rights, originally awarded Shoreline Lumber Company of Vancouver, have been put up for new bids, by Citizenship Minister Fairclough because of objections to the Shoreline bid raised by the band and in the Commons.

Mr. Kelly said that this would take too long and that the Indians needed employment. He quoted Mr. Diefenbaker as saying that he was in office to see "that full justice is done to the Indians."

The Shoreline contract was cancelled after Judy La Marsh, Liberal member of Parliament for Niagara Falls, said the contract went to the low-bidding Shoreline Company because the company backed the Progressive Conservative party.

chosen by the band to come to Mr. Kelly said he was Ottawa and see the prime minister because of the urgency of the situation.

The prime minister saw him, he said, "because he told me some time ago that he would see me anytime."

In the Commons, Mrs. Fairclough was upheld by a vote of 188 to 6 in her refusal to make public correspondence since 1954 concerning proposed or actual timber sales from the reservation.

ITALY SETS MAFIA PROBE

ROME (Reuters)—The Italian senate voted unanimously Wednesday night to investigate the Sicilian Mafia secret society and to seek ways of rooting out the dreaded organization.

The senate established a 30-member joint-parliamentary commission to examine "origins and characteristics" and to propose "measures necessary to repress" the 160-year-old secret society.

BETWEEN YATES AND JOHNSON

There Are Jobs Waiting Even for Those Over 90

Here is the fifth of 12 articles from the book, "A Brighter Later Life," by Howard Whitman, noted writer on human affairs and social problems.

By HOWARD WHITMAN

In Canada, at Sydney, Nova Scotia, in May, 1960, Joseph White landed a job with a contractor. A carpenter all his life, he had been out of work for six months previously. He was elated to request local officials to remove his name from the unemployment insurance rolls — especially elated because he was 91 years old!

Whitman

In the United States, a woman named Carrie Hart had been soliciting for the Community Chest and its successor, the United Givers Fund, for 25 years. At the start of the 1960 drive, she fell and broke her hip. But as soon as she got back from the hospital, she plunged into the work with renewed fervor and turned over a generous sum at the close of the campaign.

Her age?

"Just say I'm over 80!" Older people everywhere, in scores of capacities, are demonstrating their capabilities, their talents, and their resourcefulness. They are the avant-garde of a new era for the aged — an era in which older persons are not consigned to the rocking chair and swathed in dutiful sympathy on the part of their relatives, but rather an era in which they themselves are playing a productive, participating role in society, the role of first-class citizen.

Famous People

Who are these trail-blazing elders? Most of us can tick off some names of famous people, past or present, who have gone on to brilliant productivity even after they had passed the Biblical life quota of three-score years and 10:

Gladstone, who was Prime Minister of Britain at 84.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, who was on the Supreme Court bench in his nineties.

Tennyson, who wrote "Crossing the Bar" at 80.

Bellini, who was still painting some of his finest works at 83.

Alexander Humboldt who published a volume of his "Cosmology" at 89.

And, of course, the amazingly durable and infinitely productive Robert Frost and the late Grandma Moses.

But what about the everyday people? There may be several in your own community. Their names do not make headlines, nor will the dictionaries of biography immortalize them; they simply keep on doing their jobs as the decades of life roll by. In their quiet, productive days, they earn for themselves the title which Bernard Baruch once applied to them: "the bone and sinew of the nation."

Chemist at 80

Here are just a handful of the hundreds of examples we have encountered in communities throughout the country:

A chemist past 80, serving as consultant to a manufacturing company.

A 94-year-old woman working as receptionist for an optometrist.

A physician, age 90, still actively in practice.

A woman insurance broker, also 90, still conducting a thriving business.

An artist and woodcarver, in his eighties, busily trying to keep abreast of the demand for his skills in retouching and restoring paintings and frescoes.

A biologist who, at age 96, published a comprehensive history of biological science.

The capabilities of age are many and varied. We have lost sight of them in our era of youth-worship. We have overlooked the thoroughness of age, the reliability and responsibility, the patience to stick with the long and irksome task.

W. Somerset Maugham once wrote, "When I was young I was amazed at Plutarch's statement that the elder Cato began at the age of 80 to learn Greek. I am amazed no longer. Old age is ready to undertake tasks that youth shirked because they would take too long."

Age, where given a chance, is showing its capabilities in scores of ways, from skilled handicraft to college teaching.

Must Be 65

At the Hastings College of Law of the University of California—Dean David E. Snodgrass has pulled a switch on the usual hiring procedure: he has hired professors only after they've been forced out of their jobs at other schools because of compulsory retirement. While most colleges "fire" at 65, Hastings hires at 65.

Dean Snodgrass puts the proposition bluntly: "This notion that a man is hired just because he has celebrated an arbitrary number of birthdays is idiotic."

The permanent faculty at Hastings has become known as the "Sixty-Five Club" because each man is over 65 at least. The oldest professor was hired in 1937 at the age of 80. The Sixty-Five Club has converted Hastings from a relatively obscure school to one which is the largest approved law school west of Chicago and one of the most respected in the nation.

Roscoe Pound, one of the most famous professors of law, and once Dean Snodgrass' law dean at Harvard, commented on the Hastings faculty. "On the whole, I am inclined to think you have the strongest law faculty in the country."

The 80-year-old professor hired in 1937 had formerly been dean of the University of Cincinnati Law School—Merton L. Ferson. One student recalled the first time Dean Ferson lectured in a classroom in Hastings' modern building in downtown San Francisco.

"When Dean Ferson came into the room," the student related, "we saw a small, slight grey-haired man. But when he opened his mouth to talk, his voice was so strong it sounded as though it were coming over a public-address system."

Joy of Teaching

Another of the outstanding professors who came to Hastings after a lifetime of teaching elsewhere was Everett Fraser, compulsorily retired from his post as dean of the University of Minnesota Law School. Before coming to Hastings, he stayed on at Minnesota in an administrative position. But he refused to stop teaching.

He carried a full load of classes for nine years, even though the University couldn't legally pay him a penny for it. Here was an older man teaching for the pure joy and love of it.

After he came to Hastings and had reached his 78th birthday, Fraser was asked how much longer he intended to go on teaching.

He replied, with a smile, "I've been told that there are three things that improve with age: a song, a wine, and a lawyer."

The collective experience of the Hastings faculty cannot be matched by any other law school. Five of the members of the Sixty-Five Club, are former deans of major university law schools. Nearly every member of the faculty is the author of casebooks and textbooks used in law schools from Los Angeles to Boston.

A rising young professor of law recently applied for a full-time teaching position at Hastings and got this reply from Dean Snodgrass:

"We are complimented by your application. However, it is not our policy to engage men so young for other than administrative or part-time positions on our teaching staff. Our full-time professors must be at least 65 years old. If at that age or older you should still like to teach at Hastings, I or my successor will be glad to reconsider you."

'Excellent Job'

The American Bar Association sent an inspection committee of law-school deans to give Hastings the once-over. How good were its post-65 professors? The inspection committee reported:

"In view of the fact that the faculty are all over 65, we felt that age might have slowed them up. Consequently, we spent some time listening to those who had classes during our visit. The classroom performance in each instance was excellent."

"Your evaluators are of the opinion that the faculty is alert, interested in and insisting upon high standards of legal education and doing an excellent job, not only in the classroom but in public service and research."

NEXT: Why compulsory retirement?

CHOSEN to portray President Kennedy as a young naval officer in the film "PT 109" is actor Cliff Robertson who has been seen in TV dramas and in such movies as "The Girl Most Likely" and currently in "My Six Loves." Robertson was chosen for the role by Jack L. Warner and producer Bryan Foy with the approval of the White House.

N.Y. Teachers Go Back to Work

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking teachers were sent back to their classrooms today by their union after a one-day walkout that disrupted operations at practically all of New York City's 900 public schools.

The decision to end the strike was announced at 3:30 a.m. EST after a seven-hour meeting of the executive board of the AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers.

Union President Charles Cogen said the board voted 32 to 12 to obey a state Supreme Court order against the strike which was obtained Wednesday by the board of education.

Cogen denounced the court order but said the teachers had to obey it or run the risk of severe penalties.

More than half of the city's 40,000 teachers stayed away from their classrooms Wednesday day in the strike for higher pay. Cogen set the absentee figure at 30,000 teachers.

More than 20 schools closed down, and tens of thousands of pupils were turned loose. Scores of other schools merely went through the motions of conducting classes as teachers picketed outside.

Cogen said the 1,000-member federation of teachers — bargaining agent for all 40,000 public school teachers — "expects that all teachers who supported the strike will be restored to duty without reprisals or penalties of any kind, direct or indirect."

A New York State law prohibits strikes by public employees. The act, which the federation calls unconstitutional, provides for dismissal of violators. It allows their rehiring, but with the loss of certain pay increases and tenure rights.

The act—seldom invoked in the state—was cited to the teachers here, but not actually invoked.

In announcing the end of the strike, Cogen said the union expects Mayor Robert F. Wagner "to find the funds necessary for teachers' raises."

Gunman Shot Dead On Toronto Street

TORONTO (CP) — A motorcyclist, fired. He ran a few more yards and then tried again. Again the gun failed to fire. In both cases the range was point-blank.

Gee ran again, but the third time he turned Const. Midgley fired and dropped his man with two shots in the abdomen—one high and one low.

Gee lived only a few hours after he fell to the street in his own blood.

Mr. MacPherson said he met Gee in a downtown tavern and that Gee had asked for a ride to the west end of Toronto.

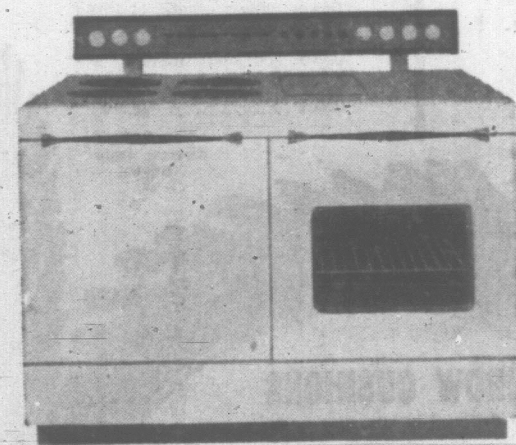

On the way, Gee demanded money.

As Mr. MacPherson turned up an avenue he saw Const. Midgley, slammed on his brakes and yelled for help.

Gee turned, aimed and pulled the trigger of his gun. It mis-

Exercise Proves Rugged Affair

BY DON INGHAM

Spent a pleasant Sunday at sea with Victoria Squadron of the Canadian Power Squadrons recently during an exercise for members of the CBS advanced navigation course here, and learned a few lessons myself.

One—it's difficult to exercise navigational abilities in a 30-foot cruiser which is doing its best to stand on both bow and stern at the same time.

Two—this group of yachtsmen observes its own regulations, and one of them is "safety first."

Three—if one type of exercise in small boat operation must be scrubbed, there are plenty more to take its place.

I attended this floating classroom as a guest of Vic Griffin in his Hi-Seas, with students Tom Bird and Tom Cantell as navigators.

The sun was bright, the sky was blue, and Shute Pass was a mass of whitecaps. The skipper tried his best to ease Hi-Seas along, but our students were finding it impossible to keep their tools on the chart table.

Finally the voice of Jack Simpson, who had the largest complement of students aboard his Caravelle, was heard on the radio-telephone:

"I don't know about the rest of you, but I'm finding it dangerous in here. The air is filled with flying dividers, slide rules, parallel rulers, protractors, bearing plates, well-sharpened pencils, and I'm afraid for my life."

"Let's wait until it quiets down a bit, and these people can get something out of the exercise."

Twice agreed that all seven craft should return to Canoe Cove. However, Mel Brundrige, with the smallest cruiser on the job and no radio-telephone, kept on to the end of the exercise as originally drafted by John Hedley and Alex James—all the way to Ganges and return.

Because he could not be told of the cancellation, Jack Davey, in his big and sturdy Nomad Chief, followed after him to make sure he came to no harm.

He didn't. He and his crew ran through the whole exercise with no trouble, and were something less than humble when they met with the rest again late in the day.

Here are just a few of the requirements of the exercise: maintain ship's log, plot course neatly and completely, name at least four routine practice safety checks to be made before leaving mooring, be at a specified position at a specified time, compute the estimated time of arrival at various points along the route, estimate point of meeting Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry, carry out a man overboard exercise, set and run a course, figure magnetic bearings, make running fixes and plot positions.

HAMMARSKJÖLD
... Katanga victim?

Paper Claims Proof Rocket Killed Dag

MILAN, Italy (Reuters)—The independent newspaper Il Giorno today repeated its claim that a secret report to the United Nations established that Dag Hammarskjöld's aircraft was brought down by rocket fire from a Katangan aircraft.

The newspaper reported the denial of its story Wednesday by UN officials, but added: "The political equilibrium in the Congo might be compromised by an accusation against the present Katangan leaders."

"But it is a fact that the report arrived in the United Nations office a few weeks ago. And it was from there that it reached us."

Il Giorno said the report was signed by Bo Virving, a Swede on the UN inquiry commission into the plane crash which killed the former UN secretary-general last September.

INDIAN INTEGRATION 3-DAY PARLEY TOPIC

Integration of Indians into B.C.'s social and economic life will be discussed at a meeting of the Indian Advisory Committee in Williams Lake next week.

The three-day meeting, starting Monday, was announced by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, under whose department the committee operates.

It is the first meeting in a year. Local Indians, government officials, police and service club members are among those invited to attend.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Beautiful Edie Adams went with us to beautiful Rosemary Clooney's Copacabana opening — and these two girls, each sort of alone nowadays, became good friends instantly.
"Rosie," and Edie, "how can I get a copy of your 'Children's Favorites' album? My kids have worn out two of them."
"I'm glad to hear it," Rosemary said. "I can't get my kids to listen to it."
Edie, a most formidable candidate for the "Belle Poitrine" role in "Little Me" (also coveted by Dorothy Provine), has taken a small Greenwich Village apt., while keeping the California home. For her TV appearances, she has brought her own hairdresser from L.A. to do her "little boy look."
How, d'ya like this? Edie Fisher ran into Publicist Warren Cowan, husband of Barbara Rush, and said, "What's this I hear about you and Barbara having trouble?" Cowan assured him that their marriage was fine.
Kim Novak branded as completely phony the talk that Edie was trying to date her. "He has asked me in the past to have dinner with him," she said, "and Elizabeth."
A big doctor in Rome says Liz Taylor, emotionally upset, may at any time again get "food poisoning" if Richard Burton neglects her—so Mrs. B. is on a limb. If she makes Dickie give up Liz, then Liz may again go into the hospital, with "Cleo" unfinished. Spoiled brat Liz will probably get her way because the bankers just have to get the picture finished. We hope Dickie gets a lifetime contract and Sibyl gets a million $ for her patience. Or have the bankers thought of that?

Oscar 'Downright Dull'—Even Hope Can't Help It

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Just about everyone is agreed: Oscar needs a new act.
The question is, will he get it?
The answer is discouraging: Probably not.
None but the most simple-minded movie fan—and there aren't many around any more—would claim that Monday night's Oscar telecast was a good show.
Bob Hope tried vainly to keep it rolling. But even a master quipster can't breathe life into an over-burdened, poorly-conceived, downright dull show.
The telecast was 30 minutes old before the first award was handed out. And then he timing had lagged so far behind starts. The winners would be quickly announced at the start of the show.

2. The number of awards can be whittled down. Many categories have become outdated.
3. Top names must be coaxed into appearing.
4. Something should be done about the best-song category. With virtually no original musicals being made, nominees are largely title tunes, most of them dreadful.
5. Bob Hope should be retained as permanent emcee. Nobody can do it better. But he should be relieved of the impossible task of trying to keep an interminable show alive.
6. Wearing of tails by males should be forbidden.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he sends to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Yvonne Knieper, age 9, of Ypsilanti, Mich., for her question:

How Far Does the Earth Travel in a Day?

Our earth spins around its axis like a top. It takes about 24 hours, one day and night, to rotate around once. Colonel Glenn orbited around the globe three times in a few hours and he travelled much faster than the earth rotates on her axis. But the old earth has other travelling tricks, faster by far than an astronaut.

Once each year, our globe travels in an orbit around the sun. This big loop is a journey about 600 million miles long and the travelling speed is 18 1/2 miles a second. At this speed, our world and everything in it travels around the sun, 1,100 miles every minute of the day and night. Every hour we travel 66,660 miles with the world and each day's journey around the sun covers 1,589,400 miles.

The speed of the earth as it zooms around its orbit is not quite even. In July she travels a little faster and in January a little slower. But there is not much difference and throughout the year we can say that the distance travelled around the orbit in a 24-hour day is about one and a half million miles.

Colonel Glenn orbited the globe at around 17,500 miles an hour, which is more than 17 times faster than the earth spins on her axis. But at the same time, the earth was orbiting the sun almost four times faster than the astronaut was travelling. In the almost five hours that he was aloft, the globe, with everything on it plus the orbiting astronaut above it, was carried about 333,000 miles in the orbit path around the sun.

The sun carries the orbiting earth and other planets in an even faster journey. For the Solar System is travelling through the starry Galaxy at the breakneck speed of 170 miles a second.

Sun Fastest of All

The sun, along with the nearly orbiting planets, travels about 10,200 miles along this journey every minute and 612,000 miles every hour. In a 24-hour day, the earth travels more than 14,500,000 miles through the heavens. This fantastic speed is 10 times faster than the earth's orbit around the sun and about 35 times faster than Colonel Glenn's orbit around the globe.

On February 20, 1962, the astronaut orbited the globe three times in a little less than five hours. His long trip covered 51,000 miles at an average speed of 17,545 miles an hour. Meantime the earth at the equator traveled almost 5,000 miles and more than

TEEN-AGE CANADA

'Teen Girls Adopt a Child

By JACK HUTTON

Three ten-age girls in Toronto have a basic purpose behind their baby-sitting and occasional chores-for-pay this spring — they're adopting a child.

Thanks to their savings all winter, some Korean child will have food, clothing and a warm bed for the next year.

This week I had my eyes opened about the significant part Canadian teen-agers are playing in helping underprivileged youngsters through the Save The Children Fund.

No Thanks Needed

Said K. R. Marshall, national director for the STC: "We've got Boy Scout, Girl Guide and school groups helping us all across this country. And they rarely seem to want any public thanks."

The trio I first heard of (who modestly want no personal publicity) have been blitzing their block all winter, washing dishes, peeling potatoes, baby-sitting or any other chores that will get them closer to the goal of $60.

"The money," said Mr. Marshall, "will go to supplement a family's income in an underprivileged country. We take care of orphans through other programs, but this $60.

"The average income of the families we help, through this adoption program ranges from zero to $400. Just add $60 to that and you'll find it is very significant. It probably means the difference between going to school and not doing so."

"I spent two years in Korea and saw cases where mothers were literally starving themselves to raise the school fees for their children. Education is literally an obsession there."

How have teen-agers been raising their money to help? Some, said Mr. Marshall, have saved money through group efforts like the three Toronto teen-age girls.

School Play

A Western Canada school raised the money to "adopt" a child through a school play. An An-East Coast Scout group kept a little container in its meeting hall in which donors deposited their loose change.

What is the origin of the Save the Children Fund?

'You'll Swing for This'

The Farmer ... The Fox And the Duke

By EDDY GILMORE
BADMINTON, England—Gad sir, it's unthinkable—the Queen's prime horsemen ordered off the land with his fox hounds in full cry.

Unthinkable, but it happened.

The Duke of Beaufort, official master of the horse to the Queen, set off on horse, with 90 baying hounds about him.

At his place was the joint master of the famous Beaufort hunt, Maj. Gerald Grundy.

As they galloped across the duke's 17,000-acre estate they saw the canny fox head onto 50 acres owned by farmer Colin Robertson.

Maj. Grundy galloped after the fox. The duke charged after the major.

"Bang," went a shotgun.

Retiring Wednesday's incident to reporters, farmer Robertson said:

"I shot the fox. I had to put him out of misery. The dogs would have torn him to pieces in a moment."

SENDS DUKE HOME

"I told them to get off my land," said the farmer. "The duke told me not to be silly, but I got hold of the bridle of his horse and led him off. He wasn't very pleased."

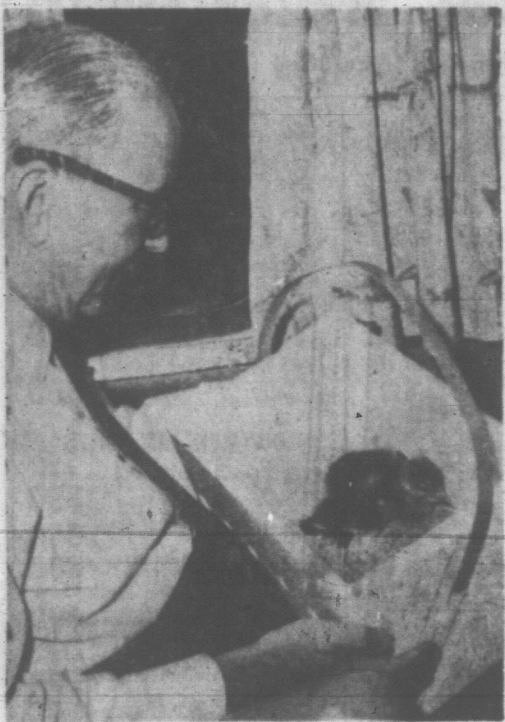

Robertson said the major shouted "you'll swing for this."

Said a spokesman for the British Field Sports Society: "It was terribly unnerving for the major."

The major's wife said: "It was all too awful. Too awful for him to talk about."

The incident over—but hardly closed—his grace rode back to his stately home, Badminton House, to greet the Queen, who will be his guest for the next three days.

The occasion is the annual Badminton horse trial, the great annual gathering of the horsey set.

Test Proposal Turned Down

GENEVA—Russia today proposed an unpolitical moratorium on nuclear weapons tests. Britain and the United States immediately turned down the proposal.

The two Western powers told the 11-nation general disarmament conference they could not trust the Soviet Union to observe such a moratorium.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin charged, the United States plan to resume atmospheric nuclear tests in mid-Pacific later this month is "increasing international tension."

The U.S. decision to test again came under heavy fire. Canada and Mexico were among those expressing regret.

Li-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, the Canadian delegate who presided at today's conference session, said "the hour is getting late" to prevent a new testing race. He urged a last-ditch effort to break the testing lock.

The smaller countries asked the nuclear powers to seek a compromise on the nuclear testing issue. They said any new explosions now would damage the chances of this conference ever attaining any fruitful results—a claim Zorin also picked up.

The United States has said Western security requires the Pacific tests unless the Soviet Union promptly accepts a test ban treaty containing adequate international enforcement arrangements. This the Russians have refused to do.

For more than three years the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union observed a moratorium on testing. That arrangement collapsed last fall when the Russians set off a massive series of explosions.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean and British Minister of State Joseph Gomer took the position that having been fooled once by Soviet promises their governments were not prepared to be fooled a second time.

Dean said that, with regret, "we do not have any confidence in a Soviet pledge." Gomer added that "no" when Zorin asked him if the British would accept a moratorium.

All the smaller nations at the conference showed varying degrees of displeasure with the big nuclear powers for failing to agree on a test ban treaty. This attitude was particularly marked among the eight middle group nations—Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic.

'Didn't Want to Tread on B.C.'s Toes'—Fulton

Cannot Predict End to Friction

HANNA, Alta. (CP)—Canada would have been better off with a Columbia River treaty drawn according to Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton's wishes, Justice Minister Fulton said Wednesday.

Mr. Fulton said in an interview that it was not possible to draw the treaty in the manner Gen. McNaughton desired without treading on British Columbia's toes.

The general, who retires at age 75 Sunday as head of the International Joint Commission that hammered out a Federal Justice Minister Fulton will make a public speech Friday at Sidney.

Mr. Fulton will open a new Federal Customs Building at the Sidney ferry terminal at 3 p.m.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will be among guests at the ceremony.

Columbia treaty, wanted a diversion of the Kootenay River included in the Canada-United States power development project, Mr. Fulton said. He said B.C. opposed the move because it conflicted with provincial interests in the development scheme.

Gen. McNaughton last week protested his retirement, saying he was being "forced out," and charged that Canadian interests had been sold down the river in the treaty negotiations. He said part of the blame should be placed on the dispute over the Columbia between B.C. and the federal government.

GENERAL UNHAPPY
Mr. Fulton, who led the Canadian delegation that settled terms of the treaty, said the general's charges probably were a result of his unhappiness about his retirement.

The political storm caused by Gen. McNaughton's remarks probably would not have any effect on the federal government's relationship with B.C. on the Columbia project, he said.

The B.C. government's stand on the Columbia had moderated recently, Mr. Fulton said, but it still was too early to predict an end to the friction.

Mr. Fulton declined to predict whether the federal government would make concessions to British Columbia because the new position of the province had not yet been fully analyzed.

Mr. Fulton was in Hanna, 100 miles northeast of Calgary, during a nomination meeting that gave Jack Horner, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Acadia, a chance to defend his seat in the next election.

Welfare research grants would be made available on a non-matching basis while the general welfare and professional training grants will mainly be on a matching basis with the provinces.

NEW MEASURE
"Nothing like this has ever been done in Canada before and I hope that there will be discussions with provincial authorities in the near future with a view to obtaining their full cooperation in an endeavor which I believe will strengthen tremendously Canada's welfare efforts," Mr. Monteith said.

Mr. Monteith said the grant for general welfare and professional training will start at a level of $450,000 for the 1962-63 fiscal year and increase at a rate of $450,000 annually for five years, reaching $2,250,000 by 1966-67. The welfare research grant will begin at a level of $50,000 in 1962-63 and increase at a rate of $50,000 annually for five years, reaching $250,000 in 1966-67.

Under the congress constitution, the penalty could be suspension from the CLC and possibly expulsion of a vote of the CLC convention under way here.

So far the charge of policy violation has not been acted on by the executive council of the congress.

The issue was expected to come before the convention

'BREAKTHROUGH'

Welfare Grants Boosted

OTTAWA (CP)—A new program of federal welfare grants designed to help overcome major deficiencies in Canada's network of welfare services was announced in the Commons today by Health Minister Monteith.

The minister said in a statement that the move represents "a new breakthrough in Canada's welfare system."

He said that by 1967 the grants will result in the channelling of $2,500,000 annually in federal funds in the fields of general welfare, professional training and research.

Mr. Monteith said he has written provincial ministers in charge of welfare informing them of the government's decision.

Price Rollback Aim of U.S. Steel Probes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration today whipped up two congressional investigations and a price-fixing probe in swift counterblows at the steel industry's price increase.

Court action against steel-makers also was a possibility.

Spurred by President Kennedy's scathing assault on what he called the "wholly unjustifiable and irresponsible" act of "a tiny handful of steel executives," the administration and Democratic legislators set out to:

1. Force a rollback, if possible, of the $6-a-ton boost posted Tuesday by U.S. steel corporation and adopted with alacrity by its biggest competitors.

2. Discourage a similar price increase in aluminum, steel's chief competitor, now that steel has opened the breach in Kennedy's program of voluntary stabilization.

3. Pave the way for possible legislation giving the government a stronger hand in its wage-setting and price-fixing processes.

4. Retain, if possible, the co-operation of labor in the anti-inflation drive by showing that the administration meant business in demanding the same restraint of management as it asked of unions.

5. Expose the price increase—termed by U.S. steel a modest "catch-up adjustment"—but denounced by Kennedy as a ruthless profit grab—to such pitiless scrutiny and publicity as might deter other firms and industries.

ATTACKS INCREASE
With no voluntary price rollback expected from big steel, attention shifted to:

Congress, which rang Wednesday with bi-partisan attacks on the price rise, and where two steel investigations were quickly scheduled.

The government's watchdog agencies of monopoly, the Justice department and the Federal Trade Commission.

Attorney-General Kennedy said court action is one of several approaches on which the Justice department is already at work. Presumably he referred to price-fixing charges.

The FTC said it is investigating, among other things, whether any companies have violated a 1951 consent order prohibiting steel price-fixing conspiracies.

More than 70 major steel corporations agreed in that case to refrain from price-fixing, although none admitted FTC's charge that they had done so.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean and British Minister of State Joseph Gomer took the position that having been fooled once by Soviet promises their governments were not prepared to be fooled a second time.

Dean said that, with regret, "we do not have any confidence in a Soviet pledge." Gomer added that "no" when Zorin asked him if the British would accept a moratorium.

Intelligence Major Slain
By Assassin in Algiers

ALGIERS (Reuters)—A French Army intelligence major was assassinated in Algiers Wednesday night, an army communique disclosed today.

Maj. Marcel Bourgonne was shot down as he was returning home. Witnesses said a young European opened fire on the major as he was walking near the European working-class quarter of Bab el Oued. The gunman got away in a waiting car, they said.

The gunman had hidden in a doorway, shooting the major twice at point-blank range and opening fire again after Bourgonne collapsed, the witnesses said.

Welsh Mine Explosion Kills Nine

ABERDARE, Wales (Reuters)—Nine men were killed and nine injured today when an explosion hit a coal mine near here.

Two of the dead were the chairman and secretary of the local mine union on a routine inspection of working conditions.

The explosion 1,200 feet underground hit 20 men who were having a mid-morning tea break about a half-mile from the other 400 miners in the pit.

Gas in a nine-foot seam ignited, shooting flames along the underground tunnels.

It was Britain's second mining disaster within a month. Nineteen men were killed and 36 injured in an explosion March 22 in the Hapton Valley colliery, in northwest England.

Socialite's Death In New York Probed

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry Ogden Phipps, 31, son of socially prominent Ogden Phipps and Mrs. Marshall Field III, was found dead Wednesday in a Manhattan hotel suite under what police called mysterious circumstances.

An autopsy was ordered. Phipps' body—which bore no marks of violence—was found in an eighth-floor suite of the Hamilton Hotel on West 73rd Street. He registered there last Feb. 13. Phipps had an apartment only several blocks away on Central Park West.

The dead man's father, a horse breeder and owner, is vice-chairman of the Jockey Club. His grandmother is Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps, owner of the famed Wheatley racing stable.

Mrs. Marshall Field III, the former Ruth Pruyn Phipps, is the third wife of the heir to the department store fortune and founder of the Chicago Sun. The Chicago Sun-Times and Chicago Daily News is Field's son by his first marriage. Marshall Field III died in 1956.

In a clash with Moslem insurgent forces in the Doui Mountains, western Algeria, an army spokesman said in Algiers.

Three separate attacks in Algiers this morning claimed two dead and one wounded, all Moslems.

A strike in protest against police searches ended today after paralyzing Oran for 24 hours.

CANADIAN CAR PRICES LIKELY TO INCREASE

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian automobile manufacturers said today it is too early to predict the effects of steel price increases by United States suppliers.

They said, however, that any material cost increase is eventually reflected in the car-market price.

Indications from Canada's Big Three car manufacturers are that the cost of automobiles will go up next year if U.S. President Kennedy is unable to force a roll-back of the $6-a-ton increase announced Tuesday.

PM Due Here On April 28

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected in Victoria April 28.

The visit will come in the midst of a flurry of local election activity with nomination of a Victoria Conservative candidate on April 26.

Local Tory officials said today they expect the prime minister to make a public speech here, but no definite arrangements have yet been made.

Mr. Diefenbaker will make a major public speech on April 27 at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver.

If his federal election campaign is not already under way by then, he is expected to launch it on the west coast as he did in 1957, when the Tories first swept back to power.

The prime minister originally planned to visit Victoria for the quarterly meeting of the B.C. Conservative party executive.

This meeting has now been shifted to Vancouver, but he is still expected here afterwards.

The Victoria nominating convention is planned at 8 p.m. April 26 in the Britannia Branch Legion auditorium.

Victoria's present M.P., DeB. McPhillips, will run again. Also seeking the nomination is W. C. Gelling, former chairman of the Greater Victoria school board.

As Main Base

VANCOUVER (CP)—Opening of the Rogers Pass through the Selkirk Mountains this summer—providing a all-Canadian road route to the Prairies to the coast—will make Calgary the hub of Western Canada's multi-million dollar trucking industry.

That was the opinion expressed by leading truckers who have their headquarters here. One firm, Canadian Freightways, already has announced Calgary will become its home base after opening the new Rogers Pass route in July. Others are reportedly considering a similar move.

WANTS FACTS. Business Week contacted the New York investment banking firm of B. J. Van Ingen and Co. Inc.—one of the firms which the premier stated in the legislature was willing to finance the Peace—and received the comment that the firm is interested but that it wants to get the facts before making any decision.

How completely factual the Business Week article may be is impossible to tell, although obviously there must be some guess work involved. The most disturbing is the basic fact that the magazine adopted by a magazine which is the leader in its field with a circulation deliberately restricted to the top man-ment level in business, industry and finance.

Like the scathing front-page article in Barron's at the time of the BCE takeover along with editorials in the Wall Street Journal and the American press in general, Business Week has contributed to a public image of the U.S. of B.C. as a dictatorial, capitalist-minded

Many Popular Songs 'Immoral Suggestive Trash,' Say Churchwomen

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Many popular songs heard on radio and TV are "immoral suggestive trash of the worst kind," a women's conference on teenage problems was told here Wednesday afternoon.

"They are a bad influence on our teenagers," said Mrs. C. Rientjes of Vancouver, addressing the eighth convention of the Southwestern B.C. Christian Reformed Women's League in First Baptist Church.

"Some popular songs are good—but many of them are immoral suggestive trash. I think we should teach our children to discriminate between the good and the bad."

Mrs. Rientjes—one of a panel of four speakers—said many TV programs present "violence and immorality" as a normal way of life. She referred to "The Untouchables" as an example of violence, but said "some of the immoral sex pictures we see are far worse."

She appealed to parents to restrain their youngsters

from watching undesirable programs, and Mrs. V. Vander-Beek, moderator of the panel, added:

"TV is not a baby sitter and should not be used as such."

More than 500 women from many parts of Vancouver Island and the mainland, and some from the United States, took part in the one-day conference—the first to be held in Victoria.

Many were critical of "teen-age dating, especially going steady."

"Going steady should definitely be discouraged," said Mrs. Rientjes. "Youngsters who do this are missing a lot of fun at a time when they should be cultivating friendships and learning what they are looking for in their life partner."

"It is our duty as parents to watch teen-age dating. We have to decide if our children are emotionally stable and, when there is dating, it should be kept within our own social and church groups."

Parents, she said, should also be concerned about how their children spend money.

"Because young people earn their own money they should not be allowed to spend it unwisely—and they should be required to save part of what they earn."

"Why do teenagers want so much noise on radio and TV while they are doing their homework?" asked one of the delegates.

"Perhaps because they live in a noisy world," answered panellist Mrs. C. Tuininga of Ladner. "But I think they can be persuaded to turn on the right kind of music while they are working."

Mrs. Tuininga urged parents to support the authority of school teachers. They should explain to their children that all authority comes from God; but this authority is delegated to parents and teachers.

"Their duty, in turn, is to teach children to discipline themselves. Because of this lack of self-discipline, there is an increasing lack of respect for law and order all over the world."

Mrs. R. Popma, wife of the minister of the First Christian Reformed Church in Victoria, said obedience instilled in children in the early years probably stays with them as teenagers.

"But we must be prepared to reason with teenagers," she added. "They are in the process of growing up and

Mrs. H. Van Andel from New Westminster said the churches have the responsibility of providing teenagers with social activities that will keep them interested.

"We must be able to appeal to their interests."

Most of the 500 delegates to the conference travelled to Victoria in 11 motor buses via the B.C. government ferry service and returned Wednesday evening after a sight-seeing tour of Greater Victoria.

"It has been a wonderful experience," smiled Mrs. J. Van Laere of Burnaby, current president of the Southwestern B.C. Christian Reformed Women's League.

The delegates were welcomed here by Rev. R. Popma, minister of the First Christian Reformed Church, 661 Agnes Street, Victoria, and two local board members—Mrs. R. Zeilstra and Mrs. J. Stad.

Most members of the B.C. League are married women of Dutch descent, but Christian women of all nationalities are welcomed.

"We had the conference in First Baptist Church because our own church is not large enough," Mr. Popma said.

He added that the church originated in Holland in 1618 after the Reformation and was founded in North America at Grand Rapids, Mich., about 100 years ago.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Queen Elizabeth has given permission for Victoria to include a crown in its proposed coat of arms.

Lt. Cmdr. Alan B. Beddoe, of Cyrville, Ont., sent a progress report to the city Wednesday. He drafted the original design and arranged for its submission to the College of Heraldry in London.

The McKenzie Avenue PTA will meet on Monday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. A film demonstrating mouth-to-mouth resuscitation will be shown.

The Belmont High School PTA is having its annual bazaar at Belmont Secondary School on Friday. A variety concert will be given starting at 7:30 p.m., with an admission price of 35 cents. The bazaar will officially open at the end of the concert.

A report in Wednesday's Times stated the address of Sheelagh McBratney—sentenced Tuesday to three months in prison for shoplifting—as 315 Maitland.

McBratney moved from that address some time ago, the present occupant said today.

City council today was caught in a cold war between two ice cream retailers.

J. C. Heaven, manager of Taste-Free (Shelbourne) Ltd., applied for a trades licence to operate a mobile soft ice cream unit on city streets.

The application was strongly opposed by Hillside and Douglas Street Dairy Queen operators who pointed out that a mobile unit, unlike their establishments, could escape paying property taxes.

The city does not permit the mobile units at present but Esquimalt does.

Most likely action by aldermen was to refer the issue to a committee for study.

School board and Kiwanis Club officials have agreed to postpone an "Elmer the Elephant" school safety campaign until fall when the new school year begins.

The campaign is in the form of inter-form competition with awards going to accident-free grades.

A former Victoria resident, Brian Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Johnson, 1766 Haultain, has been given a United States national architectural design award.

A pupil at the Art Centre in Los Angeles, the 30-year-old former RCAF navigator received a certificate, $125 and an expense-paid three-day trip to Miami.

He attended Oaklands and Victoria High schools before going to Victoria College.

Guest conductor of the Victoria Concert Orchestra on Tuesday evening at a concert given in the Royal Jubilee Hospital was Dr. Raymond Loffner.

The orchestra was organized in 1960 by Raymond Loffner.

Victoria Lions Club will hold a nominating meeting at a luncheon at noon on Friday in the Empress Hotel.

North Saanich Area Facing $306,000 Bylaw for Schools

Saanich peninsula ratepayers are expected to go to the polls sometime in May to vote on a $306,000 school building bylaw.

The building program was presented Wednesday night to a meeting of representatives of local councils and ratepayers' groups. It includes:

—Purchase of a four-acre site adjacent to Keating Elementary School for construction of a new four-room school. Three of the rooms are cov-

Crisis Threatens Tourist Industry

British Columbia's tourist industry faces a major crisis over the threatened failure of its Expo-Lodging Tourist Accommodation service linking Victoria and Vancouver and Seattle, leading tourist officials said here today.

They estimate at least $14,000 is needed to continue the Expo-Lodging Centre in Victoria—and the Vancouver centre is also short of funds. Directors of Victoria Chamber of Commerce will discuss the crisis at their monthly meeting in the Empress Hotel Friday at noon, and will consider seeking grants from the B.C. government and the municipalities.

The B.C. Chamber of Commerce has also called an emergency meeting of its executive in Vancouver.

Two Youths Sentenced To Oakalla

Two youths convicted last week of attempting to break and enter the premises of a Government Street auto equipment dealer were today sent to the Young Offenders Unit at Oakalla.

Walter Graham, 851 Short, was sentenced to one year definite and six months indefinite, and Bruce Tennant, 7656 Wallace Drive, received nine months definite and six months indefinite.

The youths were found late at night behind the premises of Jeffree and Jeffree, 2507 Government.

"There is still time for you to reform and make yourselves into good citizens," Magistrate William Ostler told them. Graham, he said, suffered a conflict between "good intentions and bad associations" and the latter had been winning. He said Tennant had "been wandering around getting into trouble."

WILL THEY BAT IT FOUL?

A petition by 42 persons opposing a change in the name of Foul Bay Road was to be considered by city council today.

Aldermen previously approved in principle changing the road's name to University Way providing Oak Bay council agreed.

Since then, a storm of controversy has arisen against the change, with residents on the road in the forefront. Petitions also have been sent to Oak Bay council.

Most likely upshot is thought to be a compromise under which Foul Bay Road would be retained from Gonzales Beach to Fort Street with the remainder being changed to University Way along with portions of Henderson and Finnerty.

MOTORIST FINED

Tinkering With Meter Costs $50

A car salesman who wanted to save himself the expense of putting a few coins in a parking meter wound up with a hefty fine in city police court today.

William Burrows, 4051 Shelbourne, was fined $50 for inserting an object other than a Canadian or U.S. coin into a city parking meter.

Court was told Burrows was seen putting a small nail file into the coin slot of a meter on the north side of Yates Street between Vancouver and Quadra Streets.

"The purpose of this action," prosecutor Angus Smith explained, "was to prevent the meter's spring. If this is done while there is time still showing on the meter it will stay like that all day—there isn't enough power left to raise the red expiration flag."

Mr. Smith said city officials had noticed recently that a number of meters along the same stretch of road had not been providing the normal amount of revenue.

"It's extremely dishonest of you—do you make a practise of doing this?" Magistrate Ostler asked Burrows.

"It's the first time," the salesman replied.

PIGEONS RACING

Lots of Birds To Follow To Victoria

There must have been many a would-be tourist in summers past who has scanned the skies in vain for birds to follow to Victoria.

This summer, however, Victoria-bound visitors will be able to make use of any number of flights from various B.C. centres.

That gargantuan gull so often depicted on travel posters to the contrary notwithstanding, this year's birds will be pigeons.

Members of the Capital City Racing Pigeon Club have built a truck by themselves in which they propose to transport their birds to various towns in the province for release as part of the annual racing schedule. Presumably the pigeons will be able to find their way back to the Island from centres as far afield as Kamloops. Some may be persuaded to make the flight from Edmonton.

HOME RUNS

Local tourist officials are hoping that prospective visitors will take advantage of the periodic "home runs" to spend a few days in Victoria.

In fact, so enthusiastic is the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau that it has given its blessing to the program and its approval of a four by five foot sign on the home-made truck bearing the traditional slogan "Follow the Birds to Victoria."

It is hoped that some pigeons will accompany the premier, the mayor, and other "civic and business" leaders if and when they go to the Seattle World Fair for "Victoria Day," Sept. 10.

NOT THIS TIME

It is not expected that either the premier or the mayor will make the trip to Seattle in the pigeon van.

The premier, in particular, has always been one to cry "Smear!" at the slightest provocation. In any case, the birds would be "liberated" at the fair, and it is hoped they would bring many tourists home with them.

The racing club will leave for its summer program and other B.C. centres on Saturday, May 5. Some 200 birds will take part in the races.

Police Lose Bid For 9% Raise

Plaza Builders Plan Centre On Shelbourne

Town and Country Shopping Plaza developers plan to establish a smaller shopping centre at Hillside near Shelbourne.

An application by Dominion Construction Co. of Vancouver to rezone two large lots at Hillside and Shakespeare was to be considered by city council today.

It is understood the proposal involves construction of a 20,000-square-foot super market, six smaller stores and a parking lot for about 200 cars.

Proposed location is part of the site originally planned for the multi-million-dollar Hillside Shopping Plaza which never got beyond the preliminary planning stage.

Dominion Construction's proposal follows by a few days the announcement of a $6,000,000 shopping centre development including a Woodward's department store on the Baker Brick and Tile property on Douglas at Tolmie.

Planning Board Bucks Park Plan

More blows fell today on a proposal to develop a medieval amusement park at the city-owned Gorge Park.

The influential Capital Region Planning Board issued a four-page report strongly opposing use of park land for the commercial venture.

The Vancouver promoters of the scheme, Sherwood Forest Parklands Ltd., are having difficulty in making financial arrangements satisfactory to the city as well as meeting opposition to their choice of site.

The University Women's Club, Council of Women, Dogwood Social Credit Women's Auxiliary, Victoria Natural History Society and various individuals have opposed the proposal.

They contend that if a tourist attraction is to be erected in the park area, it should be a model Indian village operated by the nearby Songhees tribe.

WOULD BE LOST

The CFPE warned that the 11-acre city woodland at Tillamook and Gorge Road—would be lost to local citizens if allowed to develop into a commercial venture.

It pointed out that 3,500 persons—including 500 senior citizens and 1,000 children—live within half a mile of the park and there is no other significant park available in the district.

The park, with 1,000 feet of waterfront opposite the well-known reversing falls in the Gorge, would be a keystone public area in any future development of the Gorge waterway as suggested for a 1967 national centennial project.

B.C. Hospital Official Takes Post at UBC

Appointment of Lloyd F. Detwiler, assistant deputy minister of the B.C. Hospitals Insurance Service, to the staff of the University of British Columbia, was announced today by President N. A. M. MacKenzie.

Dr. MacKenzie said Mr. Detwiler will act as consultant to the university on planning of the UBC health sciences centre and hospital, and will become administrator of the hospital when it is constructed.

Mr. Detwiler, the president said, has had a distinguished career in economics and hospital administration.

"We feel we are fortunate in obtaining the services of one who knows the hospital field so well," he said. "His previous experience will be of great benefit in the planning and operation of our university hospital."

DEGREE IN 1939

Mr. Detwiler received his B.A. degree from UBC in 1939 with honors in economics and government. He was awarded his master's degree the following year with first-class honors in economics and statistics.

Following service from 1940 to 1945 with the Royal Canadian Air Force, Mr. Detwiler lectured at UBC before joining the provincial government as a research statistician in the treasury department.

From 1948 to 1950 he was commissioner of sales tax and from 1950 until 1954 he served as commissioner of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

In 1955 Mr. Detwiler left government service to take post-graduate work in the field of hospital administration at the universities of Minnesota and California.

During residency at the University of California medical centre he served as assistant administrator at the university hospital. He was awarded the degree of master of hospital administration by Minnesota in 1957. The same year he returned to B.C. to assume the post of assistant deputy minister of hospital insurance.

The UBC health sciences centre will embrace the university hospital, the faculties of medicine, dentistry and pharmacy, and the schools of nursing and rehabilitation medicine.

Given Same As Other Civic Unions

City policemen's union lost its bid for a 9 per cent wage increase, it was learned today.

An arbitration board gave the police only a 4 per cent wage hike—the same amount the union had rejected during negotiations with city police commission.

The award handed down by the three-man board will add about $24,000 to a $650,000 wage bill for the 100-member force—about $30,000 less than the policemen's demand would have cost.

$474 BASIC

It raised the basic pay scale—for first class constable—from the present $456 a month to $474. The police union had sought $497 for this group.

The binding decision keeps the police in line with the other three civic unions, representing some 500 persons in the fire-fighting force, "inside" and "outside" staffs.

All four unions this year opened negotiations asking for 3 per cent wage increases. The city's counter-offer to all was 3 per cent and this was raised finally to 4 per cent along with an improvement in annual holidays.

Only the police rejected the settlement and asked for an arbitration board.

BOARD MEMBERS

The board, which held a one-day hearing at the department of labor offices here, was headed by Vancouver lawyer, R. G. Herbert; commission-nominee was Col. A. D. Murdoch of Victoria and union-nominee was Paul Payne of Vancouver.

Arguing the commission's case was E. E. Pearman of Victoria. Representing the union was Owen Mason of Vancouver.

17-Year-Old Admits Guilt

A 17-year-old youth pleaded guilty in Oak Bay and city police courts today to six charges of theft and one of attempted breaking and entering.

Lewis Patrick Steven, 1922 Leighton, was remanded to April 19 for probation report and sentence by Magistrate William Ostler.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. In a court of law in Russia what would they do instead of swearing on the Bible before giving testimony?—M.T.

A. In the People's Court of Russia, they would have three judges, one of whom is professional, being elected for a period of three years by the voters of the district. On either side of him sit two lay judges chosen for their character and common sense. They are changed after sitting 12 days on the bench.

Once the accused is brought before him, the professional judge says: "Do you challenge any member of this Court?" His second question is: "Do you have confidence in the judges to give you a fair trial?" Then the formal act of accusation is read to the defendant by the prosecutor and from there they proceed to develop the case.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve mathematical or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Dagg Upsets Richardson Rink

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lynn Dagg of Vancouver, a former British Columbia curling champion, scored an upset 7-5 victory over three-time world champion Ernie Richardson of Regina in elimination rounds of the spring curling bonspiel here today.

It was the Richardson rink's first defeat in the double-knockout tournament.

Dagg, who lost 15-8 to Howie Christopherson of Vancouver Monday, also has one loss in the bonspiel.

CLC Facing Major Crisis

Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—Hard on the heels of refusal to pay per capita dues to the Canadian Congress of Labor by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners today came a report that delegates from the Building Trades Unions were ready to march out.

Labor observers saw in the moves the greatest crisis faced by the Congress since it was established in 1956.

10 Years for Alleged Drug 'Kingpin'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Frederick Evans, 30, described by the crown as a kingpin in the narcotic racket in Greater Vancouver, today was sentenced to 10 years for possession of drugs for the purpose of trafficking.

Special prosecutor Gerald Coultas had asked in suburban Burnaby police court that a maximum penalty for life in prison be given to Evans.

He said Evans was a kingpin in the drug market who did not use narcotics and whose only motive was gain.

TRACY, Que. (CP)—Four men were seriously injured today in a riot involving 1,500 members of rival unions at a steel construction site in Tracy, 40 miles northwest of Montreal.

Socialite's Death
In New York Probed

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry Ogden Phipps, 31, son of socially prominent Ogden Phipps and Mrs. Marshall Field III, was found dead Wednesday in a Manhattan hotel suite under what police called mysterious circumstances.

An autopsy was ordered.

Phipps' body—which bore no marks of violence—was found in an eighth-floor suite of the Hamilton Hotel on West 73rd Street. He registered there last Feb. 15. Phipps had an apartment only several blocks away on Central Park West.

The dead man's father, a horse breeder and owner, is vice-chairman of the Jockey Club. His grandmother is Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps, owner of the famed Wheatley racing stable.

Mrs. Marshall Field III, the former Ruth Pruyn Phipps, is the third wife of the heir to the department store fortune and founder of the Chicago Sun. The Marshall Field who publishes the Chicago Sun-Times and Chicago Daily News is Field's son by his first marriage. Marshall Field III died in 1956.

Welsh Mine Explosion Kills 9

ABERDARE, Wales (Reuters)—Nine men were killed and nine injured today when an explosion hit a coal mine near here.

Two of the dead were the chairman and secretary of the local mine union on a routine inspection of working conditions.

The explosion 1,200 feet underground hit 20 men who were having a mid-morning tea break about a half-mile from the other 400 miners in the pit.

Gas in a mine-tunnel ignited, shooting flames along the underground tunnels.

It was Britain's second mining disaster within a month. Nineteen men were killed and 36 injured in an explosion March 22 in the Hapton Valley colliery, in northwest England.

'You'll Swing for This'

The Farmer

And the Duke

By EDDY GILMORE
BADMINTON, England
God sir, it's unthinkable—the Queen's prime horsemen or hounds in full cry.

Unthinkable, but it happened.

The Duke of Beaufort, official master of the horse to the Queen, set off on horse, with 90 buying hounds about him.

At his right was the joint master of the famous Beaufort hunt, Maj. Gerald Grundy.

As they galloped across the duke's 17,000-acre estate they saw the canny fox head into 60 acres owned by farmer Colin Robertson.

Maj. Grundy galloped after the fox. The duke charged after the major.

"Bang," went a shotgun.

Relating Wednesday's incident to reporters, farmer Robertson said:

"I shot the fox. I had to put him out of misery. The dog would have torn him to pieces in a moment."

SENDS DUKE HOME

"I told them to see on the land," said the farmer. "The duke told me not to be silly, but I got hold of the bridle of his horse and led him off. He wasn't very pleased."

Robertson said the major shouted "you'll swing for this."

Said a spokesman for the British Field Sports Society: "It was terribly upsetting for the major."

The major's wife said: "It was all too awful. Too awful for him to talk about."

The incident over—but hardly closed—his grace rode back to his stately home, Badminton House, to greet the Queen, who will be his guest for the next three days.

The occasion is the annual Badminton horse trial, the great annual gathering of the horse set.

FULTON SAYS:

HANNA, Alta. (CP)—Canada would have been better off with a Columbia River treaty drawn according to Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton's wishes, Justice Minister Fulton said Wednesday.

'BREAKTHROUGH'

Welfare
Grants Boosted

OTTAWA (CP)—A new program of federal welfare grants designed to help overcome major deficiencies in Canada's network of welfare services was announced in the Commons today by Health Minister Monteith.

The minister said in a statement that the move represents "a new breakthrough in Canada's welfare system."

He said that by 1967 the grants will result in the channeling of $2,500,000 annually in federal funds in the fields of general welfare, professional training and research.

Mr. Monteith said he has written provincial ministers in charge of welfare informing them of the government's decision.

Welfare research grants would be made available on a non-matching basis while the general welfare and professional training grants will mainly be on a matching basis with the provinces.

NEW MEASURE

"Nothing like this has ever been done in Canada before and I hope that there will be discussions with provincial authorities in the near future with a view to obtaining their full cooperation in the new welfare efforts," Mr. Monteith said.

Mr. Monteith said the grant for general welfare and professional training will start at a level of $450,000 for the 1962-63 fiscal year and increase at a rate of $450,000 annually for five years, reaching $2,250,000 by 1966-67. The welfare research grant will begin at a level of $50,000 in 1962-63 and increase at a rate of $50,000 annually for five years, reaching $250,000 in 1966-67.

Federal Justice Minister Fulton will make a public speech Friday at Sidney.

Mr. Fulton will open a new Federal Customs Building at the Sidney ferry terminal at 5 p.m.

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes will be among guests at the ceremony.

Columbia treaty, wanted a diversion of the Kootenay River included in the Canada-United States power development project, Mr. Fulton said.

He said B.C. opposed the move because it conflicted with provincial interests in the development scheme.

Gen. McNaughton last week protested his retirement, saying he was being "forced out," and charged that Canadian interests had been sold down the river in the treaty negotiations.

He said part of the blame should be placed on the dispute over the Columbia between B.C. and the federal government.

GENERAL UNHAPPY

Mr. Fulton, who led the Canadian delegation that settled terms of the treaty, said the general's charges probably were a result of his unhappiness about his retirement.

The political storm caused by Gen. McNaughton's remarks probably would not have any effect on the federal government's relationship with B.C. on the Columbia project, he said.

The B.C. government's stand on the Columbia had moderated recently, Mr. Fulton said, but it still was too early to predict an end to the friction.

Mr. Fulton declined to predict whether the federal government would make concessions to British Columbia because the new position of the province had not yet been fully analyzed.

Mr. Fulton was in Hanna, 100 miles northeast of Calgary, during a nomination meeting that gave Jack Horner, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Acadia, a chance to defend his seat in the next election.

PM Due Here
On April 28

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is expected in Victoria April 28.

The visit will come in the midst of a flurry of local election activity with nomination of a Victoria Conservative candidate on April 26.

Local Tory officials said today they expect the prime minister to make a public speech here, but no definite arrangements have yet been made.

Mr. Diefenbaker will make a major public speech on April 27 at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver.

If his federal election campaign is not already under way by then, he is expected to launch it on the west coast as he did in 1957, when the Tories first swept back to power.

The prime minister originally planned to visit Victoria for the quarterly meeting of the B.C. Conservative party executive.

This meeting has now been shifted to Vancouver, but he is still expected here afterwards.

The Victoria nominating convention is planned at 8 p.m. April 26 in the Britannia Branch Legion auditorium.

Victoria's present M.P., A. DeB. McPhillips, will run again. Also seeking the nomination is W. C. Gelling, former chairman of the Greater Victoria school board.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A special vice-presidential committee of the Canadian Labor Congress today cited the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners for violation of CLC policy.

Under the congress constitution, the penalty could be suspension from the CLC and possibly expulsion of a vote of the CLC convention under way here.

So far the charge of policy violation has not been acted on by the executive council of the congress.

The issue was expected to come before the convention later today.

Three Probes
Under Way

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration today whipped up two congressional investigations and a price-fixing probe in swift counterblows at the steel industry's price increase.

Court action against steel-makers also was a possibility.

Spurred by President Kennedy's scathing assault on what he called the "holly unjustifiable and irresponsible" act of "a tiny handful of steel executives," the administration and Democratic legislators set out to:

1. Force a rollback, if possible, of the $6-a-ton boost posted Tuesday by U.S. steel corporation and adopted with alacrity by its biggest competitors.

2. Discourage a similar price increase in aluminum, steel's chief competitor, now that steel has opened the breach in Kennedy's program of voluntary stabilization.

3. Pave the way for possible legislation giving the government a stronger hand in its wage-setting and price-fixing processes.

4. Retain, if possible, the co-operation of labor in the anti-inflation drive by showing that the administration meant business in demanding the same restraint of management as it asked of unions.

5. Expose the price increase—termed by U.S. Steel a modest "catch-up adjustment"—but denounced by Kennedy as a ruthless profit grab—to such pitiless scrutiny and publicity as might deter other firms and industries.

ATTACKS INCREASE

With no voluntary price rollback expected from big steel, attention shifted to:

Congress, which rang Wednesday with bi-partisan attacks on the price rise, and where two steel investigations were quickly scheduled.

The government's watchdog agencies of monopoly, the justice department and the Federal Trade Commission.

Attorney General Kennedy said court action is one of several approaches on which the justice department is already at work. Presumably he referred to price-fixing charges.

The FTC said it is investigating, among other things, whether any companies have violated a 1951 consent order prohibiting steel price-fixing conspiracies.

More than 70 major steel corporations agreed in that case to refrain from price-fixing, although none admitted FTC's charge that they had done so.

Should the commission find evidence of collusion now, it would ask a federal court to invoke any of several penalties. The toughest would be a $5,000 a day fine for each offence. FTC views each sale at a conspiracy-fixed price as a separate offence.

In Congress today the Republican leadership charged that spending by the Kennedy administration—rather than a rise in steel prices—poses the biggest danger of inflation.

Democrats rallied quickly to the president, denouncing steel's action.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Roger M. Blough, chairman of the board of U.S. Steel today defended the industry's action in raising prices and said that his corporation was just as deeply concerned with the welfare, strength and vitality of the nation as was President Kennedy.

Replying to the president's accusations that U.S. Steel and other major producers had shown "irresponsible defiance" of the public interest, Blough told a news conference that the decision to raise the steel prices had been taken to discharge responsibilities both to its stockholders and employees and to the citizens of the nation.

Blough said that he did not wish to add "to acrimony or misunderstanding."

"We do not question the sincerity of anyone who disagrees with the action we have taken," he said.

"Neither do we believe that anyone can properly assume that we are less concerned with the welfare, the strength and the vitality of this nation than are those who have criticized our action."

CANADIAN CAR
TO INCREASE

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian automobile manufacturers said today it is too early to predict the effects of steel price increases by United States suppliers.

They said, however, that any material cost increase is eventually reflected in the car market price.

Indications from Canada's Big Three car manufacturers are that the cost of automobiles will go up next year if U.S. President Kennedy is unable to force a rollback of the $6-a-ton increase announced Tuesday.
